JOHNSON TELLS INDUSTRY PLAN TO HELP TRADE

Sees Way to Whip Depression.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—In an interview of extraordinary frankness, Hugh S. Johnson, administrator for the new national recovery administration, tonight expounded, in a new way, the old socialistic theory for redistribution of wealth.

The way out of the depression, said Mr. Johnson, who this week will begin holding public hearings on the pacts to control various industries, is to divide up the buying power among our 125 million people.

He found that the depression was caused by too much of profit going to build factories and too little to permitting people to buy the products of factories already existent.

Mr. Johnson wants everybody in the United States to be able to buy "half a dollar's worth of ham and eggs for breakfast." The rich man, he said, can't eat forty dollars' worth of ham and eggs.

Gives Views on Hours.

Besides outlining his theory of restoring purchasing power by dividing up hours of work and paying higher wages for the shorter working time, Mr. Johnson revealed his opinion as to how short a work week should be and how high the lowest worker should be paid.

Without desiring to commit himself as to any basis for future decisions, Mr. Johnson said that under present conditions "an average of about thirty-two hours a week at not less than 45 cents an hour for the lowest paid type of workers would do the job."

This would fix a minimum wage at $14.40. The cotton textile industry has submitted a code, on which hearings will start Tuesday, proposing a minimum wage of $10 weekly in the south and $11 in the north.

Speaking in characteristic forceful, wise cracking manner, Mr. Johnson invited all of industry to take advantage of the industry control act to whip the nation out of depression.

"Mockery of Common Sense."

Discussing the causes of the economic slough, Mr. Johnson said, "The spiteful thing about the miserable three years' blight on happiness is its mockery of our common sense—millions homeless in cities of vacant houses, ill fed before full granaries, ill clothed in the presence of abundance and cut off from the chance to work for the other millions who are suffering for want of their services."

"It doesn't make sense!" Mr. Johnson exclaimed. "It is like a fairy book story of a spell cast by black magic over the palace of some sleeping beauty. In this hard boiled age we don't believe in witches and we can't excuse ourselves out of fairy books."

Proposing to "hack our way out of this trouble," Mr. Johnson said the national recovery act was intended to accomplish this purpose.

"The whole thing," Mr. Johnson declared, "simmers down to the job of keeping the purchasing power of workers in step with the price and quantity of the things they make. Wages, prices, and production—these are the three causes of good or bad times, and if we could keep all three in line we wouldn't have so much trouble.

"What have we done to keep them in line? We have done precious little."

Refers to Roosevelt Program.

Saying that "nobody in the world ever had the nerve and the power to tackle it" until President Roosevelt came on, Mr. Johnson quoted the President's views during the campaign in this fashion:

"He said he was going to see what would happen to this depression if, instead of highfalutin theories that nobody could understand, and this and that, we would just try to give every man back a sufficient share of what he himself produced to enable him to buy a reasonable share of what all the rest of us produce."

"Like a great many of the President's ideas, this plan seems too simple and direct to argue about. The way to work our factories and farms is to see to it that people who work get enough for their labor to buy what they need of the labor of others.

"Well, how are we going to do that now, with twelve millions out of jobs and not enough business to hire any more men? The answer of the Roosevelt plan is: Split up the existing work to put more men on the pay roll and raise the wages for the shorter working shift so that no worker is getting less than a living wage."

MYSTERY BLAST PERILS THRONG; FOUR INJURED

Holy Year Pilgrims Thrown Into Panic.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

VATICAN CITY, June 25.—A powerful bomb secreted in a suitcase and regulated by a clocklike mechanism exploded today a few minutes after noon in a cloak room in the central entrance of St. Peter's cathedral. Four persons were injured, one seriously.

Apparently the bomb had been timed to explode at high noon. Not more than two minutes before the bomb exploded more than one thousand holy year pilgrims were filing through the entrance.

Piazza and Church Crowded.

Both the cathedral and the piazza were unusually crowded. Hundreds of persons in the piazza of St. Peter's and several thousand inside the basilica were thrown into a panic by the explosion. The worshipers stampeded toward exits until Vatican gendarmes induced the crowd to leave in an orderly manner.

An investigation by a Vatican magistrate indicated that the bomb and its worn suitcase container had been deposited earlier in the day by an unknown visitor who had entered the basilica with a pilgrimage of about 1,000 persons from Segni, a town in the Volscian mountains not far from Rome.

The bomb caused very little property damage.

Alessandro Sartoris, an engineer from Pisa, was the most seriously injured. Other victims were Ambrogio Zianzi, a Pavia policeman; Francesco Luardi, a teacher from north Italy, and Signorina Saunati, a stenographer. The latter three persons were able to go to their homes after receiving treatment at a hospital.

Package Was Checked.

The suitcase containing the bomb had been checked in box No. 57 of the cloakroom, where all visitors are required to deposit their canes, umbrellas, and packages. An attendant, named Remo, told the police he had no remembrance of the person who checked it. It is against regulations to carry any large objects into St. Peter's.

Shortly after the explosion papal gendarmes and Swiss guards rushed to the spot. Later they summoned the Roman police from the Borgo district which borders Vatican City.

Vatican and Italian police were inclined to believe that the bomb had been brought from a country district, probably by some demented pilgrim. The suitcase was of cheap construction. Inside it, besides the bomb, were found several pieces of coarse bread of the type baked in Italian peasant districts. The timing device which exploded the bomb, on the other hand, indicated it was the work of an expert.

Arrest Man at Gate.

Police said that the type of powder used in the bomb came from Frosinone, a town in the Apennines back of Rome.

Police watched closely all persons who returned to St. Peter's to claim the things they had left at the main entrance. The police particularly kept a lookout for the owner of another handbag that was similar in appearance to the one that contained the bomb.

When a man appeared to claim the other suitcase it was opened and found to contain several sheets of paper exactly like sheets in the bomb container. The man was arrested and taken to the Borgo police station for questioning.

Pope Blesses Injured.

All functions at St. Peter's were carried out as usual during the rest of the day. Vatican City authorities sent a priest of the basilica to visit the four wounded persons. Pope Pius was notified of the outrage and he, too, sent the injured his benediction.

Today's outrage was the first actual explosion of three bomb attempts at St. Peter's in less than two years.

A bomb was found in the basilica in the summer of 1931. Another, likewise unexploded, was discovered hidden near the central altar Feb. 13, 1932, two days after the pope visited the cathedral to observe the tenth anniversary of his coronation. In neither case was a motive established nor were the guilty persons apprehended.

They Teach This Game in Colleges Now!

George Edward McCandlish, 18 years old, left his room in the Congress hotel Saturday evening for a stroll about the loop. McCandlish, a sophomore at Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Pa., had stopped in the city to visit A Century of Progress en route to his home in Seattle for the summer vacation.

As he paused in front of the hotel an affable middle aged man engaged him in conversation. The youth told him of his visit to the city and that he was leaving on a midnight bus for his home.

Almost an Old Friend.

"This is a coincidence," the man exclaimed. "I lived in Philadelphia for many years and know Swarthmore well. My name is John Coughlin. I should be delighted to walk about with you. I shall show you Buckingham fountain, one of our many sights."

As the two watched the play of lights on the jetting water a well dressed man asked them, in a marked English accent, to direct him to "the building of the British orders" at the Fair. Coughlin said there was no such structure. The stranger opened a tirade on things American.

Coughlin, awaiting a proper chance, drew McCandlish aside and said: "Let's take some of the cockiness out of this Britisher. I'll suggest matching pennies. You always show heads and I'll show tails. We can't lose." McCandlish agreed. The stranger, who gave his name as Joseph Davis, said he did not know the game, but would play.

Sent Away for Money.

The game went on till Davis lost $100 to the youth. "I'm willing to pay," said the Britisher, "but I'd like to see the color of your money first. I'm not playing unless you could have paid me if you had lost."

"O. K.," replied McCandlish. "Just wait here till I go to my hotel and get the money."

A short time later the student appeared in the South State street police station. "Are you interested in catching two petty racketeers?" he asked of Sergts. Benjamin Benson and Michael Morley. After hearing his story they accompanied him to the fountain, where they arrested Davis and Coughlin.

At the detective bureau Davis was revealed to have been arrested 50 times since 1916 and Coughlin as many times since 1917 for operating confidence games.

ROB LAKE GENEVA HOTEL OF $1,200; KIDNAP MANAGER

The men entered the hotel quietly. One of them carried a violin case. This contained the machine gun. They surrounded Nussbaum and forced him to open the safe. They got about $1,000 from the safe. Then they cleaned out a cash drawer and also took money from his pockets.

This done, the gunmen ordered Nussbaum to accompany them in their automobile. He obeyed and they drove him to Genoa City, on the Illinois side of the state line, and released him.

Reveals Aimee Sent 'Baby Boy' Cable Herself

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—The story of the illness of Mrs. Aimee McPherson Hutton, the Los Angeles evangelist, her operation, her presence in the American hospital in Paris, her reported divorce plans, and, above all, the alleged birth of a son, are getting more and more complicated.

That cablegram announcing "It's a nine pound boy" which floored hubby David Hutton was sent by Aimee herself, according to the latest explanation, and was done as a part of the current mysterious Angelus temple politics. Only Hutton didn't see the joke.

The explanation was given tonight by Dr. Charles Bove, Aimee's surgeon, who was in on the secret, although Hutton was not. It seems Aimee's presence in Paris leaked out despite all attempts to hide it and Aimee felt that somebody at Angelus temple knew more about her private correspondence with her husband than Hutton did himself.

Message Sent in Code.

In order to confirm her suspicions that there was a leak at the temple, Aimee and Dr. Bove concocted the cable "Darling boy. Nine pounds. Doing splendidly. Understand press inquisitive, but keeping quiet. Adoring Wife," which was sent to Hutton in code.

Almost before Hutton got the message, which left him aghast, news of the birth got back to Paris and the evangelist's worst suspicions were confirmed.

The hitch was that Aimee was sure her husband would understand it was all a trick, but it seem hubby's imagination wasn't functioning the moment the cable arrived. Dr. Bove intimated that Aimee suspects certain newspapers have somebody tapping her wires and also suspects two girls whom she did not name.

Meanwhile Aimee is still very ill, the doctor reports, having undergone an operation ten days ago to remove an intestinal obstruction which will necessitate a long convalescence here.

Summons Hutton to Paris.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Receipt of a cablegram summoning David L. Hutton Jr. to the bedside of his wife, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist pastor of Angelus temple, in Paris, was announced today at the million dollar sanctuary of the four square gospel.

Hutton said he would ignore the message as a possible hoax unless he hears from his wife directly.

Mrs. Mary Morrison, 36 years old, was killed yesterday morning in front of her home at 458 North May street by a man who fired at her five times from an automobile. A small boy rode with the assassin. Mrs. Morrison had just returned from mass at Sancta Maria Addolorata church, 648 North May street, and was sitting on the front porch of her home talking to her son by a former marriage, Joseph Dannanzaro, 19 years old, a graduate of Crane Technical High school, who is employed by the Commonwealth Edison company.

An automobile rounded the corner from Grand avenue and headed south in May street. Mrs. Morrison arose to speak to a little girl who had made her first communion at the mass Mrs. Morrison and her son attended. The little girl walked away. Then came the bullets fired from a pistol in the hands of the assassin.

Killer Speeds Away.

The son started in pursuit of the killer, who sped away. According to the youth the car was without license plates. When Joseph returned to the shooting scene he found his mother dead. She had been shot four times. The fifth bullet went wild.

Later the youth told the police he was certain the killer had aimed at his mother and not at him. The gunman was not more than fifteen feet away when he opened fire, the boy said. He described the slayer as a small, dark complexioned man. He said the assassin was a total stranger to him.

Mrs. Morrison was married three times. Her first husband died in the army during the war, the police were told, and the second husband is also dead. Nine years ago she married Clyde C. Morrison, a former employe of the Commonwealth Edison company, now believed to be living in Indiana. Mrs. Morrison had recently filed suit for separate maintenance against Morrison.

Police said they desired to question Morrison in the hope that he might be able to offer a clew to the slayer. A police message was broadcast requesting the apprehension of the husband.

Victim's Mother in Home.

Inside the home at the time of the slaying were Mrs. Morrison's 75 year old mother, and her brother, Joseph Rubino. They all insisted there was nothing in Mrs. Morrison's life to suggest a motive for her murder. She had no love affairs and no men callers, all said. She was religiously inclined and spent all her time with her family, they said.

One theory was that Mrs. Morrison might have been mistaken for some other woman.

NELSON MORRIS, PACKER, HELD UP AT SUMMER HOME

Suburban police yesterday were searching for two bandits who held up Nelson Morris, meat packer, on the grounds of his summer home in Homewood late Saturday night. The robbers got $60.

On the porch at the time, police said, was Mme. Blanche Bilboa, a friend. She was not molested.

"Keep your hands up," warned the robbers.

"Well, how can I give you my money?" demanded Morris. The bandits settled this point by forcing him to keep his hands raised while they searched his pockets. Morris notified the Homewood village and county highway police.

ROOSEVELT, IN NOTES TO HULL, ALTERS POLICY

President Wary of World Tieup Now.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chairman of the American delegation to the world economic conference, has in the last 48 hours received important messages from the President, it was learned tonight. The messages embody new instructions and detail Roosevelt's latest views of domestic and international policies. They may influence profoundly the course of events in the London conclave, it is believed.

Under the new instructions the American delegation is to enter into no agreements that would hamper full development of Roosevelt's domestic policy for raising commodity prices and reviving business through the colossal machinery set up by congress for government control of agriculture, industry, finance and transportation.

Roosevelt Changes Mind.

In the dispatches to Hull, Roosevelt makes it clear he believes the recovery of America, if not the entire world, from the depression depends upon the speedy consummation of the economic revolution comprised in his own program of collectivism.

Whether it be the result of the influence of the nationalistic views of Prof. Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, now en route to London, and of Bernard Baruch, New York financier, who has taken a desk in the state department, or of his independent observations of world conditions, the President leaves no doubt that he has modified his original conception of America's rôle in the world conference.

Roosevelt is now, it appears, for a cautious departure from America's "splendid isolation" as far as economic questions are concerned and for a still more cautious approach to internationalism as represented by the objectives of the London conference. The new instructions to Hull outline a policy which envisages America embarking on no program of international coöperation until America has attained for itself a substantial measure of economic recovery.

Domestic Program First.

When commodity prices in the United States have regained their 1926 level, or any other level Roosevelt regards as satisfactory, it will be time enough to stabilize currencies and reduce tariffs, according to the tenor of the President's instructions. American domestic policies are not inconsistent with international coöperation, but the domestic program is of paramount importance and international coöperation is secondary under the new Roosevelt conception of things.

The American delegation has formally proposed that all nations agree to halt the building of trade barriers and to invoke measures to raise commodity prices. But in the light of the new instructions America is not to be committed to a tariff truce unless commodity prices are raised abroad as well as at home.

Otherwise, it is pointed out, it might be necessary for Roosevelt to use his new powers to raise tariffs, impose quotas and lay embargoes to protect American industry on a higher price level from an inundation of imports from low price countries. This is the thesis propounded by Baruch, who conceived the entire program of government control of industry and agriculture.

President Lauds Hull's Work.

Although this latest materialization of Roosevelt policy appears to differ in some important respects from the internationalist notions with which Hull approached the world conference, the President is professedly satisfied with the performance of the American delegation to date.

In a dispatch which Hull received yesterday Roosevelt praised the work of the secretary of state in London and congratulated him on his conduct of American negotiations most enthusiastically. He counseled Hull to pay no attention to criticism or to pessimism prevailing among other delegations and assured the secretary he enjoys the complete confidence of the American people and himself.

In this manner Roosevelt has assured Hull that Prof. Moley is not being sent to London to supersede him. There has been much gossip that because of Hull's overshadowing by Moley, who is his official subordinate, and because of the rise of Baruch in the counsels of the administration in connection with foreign affairs, Hull would seize an early opportunity to resign. There has been much speculation as to whether his successor would be Moley or Baruch.

Nevertheless conference negotiations are at a standstill pending the arrival of Moley this week. The delegates of all nations are agog with speculation as to what turn Moley, the right hand man of the President, may give the course of events. London papers feature articles on Moley, his character, life history and significance in the American political setup.

Gold Bloc Renews Fight.

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—Fresh efforts by the European gold bloc which would be likely to thwart the spread to Europe of President Roosevelt's price raising program were decided upon over the week-end. The agreement upon this aim was reached during informal conversations among the French, Italian, Swiss, Dutch, and Belgian delegations to the world economic conference.

The growing anxiety of the gold standard countries was expressed in these conversations, it was said on good authority, and the necessity for blocking all American moves to induce the conference to embark on "artificial" means of price raising was stressed.

The gold bloc's attitude stiffened, despite the peace-making between Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, and James M. Cox, American chairman of the monetary commission, last Thursday, on reports that Assistant Secretary of State Moley is coming to London primarily to induce the parley to adopt a world-wide anti-depression scheme based on the depreciation of currencies.

Despite these sharp international divergencies of opinion on the monetary policy and severe attacks from the gold standard countries against the American monetary position, a considerable body of agreement has already been brought out.

Delegates of Great Britain and the United States, together with those of the larger British dominions, have expressed agreement in principle as to the need of vigorous credit expansion and public works programs as part of a price raising plan.

Desires Definite Step.

The French, leaders of a big bloc of continental countries, oppose an aggressive credit expansion as savoring of inflation, but agree on the necessity of restoring price levels.

An accord for control of wheat production and exports is understood to be the major objective which Prime Minister MacDonald will seek as he opens the third week of the international discussions.

The British prime minister wants the conference to chalk up a definite forward step soon in order to raise enthusiasm of the delegates. Wheat is regarded as the product most likely to give quick results inasmuch as negotiations among producing countries are more advanced than conversations on other subjects.

Beaten and Robbed on Hyde Park Boulevard

George Schaeffer, 60 years old, 5103 Kimbark avenue, a steel company pensioner, was found unconscious early this morning in an areaway in the 1200 block of Hyde Park boulevard, evidently a victim of robbers. He had been struck on the head. At the Chicago hospital it was said his skull was fractured and that he might die. Schaeffer's pockets had been emptied.

JAPAN SEEKS TO NULLIFY SOVIET POWER IN PACIFIC

Manchukuo Rail Deal Is Basis of Hopes.

TOKIO, June 25.—(AP)—A conference in which Japan hopes to eliminate the last vestiges of soviet influence in Manchuria and nullify Russia as a strategic factor on the shores of the Pacific ocean, completing the process begun by the Russo-Japanese war of 1904, is scheduled to open at the Japanese foreign office tomorrow afternoon with an address of welcome by Foreign Minister Count Yasuya Uchida.

Ostensibly the conference is for negotiations between Russia and Manchukuo for the sale by the soviet government of the Chinese Eastern railway. Actually, the Japanese are taking advantage of the Russians' willingness to withdraw peacefully from Manchuria, admitting Japan's full mastery in this area.

Eliminate War Threat.

High Japanese authorities stressed today that success or failure of the parley will determine Japanese-Russian relations for the next generation and that peaceful transfer of the railway to Manchukuo would practically eliminate the threat of a new war between the two countries.

The Chinese Eastern railway, which the Japanese and Manchukuo diplomats call the North Manchurian railway in anticipation of its early inclusion in the Japanese controlled Manchukuo system, was originally a joint enterprise of the czarist and Chinese empires before both disappeared. The soviets and Manchukuo are bargaining for what is left of the line, brusquely ignoring the claims and protests of the Chinese republic.

The price which Manchukuo shall pay for the railroad is considered the most difficult part of the problem. The czar spent 410,000,000 gold rubles [$215,000,000] in building the line but no authority expects the soviet government to recover even a tenth of that amount.

Will Beat Down Price.

Prolonged and intensive bargaining is expected, political as well as financial trading entering into the negotiations. The Japanese-Manchukuan tactics will be to let the Moscow representatives make an offer, then to counter it with a lower one.

The soviet delegates are already at Tokio; Konstantin Yureney, ambassador at Tokio; Benedict Kozlovsky, chief of the far-eastern section of Moscow's commissariat, and S. M. Kuznetsoff, vice chairman of the Chinese Eastern directorate and ranking soviet official in the railway organization.

The Manchukuo spokesmen are also here. They are Gen. Ting Shih-yuan, minister to Japan, and Chuichi Ohashi, a Japanese subject who is Manchukuo's vice minister for foreign affairs. Ostensibly Japan's rôle is that of host and mediator. Actually Foreign Minister Uchida will be the controlling power.

SPECTACULAR FIRE DRAWS HUGE CROWD ON NEAR WEST SIDE

Thousands of persons were attracted to the near west side last night by a spectacular fire which swept through a vacant six story factory building at Erie and Carpenter streets and spread to a school warehouse and a two story frame dwelling. Six firemen were treated for burns on their hands and faces by a department physician. They were able to return to work.

The crowds were so large that it was necessary to call police reserves to establish fire lines.

A 5-11 alarm was sounded for the blaze, which started in the six story building which, before it was condemned several years ago, was occupied by the Herold Chair Manufacturing company. The flames spread rapidly and jumped over to the roof of the old Washington school, 612 North Morgan street, now used as a school warehouse. A few minutes later the fire attacked the home of Irwin Nanzo at 609 North Carpenter street, driving his family to the street.

Police said numerous fires, one resulting in a 2-11 alarm last week, have occurred in the factory building. Casuals are blamed. Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan estimated the damage to the factory building at $10,000. The damage to the school warehouse he placed at $5,000.

4 ARMY FLYERS KILLED AS PLANE FALLS IN RIVER

Langley Field, Va., June 25.—(AP)—Four Langley field flyers were killed when their bombing plane crashed into the James river near Rushmere late last night. The bodies were found by searchers tonight in the sunken craft.

Capt. Milo McCune of the engineer office at the post informed Langley field officials that the bodies had been found, but said that efforts to remove them would have to await the arrival of a larger boat tomorrow morning.

In the plane when it left Baltimore for Langley field were Lieut. H. W. Mackelcan of Baltimore, Lieut. Lewis Horvath of Wisconsin, and Privates Charles C. Sayre Jr. of Philadelphia, Pa., and Albert C. Olive of Smithfield, N. C.

1 KILLED, 3 HURT AS AUTO CRASHES INTO STREET CAR

Minneapolis Couple Die in Another Accident.

A man was killed and his young woman companion was critically injured early this morning when their automobile crashed head-on into a northbound Crawford avenue street car at Erie street. Two men passengers on the street car were cut by flying glass.

Witnesses said that the motorist was driving south in Crawford avenue on the wrong side of the street. The front of the street car was bashed in by the automobile, but the motorman escaped injuries. The passengers hurt were in the center of the car. Their names were not learned. The injured woman, about 25 years old, was taken to the Garfield Park hospital. Records showed the license on the automobile was issued to Michael J. Bren, 4151 North Ridgeway avenue.

Couple Killed in Crash.

Henry B. Iverson, 42 years old, and his wife, Anna, 40, were fatally injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were returning to their home in Minneapolis after visiting the World's Fair skidded, struck another car and overturned in a ditch on Route 19, three miles east of Crystal Lake, in McHenry county.

The Iverson car, a coupe, was driven by Henry Jr., 21 years old, son of the couple. In the front seat with him were his brother, Clinton, 20 years old, and his cousin, Roland Iverson of Watson, Minn.

Thrown from Rumble Seat.

The other car was driven by F. E. Chapek, 14 South Broadway, Aurora. The elder Iversons, riding in the rumble seat, were thrown out and fatally injured. Clinton, the younger son, received a fractured skull and was in a critical condition last evening in the Woodstock hospital. The other two youths, Chapek and his brother, R. T. Chapek of Detroit, received minor injuries.

Arthur Connors, 35 years old, 8033 Yale avenue, was killed yesterday in an automobile which skidded and overturned in 143d street near Wolf road.

Connors was sleeping in the back seat and was thrown through a window. He was cut by glass and pinned beneath the automobile. The other ocupants, Eugene Hayes, 9330 Eberhart avenue, the driver, and Miss Opal Smith, 7042 Eggleston avenue, received minor injuries. They were returning from a party.

Two Others Killed.

The deaths of Connors and the man in the automobile-street car collision and of two other persons raised the Cook county motor toll for 1933 to 472. The other victims:

John Schuck, 70 years old, 9231 South 51st court, Oak Lawn. Fatally injured near his home last night by an automobile driven by Glen Ramsey, 6341 South Western avenue.

Unidentified man, about 45 years old. Killed at 51st street and the outer drive by an automobile driven by Clarence McCoyne, 4552 South California avenue. A belt buckle bearing the initial "B" was the only clew to the victim's identity.

John Budkowski, 44 years old, of 1177 Jackson street, Gary, was killed yesterday when his car turned over after a tire blew out in route 53, five miles east of Crown Point.

SHERIFF DENIES HE HAS ARRESTED KINNEY ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Peoria, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Sheriff William Lichtweiss of Peoria county today denied reports that he had been ordered by Attorney General Otto Kerner to place Garrett De Forest Kinney, state director of finance under former Gov. Emmerson, under arrest on charges of embezzling $174,190 of state funds. Kinney is in the Methodist hospital recovering from a suicide attempt last Friday.

"I have received no instructions from any one in connection with Kinney," Sheriff Lichtweiss said. "I have not even been asked to place a guard at his bedside. Until I receive instructions I do not propose to act. I hear that indictments are to be sought and warrants are to be issued, but I cannot act on rumors."

Kinney was reported as well on the way to recovery. A special nurse, who had been at his bedside constantly, was relieved of her duties. His physician, Dr. W. W. Cutter, said his patient is out of danger.

EX-CONVICT HELD ON A SPINSTER'S CHARGE OF FRAUD

Otto P. Weisswanger, 52 years old, an alumnus of Sing Sing prison, was arrested by Oak Park detectives last night because he is alleged to have trifled with the money and the heart of an Oak Park spinster. In his apartment at 6726 Glenwood avenue the police found 18 suits of clothes, 24 pairs of shoes, and sartorial accessories in proportion.

The complainant against him is Miss Minnie E. Tenchert, 1122 South East avenue, Oak Park. Her romance with Weisswanger, she charged, has cost her $5,000. "Another woman" finally ended her dream. Now Miss Tenchert charges Weisswanger with fraud.

Miss Tenchert met him 18 months ago. He posed as a chemist, casually mentioned big names and easily discussed millions. He also proposed marriage. Meanwhile Miss Tenchert was advancing him loans for airplane trips to Washington and New York "on business." The other day, however, Miss Tenchert trailed him to 2709 Albion avenue, the home of Mrs. Louise Bauksch, a widow. At the time he was supposed to be en route to Washington. Miss Tenchert then went to the police.

Weisswanger in 1929 was sentenced to Sing Sing for forfeiting a bond. He got out in 1931. He will be arraigned in Oak Park court tomorrow.

KEEP GREEN AS U. S. ATTORNEY PENDING TRIALS

Democrats Shy at Income Tax Prosecutions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Unwilling to place important pending prosecutions and investigations in other hands, the Roosevelt administration has decided, it was learned today, to retain Dwight Green, district attorney at Chicago, in that post indefinitely.

Although various candidates to succeed Mr. Green have been put forward by Democratic leaders in Illinois, Attorney General Cummings is known to feel it would be better and wiser to let the Republican Mr. Green dispose of the big cases now awaiting trial and to complete investigations into other cases, especially those having a political tinge to them.

It has also been learned that Guy Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, has no immediate intention of filling the post of collector at Chicago, which is now held by Gregory Van Meter, a Republican holding over from the Hoover régime.

Income Tax Trials the Reason.

In this respect much the same motives inspire the administration. The collector is guardian of the data on income tax matters, and since a number of leading Democrats in Chicago are either under investigation or awaiting trial for income tax law violations, as in the case of Moe Rosenberg, Democratic ward committeeman, the administration believes it the better part of discretion not to put a Democrat in that post at this time.

While the administration hesitates to criticize openly the Illinois Democratic organization, or its chosen leaders, there has been considerable uneasiness and not a little irritation over efforts made to influence officials here in connection with pending criminal cases.

It has been learned that just prior to the indictment of Rosenberg several leading Chicago Democrats came to Washington to plead his cause, with the unexpected result that the indictment of Rosenberg was voted on the very next day. Efforts have also been made, it was learned, to halt inquiries being directed by Mr. Green into the income tax returns of other Democratic politicians in Chicago.

Reports have it that the federal Insull indictment, in which not only Samuel Insull Sr. is named, but prominent Chicagoans as well, has also provoked efforts from Chicago for the government to relax its prosecution.

Avoid Public Scandal.

These activities and reports have had a disquieting effect on the administration leaders charged with the responsibility for doling out jobs to the faithful. These leaders are determined that there shall be no public scandal fastened upon the President through the dropping, relaxing, or alteration of the criminal prosecutions at Chicago.

For district attorney the Cook county Democratic organization has pushed Elmer Whitty, who has been an attorney at the sanitary district.

For collector of internal revenue the organzation has presented the name of Richey Graham, son-in-law of the late Mayor Cermak. Senator Lewis has preferred his long time associate, William L. O'Connell.

ROOSEVELT HAS DAVIS CALLED TO VACATION YACHT

Takes to Shelter

Lakeman Bay, Roque Island, Me., June 25.—[Special.]—In this quiet, isolated harbor, President Roosevelt dropped anchor tonight to gain shelter from ever increasing cold. The snug cove which protected the presidential party had no outside communication with the world. Mr. Roosevelt is now within striking distance of his goal at Campobello Island, N. B.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Motor Ketch Mary Alice off Mount Desert Island, Me., June 25.—[Special.]—Another cruising conference is to be held tomorrow when Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's roving ambassador, comes aboard Amberjack II. to report upon European affairs and in particular upon the progress of the disarmament conference at Geneva.

The ambassador at large is to come from Boston on the Destroyer Bernadou, one of the naval vessels which have been acting as convoy on the President's voyage up the Maine coast.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits Yacht.

There was a family reunion aboard the little schooner this morning as she lay in Southwest harbor, Mount Desert. Mrs. Roosevelt, who is motoring to Campobello island to meet the President at the journey's end, swung off the main route and crossed to Mount Desert in order to pay a visit to the vacation party.

Then, in characteristic friendly fashion, she boarded a navy launch and toured the other vessels in the convoy fleet to learn how things were going. Accompanying Mrs. Roosevelt were Miss Nancy Cook and Miss Marian Dickerman, associates in social service work in New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt's visit meant that five of the Roosevelt family were together—the President, Mrs. Roosevelt, and their sons, James, Franklin Jr. and John. This morning marked the end of the first week of the cruise, which began last Sunday at Marion, Mass.

Continues on Cruise.

The Amberjack II. soon afterward upped anchor and sailed after a morning in harbor, outbound for one of three possible destinations, the choice to be dependent on wind, weather and the holiday trippers inclinations. The choice lay between some harbor along Moosabec Reach, Roque Island, and Goldsborough Bay.

Shortly after the Amberjack II. departed, the Bernadou left for Boston. With her sailed James Roosevelt, who is a delegate to the Massachusetts repeal convention which meets tomorrow; Amyas Ames of Boston, a friend, who has been one of the schooner's crew and Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President.

By coincidence, the marriage of Ambassador Davis' son at Boston tomorrow is to Mr. Ames' sister.

Waiting, therefore, until the repeal convention and the wedding are over, the Bernadou will bring back James Roosevelt, Ambassador Davis, and M. H. McIntyre, another of the President's secretaries, who will replace Mr. Early.

Peru Hands Over Leticia to League of Nations Control

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 25.—(AP)—An official report tonight said Peruvian authorities have handed over the Leticia territory to a commission from the league of nations. The flags of the league of nations and Colombia, the announcement said, were hoisted on buildings in the village of Leticia and thereafter 200 Colombian soldiers occupied the port.

WOUND BANDIT, SEIZE 2 OTHERS IN AUTO CHASE

Carlo De Orio, 18 years old, 1521 Taylor street, who appeared Saturday evening at the Mother Cabrini hospital with a bullet wound in his chest which he said was inflicted by a stray bullet, was named yesterday by two bandits of his own age as their companion in a holdup and a running gunfight with two policemen shortly before he appeared at the hospital.

The prisoners are Ralph Orrico, 1029 Newberry avenue, and Dominick Russo, 818 Taylor street. They and De Orio are members of the "42" gang, police said.

Policemen Thomas J. Torby and John Touhy arrested Orrico and Russo. A short time earlier the three youths had held up C. S. Jackson, owner of a filling station at 1301 Roosevelt road, and escaped in a stolen car. Torby and Tuohy recognized the automobile and gave chase. They followed the bandit car for half an hour over west side streets, exchanging shots with its occupants.

In a last attempt to escape, Orrico drove the car onto the sidewalk in Loomis street south of Roosevelt road, causing a score of pedestrians to flee for safety. He struck a wall and then smashed into a parked automobile just as the police car drew alongside. One of the three, said by police to have been De Orio, escaped, but Orrico and Russo surrendered.

GERMAN BISHOP DEFIES HITLER; CLINGS TO TITLE

Challenges His Right to Interfere with Church.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—Otto Wagener, Bavarian minister of interior, announced at Aibling today that all leaders of the Bavarian People's party and its allies, the Bavarian guards, have been arrested. He added that no political group will be permitted to form a new party. The minister said the state must be controlled solely by Chancellor Hitler's Nazis.

BERLIN, June 25.—(AP)—The closest advisers of Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, who yesterday returned his commission as Evangelical bishop of the reich in answer to the Nazi government's appointment of a church commissioner, said today the popular pastor still considers himself holder of the high office.

Dr. Bodelschwingh, they said, is hindered in execution of his duties as a result of the latest Nazi move in the church controversy, but a careful reading of his "resignation" indicates that he has not yet renounced title to the post.

No Intention of Resigning.

"Through the appointment of a state commissioner for all the protestant churches of Prussia," Dr. Bodelschwingh's statement said yesterday, "I no longer have any possibility of executing the office conferred upon me. This necessitates my returning the commission entrusted to me by the Evangelical Church union."

It was asserted by Dr. Bodelschwingh's followers that he has no intention of resigning the title which he feels was rightly conferred upon him, but will challenge the government's right to interfere with the churches.

Meanwhile the central commission for home missions also has been seized by Dr. August Jaeger, newly appointed Prussian church commissioner, who authorized two of his Nazi subordinates to manage this organization's affairs.

The central commission declined to abdicate upon the order of Dr. Jaeger, whereupon Nazi storm troopers ousted them and took possession of the home mission headquarters.

Socialist Leaders Arrested.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 25.—As a result of the suppression of the Socialist party throughout Germany, many Socialist leaders were placed under "protective" arrest today. In Bremen twenty Socialist members of the city council, who were deposed under the terms of the proscription decree, were rounded up by the police. In Thuringia former members of the Socialist cabinet and several diet and reichstag members were seized. Arrests were also reported from Frankfort-on-Main, Breslau, and various towns in Silesia.

The Daily Post of Stettin has been suppressed for publishing a letter addressed to President Von Hindenburg, by Baron Zitzwitz, leader of the Nationalist fighting front in Pomerania. The latter appealed to the president for "guidance in the conflict conscience" in which members of the Steel Helmets have become involved since that organization's absorption by the Nazis.

Bombs Shake City in Austria.

VIENNA, June 25.—(AP)—A battalion of motoried troops was rushed today to strengthen the garrison at Salzburg, where several explosions causing minor damage occurred last night. One magnesium bomb wrecked a clothing store window display and another damaged the doorway of a newspaper building.

At Gmonden in South Kammergut tonight a bomb tore off the front of the burgomaster's house. Fragments damaged a villa 300 feet away and the detonation shook houses in the neighborhood, but none was injured.

Extraordinary measures were taken today to safeguard Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, who motored to a mass-meeting near Zellerndorf. Gendarmes with bayonets fixed patrolled the 50 mile stretch of road, supplementing motorcycle detachments.

ASSERTS HITLERISM PROMOTES UNITY OF JEWS WORLD OVER

Milwaukee, Wis., June 25.—[Special.]—Hitlerism has operated toward some good for the Jewish people, according to Dr. Julius Morgenstern, president of the American Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati. He expressed his views at today's closing session of the Central conference of American Reform Rabbis.

"Jewish consciousness became stronger and deeper, as a result of Hitlerism," said Dr. Morgenstern. "Jewish activities became more purposeful. The weak became strong and the strong, stronger. A sense of world unity gripped the Jewish spirit. We became aware that we can not live separated, and began to feel our common fate and destiny. We now feel we are more than a religion, that Israel is a people."

German Jewry at present is doomed to remain at a standstill, in Dr. Morgenstern's opinion. In the present German régime, he saw in Palestine movement a refuge for harassed Jews.

Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, of Pittsburgh, was elected new president of the Reform Rabbis conference. Dr. David Phillipson, Cincinnati; Dr. Joseph Stolz, Chicago, and Dr. Samuel Schulman, New York, were named honorary presidents. Felix A. Levy, Chicago, was elected vice president.

New York Fog Keeps Liner Britannic from Docking

New York, June 25.—(AP)—A heavy fog hampered traffic in the lower bay today and caused the liner Britannic, scheduled to dock at 8 p. m., to drop anchor off Ambrose light, until morning. The Britannic is returning from Liverpool.

FAIR LEADS ALL U. S. INTO ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Transportation, Clothing, Auto Trades Gain.

The influx of visitors to the World's Fair since it opened a month ago has exceeded all expectations. This surprising success of the great Exposition after three years of depression has not only given Chicago a running start on the path of economic recovery, but has stimulated industry throughout the nation and elevated the hopes of the entire population.

These statements were made by Fair officials yesterday, following a survey of the arrival of visitors during the first month of the Exposition. With passenger traffic by rail, air, and water doubled, and in some cases even tripled, the lure of the Chicago Fair has been the direct cause of the reëmployment of thousands of men, and the purchasing of tons of additional supplies.

Chicago Focus of Activity.

Naturally Chicago is the focal point of this activity, it was stated, but even remote sections of the country feel the benefit. Chambers of commerce, queried by Fair officials, report an uptrend in business, traced in most cases to the trek to Chicago. Clothing and travel equipment show the greatest increase, with visitors wishing to supply their needs before starting for the Fair.

Private automobile traffic shows as great an increase, with the Chicago Motor club reporting that travel from the southwest is greater by five times than was recorded in a similar count two years ago.

The increased automobile traffic indicates, officials said, a buying surge in the automobile field, with an attendant increase in accessories, gasoline, and other related commodities. The tourist travel at the same time bring prosperity to hotels, service stations, and stores en route.

Pennsy Brings 3,000 at Week-end.

The survey among railroads shows an optimistic note for the first time in several years. The Pennsylvania railroad used 23 extra sections to handle the traffic into and out of Chicago last week-end. In that time more than 3,000 visitors arrived.

On the New York Central lines, according to T. W. Evans, vice president, more than 150 additional passenger trains were needed from June 1 to June 25 to accommodate visitors. As a result of this increase, 5,000 additional men have been employed between Chicago and New York. In the Chicago terminal alone about 300 men have been put back to work.

N. Y. Central Sets All Time Record.

D. M. Bowman, passenger traffic agent of the New York Central lines, last night reported that 4,627 passengers came to Chicago during the day from New York and Boston, breaking all records of the road.

Travel on the major trains of the Chicago and North Western railway jumped 80 per cent in the first three weeks of June as compared to May, R. Thomson, general passenger traffic manager, said.

On the North Western line the California trains, the Los Angeles and Overland Limited, carried 4,813 passengers to Chicago the first 18 days of June, as compared with 1,805 during the same period in May.

Burlington's Business Soars.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, according to Albert Cotsworth Jr., passenger traffic manager, is handling on some of its trains ten times the passenger volume it did prior to the opening of the Fair.

A. W. Foelger, general passenger agent for the Illinois Central railroad, reported that sixteen trains had been added to the twenty-four regularly arriving in the city. More than 7,500 passengers arrived at the 12th street station over the Illinois Central, the Big Four, and the Michigan Central lines.

The North Shore lines reported that more than 1,200 persons had taken advantage of their special excursion trains to the city from Milwaukee and points along the line.

The Greyhound bus lines during the month showed an increase of 150 per cent in Chicago traffic.

The American Airways had a 56 per cent increase the first 15 days of June over the corresponding period last year, according to F. Warren Oakes Jr., vice president in charge of traffic. The United Air lines are operating extra planes daily between New York and Chicago, and on two schedules between Chicago and the west coast.

On the great lakes, 1,000 additional men have been employed by the Great Lakes Transit corporation, Bert J. Kennedy, general agent, said. Two of the company's largest steamers, the Tionesta and Juniata, are now back in service after being laid up for want of traffic. The Alabama, docked since last October, will be back in service June 30 to operate between Chicago and Muskegon.

The Chicago, Duluth, and Georgian Bay Steamship line reported an increase of 50 per cent on two large ships operating between Buffalo and Chicago.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The burglar alarm mechanism guarding the diamond display in the General Exhibits' group at the Fair is so delicate that private detectives have been kept busy answering a score or more false alarms in the last three days. The vibration caused by carpenters hammering in another part of the building set off the alarm Saturday night.

The only known existing complete set of the first edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica has been placed on display in the General Exhibits group. It contains 2,670 pages.

The two Indian statues, located at Congress street and Michigan avenue will be dedicated July 2, as a part of the Jugo-Slavian celebration. The statues are the work of Ivan Mestrovic.

The Columbian Transportation company carried 4,302 passengers to the Exposition grounds yesterday, according to W. H. Cochrane, agent. The line is operating between the 23d street dock, Navy Pier, points in the river, and the Edgewater Beach hotel. Four steel steamers and 24 speed boats, all placed in operation since the opening of the Fair, are carrying capacity loads, Cochrane said.

Peoria day will be celebrated next Sunday, it was announced yesterday by E. I. Rogers, president of the Peoria Association of Commerce. A short program in the court of the Hall of Science will begin at 11 a. m.

Visitors to the Hawaiian exhibit will be presented with leis Thursday when Hawaiian day ceremonies are held in the Court of States.

President Roosevelt's autograph is being watermarked into the hand made paper at the demonstration of 17th century paper making in the Paper Foundation's exhibit in the General Exhibits group.

The Wings of a Century pageant will be held at 7, 8 and 9 p. m. hereafter. The admission charge is 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

TRAFFIC EXPERTS PLAN CHANGES IN SYSTEM AT FAIR

Agree Present Plan Must Be Improved.

BY HAL FOUST.

Improvements in A Century of Progress traffic system, necessary to accommodate increased crowds expected in July and August, were agreed upon yesterday by Otto Jelinek, traffic engineer for the south park board, and George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, following an inspection tour in THE TRIBUNE roadster.

The tour was made as two new transportation facilities started service—a miniature railroad operating between Monroe street and Roosevelt road on the lake shore, and bus lines running between the south side and the loop and touching at all gates of the exposition.

More Traffic to Michigan Avenue.

"We can't handle many more vehicles in Grant park and along the exposition to 39th street without making some refinements in our system," Jelnick said. "After these refinements are made, however, we'll just be throwing an additional burden onto Michigan avenue, which is already overloaded.

"Michigan avenue will remain the weakest link in the Fair transportation system unless the city and the street car lines will agree to operate Monroe, Jackson, Congress, and 7th as one way streets into and through the loop."

THE TRIBUNE roadster was rolling south in the boulevard under discussion. Buses formed a steady parade next to the curb. Between Monroe and Jackson the entire line of these big carriers swung wide to get around a cruising taxicab, blocking a heavy traffic of private automobiles. A little farther south, buses again swung into the middle of the street to pass the leading bus as it stopped to pick up customers.

"Make Buses Keep in Line."

"The police could do a better job on those cruising taxicabs," Barton said. "Take a couple dozen of the chauffeurs to court and it'll break up that nuisance. As for the buses, the motor coach company should hire a dispatcher at the busy loading points and make the drivers keep in line."

The roadster continued south in Michigan to Oakwood boulevard, thence east to the outer drive and headed north in the drive just outside the Exposition's fence.

Traffic Slows Down Again.

At Roosevelt road traffic was slowed for the sharp turn east toward the outer drive. Jelinek said this turn could not be corrected because of the position of pillar supports for a passerelle erected by the Fair administration.

In front of the Field museum passenger car traffic was halted twice, once for buses to cross to their new loading zone and again for taxicabs to cross to their new loading zone. E. S. J. Irvine, superintendent of transportation for A Century of Progress administration, was met there as he was studying the traffic arrangements.

"There are some delays here," said Irvine, "but it saves bus and taxicab passengers from climbing that footbridge."

"We may have to go back to using the passerelles for bus and taxicab patrons to eliminate the cross-traffic if the Fair attendance increases," Jelinek declared. No one disputed him.

"Anyway," Barton commented, "folks are finding that other entrances than Roosevelt are closer to the main attractions. Besides, this heavy congestion occurs only during the evening rush hours. So I don't think out of town motorists will suffer any hardships in getting their cars into parking lots a few steps from turnstiles."

Engineers at Conventions to View Century's Advance

A century of progress in their field will be traced by members of eighteen engineering societies which will start their annual conventions in Chicago today in conjunction with Engineering week at the World's Fair. More than 10,000 engineers are expected to attend the various conventions.

A high point of the week is to be the joint meeting of all the societies Wednesday morning in Soldiers' field. There Juan de la Gierva, Spanish inventor of the autogyro, will land one of his "windmill" planes on the field to receive the Guggenheim medal for achievement in the advancement of aviation.

A section on aerodynamics will be conducted by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the Palmer house. Several foreign aviation engineering authorities will speak. The society is also conducting section discussions on printing, fuels, education, railroad research, dust and smoke abatement and waterpower.

To Visit Model Coal Mine.

The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, opening its meeting today at the Stevens hotel, will adjourn tomorrow for a visit to the model coal mine, which is one of the principal exhibits in the new Museum of Science and Industry. Today M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois geological survey, will give the results of a survey of this state's nonmetallic mineral resources.

Tax reduction and national defense will be given extended discussion before the American Society of Civil Engineers at the Palmer house. Officials of the sanitary district and the city will give the engineers an account of Chicago's recent progress in sewage treatment and water purification.

Tomorrow afternoon Herbert John Gough of the British national physical laboratory will deliver the eighth Edgar Marburg lecture before the American Society for Testing Materials at the Stevens. At the same hotel this evening John C. Hostetter, president of the American Ceramics society, will discuss "A Century of Progress in Ceramics" at the society's banquet.

Electric Eye to Be Described.

Radio engineers will have described to them at the Hotel Sherman the new electric eye, the iconoscope. Air conditioning for homes will be discussed at the same hotel by Profs. A. C. Willard and A. P. Kratz of the University of Illinois before the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers.

Problems of recent engineering graduates, turned out into a practically jobless world, and the general effect of the depression on engineering education will be discussed today at the Stevens hotel by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. All of the societies have arranged their programs to give members time for extensive visits to the exhibits of the World's Fair.

BY EARL MÜLLIN.

The rhythmic tramp of marching men, women and children, crossing and recrossing Soldiers' field in machine-like drill to form an undulating sea of color, marked the impressive Sokol ceremonies which were the major presentation of Czechoslovakian day at the fair yesterday. Forming one of the largest mass celebrations ever held in that field, 4,000 athletes of all ages performed before a crowd estimated at 50,000 persons.

The day's attendance at the Fair totaled 111,520. This was considerably below the preceding Sunday's figures, when 132,490 attended. The decrease was attributed to scattered showers in the area surrounding Chicago and to clouds here which threatened rain until well into the afternoon.

Crowd Begins Arriving Early.

Early in the afternoon representatives of the 250,000 Czechoslovakians in Chicago began pouring into Soldiers' field.

Among the distinguished visitors were Dr. Ferdinand Veverka, Czechoslovakian minister to the United States, and Dr. Frantisek Soukup, president of the Czechoslovakian senate and leader of the Social Democratic party of his country. They were greeted on the field by Mayor Kelly and President Rufus Dawes of the Fair.

"Chicago warmly welcomes you, representing one of our finest groups of citizens," Mayor Kelly said. "We are particularly glad to welcome the visiting dignitaries from the land which was the birthplace of our late Mayor Cermak.

Pays Tribute to Cermak.

"I realize how disappointed you are that he is not here to welcome you in your native tongue, but I can only say that I am proud to act for him on this occasion as I was proud to represent him on many occasions in the past. Chicago is proud of the Sokol and has much to learn from the body."

The drill teams and the thousands dotting the gray stadium with vivid splashes of color stood at attention as the band, under the direction of V. Husa, played the American national anthem, and Kde Domov Muj and Nad Tatru Sa Blyska, the national anthems of Bohemia and Czechoslovakia.

Three major groups were represented in the parade, the athletic teams, the groups in native costumes and the men in the regulation Sokol uniform.

The throng arose in mass to welcome the visiting women's team from Czechoslovakia, the first such team to attend a foreign Sokol demonstration.

The Sokol, the athletic and fraternal union of Czechoslovakia, was organized in America 65 years ago, with a few hundred members in St. Louis. It reached its peak just prior to the world war, during which many units were disbanded. At present there are about 30,000 members throughout the country.

Ukrainians Hold Fête.

The Ukrainian celebration in the main was staged in the Fair grounds between the 23d street gate and the south end. The official dedication ceremonies were held in the pavilion at 29th street.

FAIR CROWDS SHIFT TO 23D STREET GATE; OVERTAX FACILITIES

Complaints were made yesterday by a number of World's Fair visitors of serious inadequacy of entrance and exit facilities at the 23d street gate. Congestion at that point has been heavy during the last week, with as many as 9,000 entering the gate in one hour.

The trouble, it is asserted, is due to an insufficiency of ticket sellers, guards and guides. During the evening rush hour, from 6 to 7 o'clock, only two cashiers and two turnstile guards are on duty.

This has resulted in long lines of patrons at each ticket window. One line Saturday night numbered sixty persons. In addition, the cashiers and guards have to serve as guides because of the absence of regular guides at the gate.

The service arrangements at 23d street were established when the Fair opened a month ago. At that time the north entrance [12th street] caught the brunt of visitor traffic. Now, however, much of this passenger traffic has switched to the 23d street entrance and other gates south, largely because of better transportation facilities.

Bad Weather Again Delays Hop of Italian Air Fleet

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 25.—(AP)—Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, decided tonight that he would not be able to leave tomorrow with his armada of 25 planes for A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, because of high winds over the Ligurian sea and unfavorable weather on the entire Alpine route. This further postponement came after every preparation had been made for departure early tomorrow morning for the first stage to Amsterdam.

Arrest Frank Diamond, Capone's Brother-in-Law

Frank Diamond, brother-in-law of Al Capone, was arrested by Sergts. Thomas McSweeney and Edward W. Ganshaw of the detective bureau early yesterday as he was sitting with a young woman in a parked car at Van Buren and Wells streets. The woman was not held. Diamond, who is 38 years old and lives at 1735 West Jackson boulevard, protested against being held, declaring he is now in a legitimate business.

ALDERMEN FIND FAULT WITH TAXI RATE SCHEDULES

See Little Benefit to Chicagoans.

Some aldermanic opposition developed yesterday toward the two taxicab rate schedules adopted last week by the special council committee which is preparing a new taxicab ordinance. Further consideration of the ordinance is expected today when the committee meets to apportion the 4,000 cab licenses provided for under the new act. Of this number independent operators have been promised 500 and the remainder will be divided between the Checker and Yellow cab companies.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], president pro tem of the council, said the two rate plans offer benefits to out of town visitors who travel from railroad stations to hotels and to a few points in the business section. But the Chicagoan will get almost no benefit in journeys to and from his home or from point to point outside the downtown district.

Full Council to Decide.

The two rate schedules will be presented to the whole council on Wednesday with the recommendation that one of them be included in the new ordinance. One schedule provides for a rate of 15 cents for the first half mile, 10 cents for each succeeding half mile, and a 10 cent charge for each extra passenger. The alternate schedule provides for a charge of 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile, with no charge for extra passengers.

The "15-10" rate would be a saving to a single passenger for the first mile, the charge for which at present is 40 cents, but the rate after the first mile remains as it is now. With two or more extra passengers the charge would be higher than now, several aldermen said.

Comparison of Rates.

The "20 and 10" rate would be 30 cents for the first mile, 10 cents cheaper than under the present rates of 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile. The first mile under the "15 and 10" rate schedule would cost a single passenger 25 cents.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] said he objects to the section in the ordinance which will force the independent cabs to charge the same fare as the large operators.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

START DRAINING OF SKOKIE MARSH FOR TREES TODAY

Work on the federal reforestation project which is to transform the Skokie marsh into a region of woodlands and lagoons will start today. The advance guard of four companies of the civilian conservation corps will begin erecting tents on a campsite at Skokie boulevard and Willow road, west of Winnetka.

Quarters for a fifth company, which is to clean up the north branch of the Chicago river, a project which is expected to reduce greatly the mosquito pest along the north shore, will be started at the same time at Harms and Glenview roads, in the forest preserve.

The five companies, numbering 1,150 men, are commanded by Maj. E. C. Seaman of the 61st coast artillery. The project of improving the Skokie marsh was conceived by President Emmett Whealan and Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserve district, which owns the 4,000 acre tract, and approved by President Roosevelt.

Sixty engineers and surveyors furnished by the emergency relief commission have been engaged for several weeks in a detailed survey of the marsh.

Norwegian Society Gives Party for Sorlandet Crew

Officers and members of the crew of the Norwegian training ship, Sorlandet, now docked at the World's Fair grounds, were entertained yesterday at a midsummer festival by members of the Norwegian Old People's Home society in Norwood Park. The 99 residents of the home joined their sailor guests in reminiscing of their native land. The crew then made a tour of other Norwegian institutions.

FIRST PLANES REACH CHICAGO FOR AIR RACES

Twenty More Pilots Due Today and Tomorrow.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Two trim racing planes, the vanguard of more than 300 that will fly in the American air races starting next Saturday at Chicago airport, arrived at the airport yesterday to be prepared for the ten high speed events for which a total of $20,000 in prizes has been posted. The races will be held for four days, ending on July 4, under the sponsorship of THE TRIBUNE.

Joe Jacobson of Kansas City flew in from Des Moines, Ia., in his Gypsy powered Howard racer Pete, covering the 303 miles in an average time of 156 miles an hour. He said he had been just "loafing along." His plane made its first appearance at the Chicago air races of 1930, when it was flown by its designer, Ben O. Howard, Kansas City air mail pilot. It won Howard more than $6,000 in prizes at that meet.

Brings Plane on Trailer.

Clarence McArthur of Tampa, Fla., brought his Heath midwing racer [Martin motor] onto the airport on a trailer. He hastened to assemble the small plane in order to tune it up for the races. Both Jacobson and McArthur plan to streamline their planes carefully in the next few days in order to get the last mile an hour out of them in the closed course events.

Jacobson has entered Pete, one of the few racing planes in the history of air competition to have paid for itself through its winnings, in the free-for-all twenty-five mile races for planes with motors of less than 350 cubic inch displacement that will be run off on Sunday, July 2, and Tuesday, July 4. Each race carries a total purse of $1,500.

Other Free-For-All Entries.

McArthur also is entered in those two events. Other entries to date include Lloyd Butz, of Mishawauka, Ind., who will fly a low wing racer powered by an inverted Cirrus motor; a special racer owned by Clayton Folkerts of Bettendorf, Ia., which is powered by a Cirrus motor and will be flown by Harold Neumann of Moline, Ill., and Harvey C. Mummert of Hammondsport, N. Y., who will fly a Mercury low wing racer powered by an inverted Cirrus motor.

More Contestants Due Today.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events of the races, said yesterday that twenty of the leading participants in the air races are expected to land at Chicago airport today and tomorrow after flying from Minneapolis, where they appeared Saturday and yesterday in the Northwest Air races. They have appeared in air meets and races held this spring at Fort Worth, Tex.; Oklahoma City Okla.,; Springfield, Mo.; Enid, Okla.; Wichita, Kas.; Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha, Neb., and Minneapolis, Minn.

The group of pilots is headed by Johnny Livingston of Aurora, Ill., who has won more air races than any other American pilot and who has entered the Baby Ruth and Aero Digest trophy races. It includes Bettie Lund, the country's outstanding woman aerobatic flyer; Art Davis, balloon burster, stunt flyer, and racing pilot; George T. Burrell Jr. of Chicago, who stunts a large transport plane, and Frank Faulkner, one of the pioneer autogiro pilots, who stunts his "windmill" plane.

Ocean Flyers to Compete.

Many ocean flyers will be at the air races, flying in some capacity. Among them are Bennett Griffin, partner of James Mattern last year; Roger Q. Williams, who flew to Rome in 1929, and who will demonstrate his new ocean plane; Lewis A. [Lon] Yancey, Williams' partner in 1929, who will attempt a new world's altitude record for autogiros; Clyde Pangborn, who flew across the Pacific with Hugh Herndon Jr., and Cecil Allen, who made the same flight with Don Moyle.

Capt. M. M. Corpening, president of the air race organization, yesterday announced the appointment of a reception committee for the visiting flyers. This committee will be headed by Dr. Sydney Walker, prominent sportsman pilot, he said. Its membership includes Frederick Greenebaum, Sidney Morrison, L. K. Bonfoey of Quincy, Ill.; William Boyd, Oliver Rosto, and William Beaudry. Dr. Walker said many entertainments are being planned by his committee during the four days of the air races.

Motor Stalls; Plane Lands in Douglas Park Ball Field

J. C. Robinson, 5747 Calumet avenue, made a forced landing on a baseball diamond in Douglas park yesterday when the 45 horse power Szekely motor of his Buhl Bullpup plane stalled. He made the landing without injury to himself, the plane, or the ball players. Robinson took off in the plane, which is owned by his brother, from the Sky Harbor airport. A short time later engine trouble developed.

THRONG CHURCH TO CELEBRATE ITS CENTENNIAL

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Chicagoland's oldest Protestant church—the First Presbyterian—began in its cathedral-like edifice yesterday morning a week's celebration of its founding one hundred years ago today in the carpenter shop of Fort Dearborn.

With heart-searching words and stately ceremonial and amid a great concourse of black robed clergy and choristers and of elders and laity, the "old First's" 2,500 heirs of the spiritual tradition of Chicago's pioneers launched a centennial commemoration which epitomizes with peculiar and touching eloquence the ethical significance of the World's Fair and in which four other denominations and the Catholic mayor of Chicago will take part in the course of the week.

Overflow Service Necessary.

The church at Kimbark avenue and 64th street was crowded from east gallery to chancel rails. Long lines of temporary seats were placed in the aisles, but still the throng increased and it was found necessary to hold an overflow service in spacious John Knox hall, which is connected with the church by the gray stone cloisters extending across the garth.

The scene was memorable.

The altars in main edifice and in side chapel were laden with flowers and glowing with candelabra placed each side of golden crosses, and the chancel was banked with palms.

Down the aisles of lights and of flowers moved in long processional the choir of sixty men and women while the arches of the nave and side aisles rang with the jubilant "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and the echo organ now sang, now seemed to whisper, its antiphonals.

It all made a very resplendent and moving scene. The dramatic contrast inherent in it was not lost upon the beholders, for in every heart and in every prayer were thoughts of the twenty-six Presbyterian pioneers and of the garrison carpenter shop of June 26, 1833.

The Day's Sensation.

The day's "sensation," if one may use that word concerning a day of earnest reconsecration, was the the centenary sermon by the Rev. Dr. William Henry Boddy, former minister of the old First, who has come down from Westminster church, Minneapolis, for the week's festivities.

The dominie minced no words.

"Too often," he said, "it is true of us Christians that we want righteousness, but not too much righteousness. We deplore the darkness, but we like the twilight. It soothes. It softens. It befools. What we need is a blaze of sunlight that will permit us no doubt as to what things are wrong, what things are wicked, what things strike and blast the roots of democracy."

And this:

"Is democracy only a chance to vote on the part of people who don't care to vote?

"There is not a corrupt politician in Chicago who ever sold a special privilege where there wasn't also a citizen—or citizens in a corporation—who wanted to buy that privilege, and many of those buyers were within the Christian church.

". . . We have seen on one hand a generation starving not only in the midst of plenty but because of plenty. We have seen on the other hand a generation of cruel and pitiless individualism.

"The duty of Christians—your duty and mine—is clear.

"We must prove by our works that in so complex a universe God is able to bring courage and calm and wisdom to that little creature called man, who is bewildered and distracted by the complexities of a mechanized world.

What Mankind Awaits.

"The world is not waiting for our speculations, but for our testimony and our works."

The preacher stretched out his arms and in pleading tones cried: "Save us, O God, from religious conventionality and from the paralysis of overintrospection! Thou hast been our help in ages past. Thou art all our hope in the years to come. Help us, O help us, in the building of thy kindly kingdom of good men!"

Christianity's Needs.

Dr. Boddy took up the needs of Christianity, saying:

"What Christianity needs is some pioneer churches again; churches that will be nobly nonconformist. We need some adventurous churches, as of old, and when the church becomes this it cannot fail.

"It has been said 'the church will fight only on frontiers where it has nothing to lose.' God help us, that isn't true, is it? Well, prove, then, to the world that it isn't true! Yours is the task.

"Christianity is not a lifeboat to take off a certain elect few who have put their minds through a set of syllogisms.

"No wise man would sweep away the past or extinguish the lights which shine down to us from the past. But every age must cross the light of God at its own angle.

"Traditions may hamper. They often have. But they may also hallow. They often have. One may be a prisoner of the past but one may also be an heir of the past.

"We are too prone to think that progress means solely the new. But progress is likewise both the conservation of the values of the past and the release of its potentialities.

"Progress does not destroy. It fulfills."

"Be," the preacher besought his hearers, "be free adventurers and faithful people bent on building a kindly brotherhood, for ye who adhere to that purpose cannot fail."

O for the Pioneers' Spirit!

He cried out for the pioneers of Fort Dearborn, saying:

"They were the men who answered the prayer for stalwart sons. They were the men who answered God's and the republic's prayer. 'Bring to me men to match my mountains; men to match my prairies; men to match my inland seas; men with empires in their purpose and new eras in their brains.' There they are! And there! And there!—those great progenitors of ours. It is ours to be worthy of them. In a weary and anxious world it is not ours to answer logic with logic and argument with argument.

"Only in so far as we shall find in times like these the peace and the understanding of God shall we find the God who is adequate to the demands of a complex age. To find and to diffuse that peace and to impart that understanding of the enduring truth, which is God—this is the task of you religious pioneers who, after a hundred years, are pioneering in the same field in which our founder, Jeremiah Porter, and Philo Carpenter, and Father Walker did their work for Chicago on the site of that poor little fort.

Back to the Living Waters.

"Shall we let the stream of blessing which they touched to life and movement disappear in the desert of selfish and sensual living?—that stream of cleansing that rose in the majestic plains. Nay, we do right to go back to the ancient wells and drink from the founts of our fathers' faith.

"But we shall not lean wholly upon the past. Our generation may know something of God that no one else has ever discovered. There are new religious experiences that will abide because the truth that never grows old is in them."

The Dominie Quotes Ingersoll.

Plain-speaking Dr. Boddy thanked God for the long gone Presbyterians, John Calvin and John Knox, "standing," as he put it, "before a queen and demanding penitence and purity"; but he also thanked God for Charles Darwin and Thomas Huxley, and he quoted with hearty approval certain devastating words of Col. Robert Ingersoll on orthodox Presbyterianism's trial of "Chicago's beloved David Swing" for heresy, and he spoke of Max Otto, rebel pundit of the University of Wisconsin, as "a man for whom I have the greatest admiration."

In short, Dr. Boddy's sermon was what the detached and nondenominational newspaper reporters on the scene agreed was "a burner."

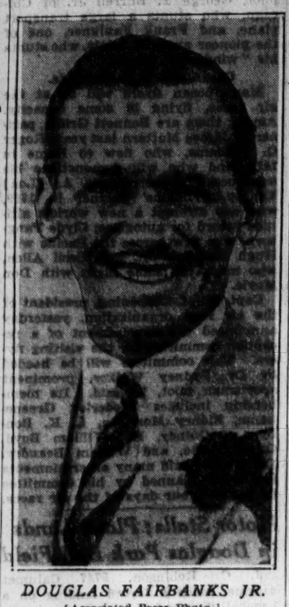
Where Dr. Boddy Would Have Ended.

It was, too, a sermon which, four centuries ago, when Presbyterianism was new, would have got vehement Dr. Boddy burned. Michael Servetus went to the stake for saying about the same kind of things—and he went thither not with the entire approval but certainly with the acquiescence of powerful and Presbyterian John Calvin, who, being a merciful man for his times, wanted the sentence changed to decapitation by the sword.

After the fiery sermon had ended with the minister's serene and loving benediction of the people you knew why William Henry Boddy is called "the most eloquent American preacher since Henry Ward Beecher." One of the lesser marvels of the discourse was that Dr. Boddy spoke without once referring to notes. He was a torrent.

Telegraphic greetings of love and congratulation were received before the service from some of "the old First's" sister churches in the United States and from the Rev. James W. Porter of California, aged 95, son of Founder Jeremiah.

Condition Improves



DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The condition of Douglas Fairbanks Jr., ill with lobar pneumonia at Doctors hospital, was reported improved today by his mother's husband, Jack Whiting. The young movie actor, who became ill after his return from London Friday, will be able to leave the hospital in a week, it was said, if he continues to improve. His temperature was lower this afternoon.

SEAPLANE CRASH SURVIVOR SAVED FROM PNEUMONIA

Traverse City, Mich., June 25.—(AP)—Although still suffering from shock and exposure, Mrs. Charles Rennie Jr. today was pronounced out of all danger of pneumonia that threatened to develop after she drifted for 34 hours on a makeshift raft in Lake Michigan and watched her husband and two other men slip to their deaths following a seaplane crash in a fog.

Search for the bodies of the three men has been abandoned for the time being. Members of the coast guard at Frankfort said today that the water was so cold the bodies probably will not come to the surface for about 10 days.

Mrs. Rennie is suffering now mainly from wind and sun burn and the shock of watching the three men go to their deaths, one by one between Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, after they had succeeded in making a raft out of part of the wing and one of the two air cushions from the plane's cabin.

INQUEST TODAY ON SLAYING BY LIQUOR RAIDERS

Family Charges Victim Was Only Fishing.

Oskaloosa, Ia., June 25.—[Special.]—An inquest called for tomorrow evening at the request of relatives of Gerald Blackwood, victim of quick-shooting dry raiders, is expected to clear up some of the mystery surrounding the fatal shooting on June 16 on an island in the Des Moines river near Eddyville, ten miles from here.

The relatives asked for the inquest, it was learned today, after Blackwood made a dying statement to members of his family in which he said that he had had nothing to do with the still which the officials were raiding. He had been arrested some time ago and charged with minor liquor violations.

On Island Fishing.

On the night of the shooting, Blackwood said, he had been fishing on the island. As he was walking along a path, the three raiders turned a flashlight on him and one of them shot him with a revolver, inflicting a wound which caused his death Thursday in a local hospital. The man who shot him was lying on the ground at the time, Blackwood said before he died.

The three officials who participated in the raid were Sheriff Frank Hook of Mahaska county, Fritz Van Genderen, his deputy, and Police Chief Howard Allgood of Oskaloosa. All were armed and they have refused to say who did the shooting. Members of Blackwood's family say, however, that the description of his assailant given by the dying youth fitted Allgood.

Sheriff Hook asserted today that Allgood had been regularly deputized out of his office for some time. The statement was made, apparently, in answer to rumors that Allgood had no official standing in the raid and was not deputized by the sheriff until the morning after the shooting.

Shot on His Appearance.

The raiders found the still deserted when they descended upon it. Blackwood appeared 15 minutes later. The officials contend that one of them fired when, as a flashlight was turned on him, Blackwood reached for his hip as if for a gun. Blackwood had no gun.

Dr. Leroy Patterson, Mahaska county coroner, has named a jury of three undertakers to hear evidence at the inquest. County Attorney Arlo Palmer and Edward O'Connor, attorney general of Iowa, have taken no action in the case to date, but it is understood that they will be represented at the inquest. All of the officials involved in the shooting are still on duty.

Second Prohibition Shooting.

In another and unrelated prohibition shooting case, Mrs. Claude Ridout was released on $3,000 bail here last evening after she had been arraigned on a charge of assisting in an assault with intent to kill. Her husband, a liquor runner, killed Harry Elliott, federal prohibition agent, and wounded Agent A. A. Murphy near here on Thursday when the agents stopped his automobile. Ridout then fled to Creston, Ia., his home, where he killed himself when trapped by a posse.

Mrs. Ridout was riding with her husband. Murphy, the wounded prohibition agent, charges that she loaded her husband's revolver during the fatal shooting fray. She denies this.

CALIFORNIA WILL VOTE ON REPEAL TOMORROW; DRY CHIEF AIDS WETS

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Californians will vote Tuesday on the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment. A heavy vote is predicted by most officials.

Twenty-two delegates will be elected to a state convention at which the twenty-first, or repeal, amendment will be formally ratified or rejected. The delegates will be elected by the voters at large.

John L. Considine, prohibition administrator for California and Nevada, advocated "speedy repeal" in a message to a gathering of northern California Democratic leaders in Oakland.

West Virginia Votes.

Charlestown, W. Va., June 25.—(AP)—Both wet and dry forces are spending the few remaining hours before West Virginia expresses itself Tuesday on repeal of the eighteenth amendment toward a common end—to get the voters out.

The last popular vote on the subject in West Virginia saw the state's prohibition act adopted by a vote of 164,945 to 72,603—a dry ratio of greater than two to one.

Indiana Ratifies Today.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 25.—(AP)—Indiana formally will cast its vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment through ratification of another—the twenty-first amendment—to the constitution of the United States at a convention here tomorrow.

Massachusetts Delegates Meet.

Boston, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—Massachusetts tomorrow will ratify officially repeal of the 18th amendment at 45 delegates, all pledged for repeal and elected at the special election of June 13, meet at the state house for the constitutional convention.

SALES TAX BILL IN HOUSE TODAY FOR FINAL VOTE

Predict Final Week Jam on Legislation.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Running true to form, the Illinois general assembly goes into one of its biennial final week jams of legislation tomorrow morning.

Uppermost in the tangle are several of the biggest measures backed by the administration. They include the second attempt to pass a state retail sales tax, the measures to extend the powers of the tax commission and the utilities commission, and the bill to authorize the creation of a board to establish minimum wage scales for women and minors.

But tied up in the jam are dozens of other proposed laws—the housing commission bills, the Perry bill for a commission to prepare a program for the consolidation of elections, the Rategan plan for the consolidation of parks in Cook county, the racing commission bill, and even a number of appropriations.

Work to Final Day.

Last January the leaders chosen to direct the affairs of the new assembly work would be done in four or, at least, five months. But the prospect now is that both houses will be working right through June 30, the last day on which the present assembly may enact a law without a two-thirds vote and see it take effect without a year's delay.

More than on any other measures, attention is concentrated on the 2 per cent sales tax bill, which went through a series of rough experiences last week but came out intact, with evidences that the administration will have the 77 votes to pass it in the house, the senate already having given its approval.

The announcement has been made that it will be taken up Monday morning, but skeptics say this statement was more of an effort to bring the lawmakers back early, than an actual forecast of what is to occur. Those doubting ones believe the showdown on the administration's most warmly indorsed projects will come on Tuesday.

Merchants Will Protest.

Friends of the administration found little cheer in a statement by R. Irving Winter of Alton, president of the Illinois merchants' council, that "between 5,000 and 6,000" retail merchants will be on hand to demonstrate against the bill and to lay down the law to the representatives from their districts. The margin of victory seen is so small that the last minute swinging of a few votes might turn the battle.

It is argued that this delayed action by the organization which knocked out the former 3 per cent law in the Supreme court is an admission that the new bill is likely to succeed unless drastic measures are used to stop it.

Utilities Bill Test Near.

The utilities bill, which passed the house last week, is ready for final action by the senate when it meets on Tuesday. It stood the test of amendment attacks last week and its backers expressed certainty they have the votes to put it through.

The present plan is to adjourn the assembly on Thursday, June 29, but old timers predict the solons will still be working on Friday and—by the old process of setting the clock back—even into the early hours of Saturday.

NEW AND BETTER WAY TO PREDICT WEATHER SHOWN

Los Angeles, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—A group of scientists, after four years of experiments, today announced a new weather forecasting system which they said had proved 96.1 per cent accurate in telling what the climatic conditions will be in every section of the country from 24 to 48 hours before the weather arrives.

Tornadoes, cyclones, extreme winds, rains, light or heavy, sunshine, cold weather or hot or just lukewarm, may be read well in advance and due warning served under the system.

Irving Krick, 27 year old meteorologist working with the airline and the California Institute of Technology, under the sponsorship of Dr. Robert A Millikan, eminent scientist, is regarded as the moving genius behind the plan, which he calls "the Norwegian system of air mass analysis."

The system seeks to lend complete accuracy to weather reports, now only about 65 per cent satisfactory. It is based upon analysis of "cold" and "warm" air masses.

TEMBLORS ARE FELT OVER WIDE AREA OF NEVADA, CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Slight earth tremors were felt throughout a wide area of California and Nevada today.

In Sacramento, the state capital, the shocks disturbed residents throughout the city, cracked windows and did minor damage to falling crockery, while in other communities the tremors were sometimes so slight as to be barely perceptible.

Reports from as widely separated cities as Truckee and Stockton told of moderate temblors. Slight shocks were felt from San Francisco to Sonora.

At Tahoe City the shocks were reported to have been of about seven seconds' duration. Some walls were cracked.

A quake described as "moderate" was felt at Reno, Nev., where the needle of a seismograph was thrown off the drum.

Observers at the University of Nevada described the quakes as a series of light shocks lasting about 45 seconds, accompanied by two relatively severe shocks.

Prof. Perry Byerly, University of California seismologist, said the shocks must have been severe somewhere in the affected region.

COL. LINDBERGH, WIFE WILL FLY TO GREENLAND

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—A flight which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife will make to Greenland soon probably will be extended across the Atlantic to Iceland, and possibly to Denmark, it was reported today. It will be a flight to determine for Pan-American Airways the feasibility of a northern route to Europe.

Col. Lindbergh will survey the route, particularly Greenland, for landing places, and seek to learn what kind of plane is best suited for the route. On the basis of his findings, Pan-American Airways, to which he is technical adviser, will make their plans for their future trans-Atlantic schedule.

CITY CORRECTIVE SCHOOL COSTING $960 PER PUPIL

Board Urged to Abandon Parental Institution.

Chicago is spending more than $960 per pupil this year for the education of its "incorrigible" and truant boys and girls, according to a report made public by Miss Isabella Dolton, assistant superintendent of schools. The $960 average applies to the parental school, 3600 Foster avenue, which has an attendance of 140 pupils and appropriations of $135,000 in the 1933 budget.

The report was given to Supt. William J. Bogan, who recommended that the school be closed as an economy measure a year ago. No action was taken by the board of education on the suggestion. Mr. Bogan favors the gradual elimination of the school and the development of other methods of juvenile correction.

Favors New Type School.

Expenditures at the Parental school have been called to the attention of President James B. McCahey of the board of education. They will be scrutinized by Mr. McCahey and his special committee of school trustees in drafting their 1933 budget reduction.

One of the methods advocated by Mr. Bogan is a newer type of corrective school. The system now operates two of these schols, the Montefiore, established in 1929, and the Moseley, opened in 1930. There the students are given complete physical and mental examinations. Diagnosis and treatment follow.

"The combined budgets for the Montefiore and Moseley schools for 1933 was $150,610," said Miss Dolton. "This figure, combined with the budget for the Parental school for 1933, makes a total of $285,681 for corrective schools, which is $76,128 less than the cost of corrective schools in 1929."

Study Individual Cases.

A second method offered by Supt. Bogan was begun in October of last year. District superintendents were asked to hold conferences for all pupils who were being considered for transfer to special schools. At these conferences reports on each case were presented by a truant officer, visiting teacher, psychologist and the school principal.

Up to date there have been 406 cases studied in these conferences. Of this number 147 have made good at their schools, 155 were transferred to special schools and centers, 77 were sent to the Parental school and the remainder were taken care of by minor adjustments.

The Parental school is headed by Supt. Peter A. Mortenson, formerly superintendent of the city school system. His present salary is $5,304 a year, with living quarters. Included on the pay roll are one assistant principal, eleven teachers, seventeen family instructors and four farm hands. Children at the school live in cottages under the supervision of families.

CIVIC FEDERATION CONDEMNS BILL TO RAISE TAXES

Relief Measure Hastily Drawn, Says Bureau.

The Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency yesterday declared itself against contemplated relief legislation which would raise funds by increasing real estate and personal property taxes in Cook county and 24 other counties not under township organization.

The legislation referred to is contained in senate bills 688, 715 and 729, known as the Lantz bills. They are up for final passage this week in the state house.

"In the past we have upheld efforts to finance unemployment relief without increasing property taxes," said Alfred C. Cowles, president of the organization. "Property in Cook county, certainly, is paying all the taxes that can be paid. To add heavily to its burden will tend to impair payments of taxes now being levied for normal governmental purposes."

"Bills Carelessly Prepared."

Mr. Cowles said the measure is not promoted by those responsible for relief administration in Illinois, nor by any Chicago or Cook county legislator or citizen organization. The bills have been hastily and carelessly prepared, he said. They provide that Chicago and other Cook county municipalities must estimate, before the next taxes are extended, how much will be needed for poor relief, he added.

"The utter folly of such piecemeal financing and handling of poor relief is obvious," said Mr. Cowles. "Responsible, centralized, economical and efficient administration will be impossible. The same situation will exist, so far as disintegration of relief is concerned, in all of the other affected counties.

"To the doctrine that each community should finance its own poor relief, we have no objection in normal times. However, the present emergency has become a state wide and a nation wide problem. The federal government has adopted the policy of matching only state expenditures and this constitutes another objection to financing poor relief by additional local taxes upon already overburdened property."

L. V. L. Issues Statement.

The Legislative Voters league issued a statement yesterday urging all Cook county legislators to support the two per cent sales tax bill which is scheduled to come before the house for action today.

"The league believes it to be the duty of all patriotic legislators to join in immediate action to provide adequate funds required to enable Chicago to cope with the problem of unemployment relief," the statement read. "As the two per cent sales tax bill appears to offer the only available means of raising the large sums that must be provided for that purpose the league urges all Cook county legislators to aid in enacting the bill at this session."

All Cigarettes are not Alike

Different Kinds of Tobaccos Make a Difference in Taste and Aroma

. . . Take Chesterfields, for Instance

SOME cigarettes are made out of only one kind of tobacco...while others are made from several different kinds.

And everyone can understand that different tobaccos make a difference in taste and aroma. Chesterfields are a good example of this difference.

You see it's not easy to make Chesterfield's milder taste. It takes three distinct kinds of Domestic tobaccos. Then these must be seasoned with the right amount of Turkish. And they must be blended and cross-blended until their flavors are welded together . . . to make a cigarette that has character and yet is not too strong . . . to make a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

Hogsheads of Domestic Tobaccos stored away for curing.

Choice Turkish Tobaccos come to Chesterfield warehouses in bales like these.

Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

COUNTY REDUCES FOREST TENANTS FROM 200 TO 42

Denies All New Requests for Cabin Sites.

Although the policy of the Cook county forest preserves in recent years has been to refuse to grant new special concessions to private organizations, there still remain 42 cabins and houses in the district used for such concessions. This was revealed yesterday by Charles Sauers, general superintendent of the forest preserves.

The concessionaires are listed as "tenants" of the preserve, but they do not pay any rent for their quarters. These special privileges, which have been objected to by taxpayers, are a relic of the days when the preserves were trying to attract visitors, Mr. Sauers said.

Already Reduced from 200.

"It was necessary to offer special inducements to organizations to get people to use the preserves," Mr. Sauers said, "and at one time there were more than 200 concessions. But we have been cutting down on them and not allowing any new ones, and within a few years we expect to eliminate practically all of them."

A few cabins will be reserved for charitable organizations, he said. The list at present includes five American Legion post cabins, a Lions club cabin, ten Boy Scout cabins, and many church club headquarters. Mr. Sauers said that he is urging organizations interested in the outdoor opportunities of the forest preserves to locate their headquarters on the borders of a preserve, and use the facilities while maintaining their headquarters on private lands.

President Emmett Whealan and the board of forest preserve commissioners recently refused to consider further applications for special concessions in the Elk Grove preserve.

N. Aurora Marshal Shot by Hoodlums at Roadhouse

Perle Peck, night marshal of North Aurora, was shot in the back early yesterday when he arrived at the Fox Gardens, a roadhouse opposite the entrance to the Exposition park race track at Aurora, just as four men drove up. The men opened fire on Peck, who was in uniform, and then drove away. Police believe they had intended to rob the place. Peck probably will recover, physicians said.

MAYOR PLANNING SANEST FOURTH IN CITY HISTORY

Orders Enforcement of Fireworks Ban.

Mayor Kelly yesterday lent his support to the movement for a sane observance of the Fourth of July. He said he would request Commissioner of Police Allman to order strict enforcement of the city code on fireworks.

"The city ordinances prohibit the sale or discharge, without a permit, of fireworks within the city," said the mayor. "But it always has been easy to purchase fireworks from stands set up outside the city limits. I was in favor of a bill that would have prohibited the sale of fireworks throughout the state."

Senate Kills Fireworks Bill.

State Senator Edward P. O'Grady introduced a statewide anti-fireworks bill at the present session of the legislature. The bill was killed in the senate.

The city code provides a penalty of from $5 to $200 for each offense committed under the ordinance that prohibits the discharge of fireworks or any public pyrotechnic display without a permit from the mayor's office. Violators, the mayor said, will be prosecuted under the ordinance.

Plan City's Sanest Fourth.

"We want to make Independence day in 1933 the sanest and safest in Chicago's history," said Commissioner of Police Allman. "Police who find children with firecrackers, toy pistols, or toy cannons will take these articles to the parents and explain the law to them. Parents who refuse to cooperate and take the dangerous fireworks from the children will be prosecuted."

Despite the police precautions on July 4 last year, 55 Chicagoans were injured while handling fireworks. Mayor Kelly and Commissioner Allman hope to prevent any deaths or injuries this year.

ROB SHOE MERCHANT OF $245.

Three bandits halted Abe Cutler, manager of a shoe store at 6360 South Halsted street, early yesterday as he was about to place his Saturday receipts in the night depository of the Chicago City bank, 815 West 63d street, and robbed him of $245.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CHICAGO AND JAUNDICED CRITICS.

General comment on the Fair indicates that it has hit the bull's-eye. Pure aestheticism lodges a complaint here and there and criticism gets to its occasional mark, but general opinion, whether more sensitive or more acceptive, agrees that achievement is there and that the astonishing accomplishment of creating a new type of exposition interpretive of the times is repeated in Chicago. Many world's fairs have opened their gates in various cities of the world since 1893 but here is the first distinctive creation since that time.

Apparently the prevailing idea outside of Chicago for some time has been that it could not be done, least of all in the dreadful city where financial misfortunes were extraordinary even in hard times, and where active news disseminating agencies had sent abroad the impression that here was a stricken community of wan and terrorized people, feebly sustaining life in complete despair in the ruins of another Nineveh.

Most visitors, observing that this legend was one of hysterical thought outside of Chicago and had been but little taken into account here, have been both preceptive enough and good natured enough to admit that they had been deceived by erroneous reports. There will be, however, splenetic critics with leave to print who will not surrender a preconception, however distorted their mental processes must be to keep it.

Turning from the Fair and from the whole brilliant spectacle of the far-sweeping lake shore line which is a discomfiture to their complacent and fixed derogations of the city, they seek justification by plunging into what they regard as the interior and nether darkness of the city of evil they insist still stands on this spot.

It is true that no city viewed from the average railroad right-of-way entering it gives the visitor an admirable picture of what it contains. That is true of almost every city, town, or village in the world. It is also true that many districts of any large city must displease rather than gratify the eye. It is no less true of the small towns than it is of the big ones. House building, especially although not solely inexpensive house building, has not met idyllic requirements. Whole streets and blocks may be dreary to the eye.

Chicago has many of these areas and, as every city has, its poor and even its indifferent masses of citizenship, but the statement that Chicago is a place of vile slums concealed by the glittering façade of the lake front is a slander discreditable to the person who utters it merely to sustain a determined opinion that a maligned community must be what fabulously ill report has made of it. The truth is that Chicago has been fortunate in escaping the conditions which have fastened themselves upon not only the European metropolitan areas still containing the medieval horrors of building and of life in such quarters, but upon many great American cities which have cramped their congested districts into veritable slums.

Chicago has been fortunate because it could spread either within its corporate limits or in its closely knit suburban areas almost without hindrance. In consequence even the worst looking of the habitations have light and air. Water supply is pure and virtually unlimited. The great recreation grounds, parks, and playgrounds are easily accessible to every inhabitant. Even in a financial disaster of legally hamstrung taxation from which no other city has suffered, Chicago has maintained the social services which are a benefit to all its people. It has fought against political mistakes which its people made and injuries which political rascals, supported mistakenly, wrought to its almost utter confusion, and it has fought so well that it is not only surviving but it is coming out in triumph. A great metropolitan democracy will make mistakes. Plenty of them were made in Chicago. The radical critic will seek every explanation except that one.

The lie that Chicago is mired to its hopeless neck if one steps a foot away from the lake front to discover it is a slander which can come only from an obnoxious individual who is determined to walk blindfolded until he can find something which to perceptive eyes would be only the as well expectable part of any great city and there find the norm he sought for the entire people. To the great majority of its visitors Chicago displays all it has, knowing that their judgment will be the fair and discriminating one of the people who really make America.

CONCRETE VS. ASPHALT.

Now that the controversy over prices between the state highway department and the cement manufacturers has been concluded, there is less reason than ever for paving main-traveled roads and streets with asphalt. In saying this, THE TRIBUNE is well aware of the fact that it is taking sides in an old fight between the cement manufacturers and the asphalt suppliers, a fight in which figures can be produced by asphalt interests to show that their roads give, dollar for dollar, as good service or better than is given by concrete surfaces.

The theoretical aspects of this controversy may be left to engineers. The practical fact is that as asphalt is laid on highways in this vicinity it is frequently lumpy, short-lived, slippery in winter and sticky in summer. Asphalt is also relatively expensive in many instances, perhaps, as has been frequently alleged, because of the existence of a well organized ring of asphalt contractors operating in the metropolitan area. On the whole, concrete paving has been far more satisfactory to motorists and taxpayers.

THE SEAWAY TREATY POSTPONED.

Despite great pressure for immediate ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada, the senate did not take up the question at the session recently concluded. The fact reflects favorably upon the good sense of the senators. They knew some of the provisions of the treaty were highly controversial and could hardly be given the attention they deserved in a session which was preoccupied with emergency legislation. Credit for the delay must be given especially to Senator Lewis of Illinois and to his junior colleague, Senator Dieterich. Their sound insistence that the question of the diversion be given adequate study was fortified by their large influence with the administration.

In the months which will intervene before congress reassembles in January the friends of the new lakes-to-gulf waterway will have an opportunity to organize the Mississippi valley and its natural allies for the amendment of the treaty to protect the waterway. Now that the Illinois link is completed and functioning under government auspices, it should be much easier than it has been to demonstrate the absurdity of limiting the diversion by international treaty before any one knows with any degree of certainty how much water is needed to make the Mississippi waterway serviceable to the nation's commerce at all seasons of the year. Obviously the treaty should be amended to leave that matter within the discretion of our government as a condition of ratification.

THE LAST GASP OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

The Anti-Saloon league in Ohio is playing true to form to the last. The legislature of the state has passed an act calling for a convention to consider prohibition repeal. The governor has proclaimed Nov. 7 for the election of delegates. Now the league has filed a petition for a referendum on the law which authorized the convention. If the referendum is held the ratification of the repeal amendment by Ohio will be delayed until next year.

Obviously, the only honest purpose which the referendum can serve would be served equally well by the election of delegates. There is no need for two referendums on what amounts to the same question. Those who favor the referendum do so because they favor the eighteenth amendment, and that is their only reason. The demand for a referendum is nothing but a cheap political trick, characteristic of the league.

The Anti-Saloon league was born in Ohio and there acquired the character which made it odious throughout the Union. There, too, it made its alliance with the corrupt Ohio gang. As might be expected, the league in Ohio is true to its political philosophy to the last. Any political swindle which seems to promote the dry cause has its sanction.

SCORES AGAINST CRIME.

The Supreme court's refusal to stay the journey of three gangsters, Mangano, Desuno and Clementi, to the penitentiary marks a substantial gain in our fight on professional crime. Another score for justice is the decision upholding the conviction for murder of Liddell. These decisions should be noted by those critics of our judiciary who, because of such reversals as that in the case of the brute, Varecha, and the allowance of a $150,000 claim of the political Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, feel that our high court is unsophisticated or unduly technical.

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP GROWS.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

Religious leaders in recent years have found much to deplore in what they believed to be evidence of a tendency toward spiritual decadence among the people. Perhaps that is a characteristic of every age. New interests, new manners, new customs provoke the elders to a disquieting fear that the faith of the fathers is in process of disintegration. Nevertheless this disquietude has seemed in the post-war era not without justification. We had spent our emotional reserves upon the war and seemed to have lost the capacity for that depth of feeling associated with religious experience. To many we appeared hell bent in the service of mammon.

But if there is any truth in this it is not susceptible of mathematical demonstration. The statistics of religion all point the other way. Numerically the church is stronger than ever, if one may designate as the church an institution made up of 204 different bodies whose business is to minister to the spiritual and religious life. Dr. G. L. Kieffer, religious statistician, reports a total church membership of nearly 61 million, of whom more than 50 million are 13 years old or over.

This is only a little short of half the population of the country. When we consider that of the unchurched remainder a large proportion are children and many adults have unrecorded church connections it is obvious that any spiritual decadence which may have occurred has not been accompanied by a complete lack of interest in the religious side of life.

In time of stress and trouble there is a natural turning to spiritual consolation, so it is not surprising to learn from Dr. Kieffer's figures that the increase in church membership last year was four times that of the year before, in numbers considerably more than a million. This was accomplished in a year which was not marked by any outward sign of unusual religious fervor.

Most significant are the figures reported by the Christian Herald, which finds church membership since 1900 has increased 82.3 per cent while population has increased 65.8 per cent.

If these figures mean anything they seem to indicate that the clergy have done fairly well at calling sinners to repentance. The graver problem may lie in the field of promoting spirituality among those definitely under their influence.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE GIVE OUR Medal for Strange Achievements for the year 1933 to young Bernard Rattner of Harlingen, Tex., who arrived from his home town at the World's Fair Saturday after riding the entire distance, 2,000 miles, on a horse. This ought to prove to the hitch-hikers that it is possible to travel without begging rides. Or maybe young Mr. Rattner hasn't any thumbs?

PARIS REPORTS that the decline in value of the dollar has caused many Americans abroad to think about retreating to some little island in the Mediterranean where they can live cheap and on the coöp plan. We who stay home are bothered mostly by the reports of the declining price of the dollar when we come to buy a pocketbook. We don't know whether to get the old fashioned, regulation sized pocketbook or a gunnysack.

CLOTH-OF-GOLD.

O who would tire of earthly life,
And who would fretted be,
If all the days could be illumed
By beauty's minstrelsy!

So I shall take the pleasant things,
And every petty wrong,
And weave them into cloth-of-gold,
And weaving, breathe a song.

And no event shall miss my loom,
Or joy or sorrow bringing;
When death itself demands a place,
I'll weave it in, still singing,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

IF THE 5 & 10 PRINCESS should ever decide to put the 5 & 10 Prince in the 5 and 10 store would he be put on the 5 or 10 counter? We hope the 5, because 10 seems a pretty high price for a prince the way they've been marked down in Europe.

THE CONSTANT RUMORS that Franklin Delano, now cruising the Atlantic ocean in his little schooner, may take it into his head at any time at all to go to the London conference is causing the photogs and reporters who are following him the gravest concern. They don't know whether to continue chasing him in yachts and motor boats or pursue him with ocean liners.

SKETCH.

She is elderly, but not old; a cripple, but by no means an invalid; poor, but not at all indigent; much alone, but seldom lonely. Widowed, silver-haired, silver-voiced. Keen of eye and comprehension. Given to quick little smiles and shrugs. A good talker. A better conversationalist. Well informed and well balanced. Being lame, she can only hobble about her room—from her bed to the chair by the window mostly; but she is well traveled by means of books, and knows life in the same way, and by observation, too; for every phase of it passes beneath her window. She likes gossip if it be sympathetic and tolerant; loves young people; and dotes not nor dwells upon the good old times. An omnivorous reader; but her chief occupation is piecing quilts. Like jigsaw puzzles, she fits tiny bits of cloth together. Like jigsaw puzzles; but when she completes a pattern she has something of usefulness and worth. She reads a while—perhaps the latest novel, Shakespeare, a movie magazine, or Thoreau's Walden Pond; then goes back to her quilt piecing and ponders. She looks down upon life from her window a space; then returns to her work and reflects. And while her fingers gradually grow stiff and numb from age, her mind remains nimble.

The neighbors think her life narrow. But, as usual, they are mistaken. It is not as narrow as that of the merchant, for instance, who must mind his business all day long; nor that of the judge who sits in the courtroom, listening to tedious trials, and must keep his brain dream-barren and logical; nor that of the traveling salesman who goes everywhere and sees nothing but customers. Not even the minister, with all his spare time, can live as broadly and humanly as she, for he is hemmed in by a creed and must think thoughts that are pious and proper.

Life is so often concentrated when confined within four walls, and dissipated in the open spaces. EOLUS.

AND CAMERA EYE CAMILLE writes in to say that she knows a man who drives an auto in Chicago who has no legs and only one arm. Well, Camille, that's perfectly all right in Illinois, where the legislature refuses to pass a drivers license law. Even if that man you speak of had no arms and no legs, but was able to drive a car with his teeth, it would be perfectly all right in Illinois. The best we can do is to hope that he has good teeth if he ever has to depend on them alone in driving his car. For when he bit convulsively at the brake rope in order to stop his car and his front teeth broke or the plate came out it would be just too bad.

TWO FOR TEA.

Ever higher leaps my fire
As I toss the fagots on.

Gloom and loneliness, begone!

Polished metal is my kettle
And it sings above the flame.

Teacups clatter on the platter;
I have spread the board for two.

Wishes, wishes, please come true!

There's a tapping, there's a rapping
And I open wide my door.

Weep, my foolish heart, no more!

Damp coat dripping, warm tea sipping,
'Tis not make-believe this time.

Cease your trembling, hands of mine!

TO SNEEZE OR NOT TO SNEEZE.

SNEEZING serves a purpose. It is the procedure provided for clearing the membranes of the nose of things that are irritating to it. It is generally combined with another procedure, designed for the same purpose, and that is the free discharge of a clear, watery fluid. This being the purpose of sneezing, it should be looked upon as beneficent, and, being such, there should be no effort to suppress it. Nor should it be viewed with alarm. When a baby sneezes we should recognize that the performance is worthy and natural, and there may be no occasion for closing the windows, lighting the fire, or adding clothing.

It is also true that adults are much more disturbed by sneezing than is justified. The sneezing apparatus is set to go automatically. There are traps that cannot be sprung except by the weight of a bear, and there are others that will spring from the feathery touch of a field mouse.

There are persons who sneeze on trivial provocation and others who rarely sneeze. If a person who is very sensitive sneezes the rule is that the performance is not worthy of attention. If, however, he is sensitized to something such as pollen, the act means that his nose membranes are being irritated to somewhere near their tolerance limit. The dose of pollen may make no impression whatever on a person whose membranes are more tolerant. In the case of hay fever subjects the earlier sneezes are of interest because they serve warning of the beginning pollution of the air—a pollution that can be counted on to be worse next week or the first windy day.

The deeper parts of the nose and particularly the turbinate bone regions are composed of membrane which belongs to what is known as the erectile tissues. There are times when the tissue in this region is very thin and contains little blood. There are other times when this membrane is very thick and turgid. Both conditions are normal under appropriate conditions. Therefore, removing tissue from this area merely because it is thickened is much more apt to do harm than good.

When such tissue, serving a purpose, becomes turgid and swollen, sneezing and discharge of watery fluid are apt to follow. These symptoms need not mean that the person is taking cold or is headed for pneumonia. It has been the custom to interpret sneezing that way, and many are the persons who have taken a hot foot bath, wrapped up, swallowed a purgative, and gone to bed on this false alarm.

WIGGLE THE APPLE.

J. S. C. writes: I have a new one for hiccups—or one that may be new. Having the hiccups recently, and no water handy of which to take the nine swallows, I took my Adam's apple between thumb and forefinger and wiggled it vigorously from side to side. No more hiccups. This was new to me.

HICCUPS.

Dr. J. W. W. writes: From time to time the daily press carries reports of people afflicted with uncontrollable hiccups. In addition to doctors the public ought to know that this malady responds symptomatically to the inhaling of carbon dioxide gas. Shops having soda fountains always have a spare tank on hand that can be connected up with appropriate tubing and face mask. Lacking this, it might be possible to obtain a sizable chunk of dry ice from the makers of it, and this, placed in a canister and kept tightly closed when not in use, will serve. The patient's face is placed in the entrance to the receptacle, but must by no means touch any part of the dry ice.

This treatment does not reach the cause of hiccups, but, when used for two or three minutes every half hour, will control the spasms until the underlying cause disappears or is removed. I know of no possible harm that it can do; the patient knows when he has inhaled enough, and it can be repeated when the symptom reappears.

NOSEBLEEDS.

Mrs. O. L. writes: I have a daughter 8 years old, who is troubled with nosebleeds. All winter long she never has one, but as soon as the warm weather comes there is scarcely a day passes that she hasn't a nosebleed. Please tell me what causes this, and if there is anything I can do to prevent it.

REPLY.

Nosebleed in a rapidly growing child is frequently encountered. It is disconcerting and often alarming, but it is less harmful than you think. In most cases a physician, looking into the nose, will discover an enlarged blood vessel twig and a bleeding point. This can be touched with caustic. I had an article on these little vessel twigs about three weeks ago. In some cases tonsils and adenoids should be removed. The bleeding can be stopped by closing the nostrils with the fingers of one hand and leaning the head forward. This position should be held long enough for the blood to clot in the nose.

CAUSED BY BROKEN HOUSE DRAIN.

Chicago, June 23.—[Friend of the People.]—Opposite 6830 Dorchester avenue there is a newly formed depression in the pavement that is causing a great deal of damage to automobiles and trucks and is a menace to public safety. Kindly call this to the attention of the proper authorities. H. E. W.

Report is made that the depression referred to is due to a broken house drain. Depression is being kept filled to grade pending necessary repairs to drain by the bureau of sewers. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,

RENT PAYMENTS.

Chicago, June 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago my mother died. There are five children. 1. After her death the other children asked me to live in mother's home and take care of the place, which I did. 2. Now my brother wants me to pay $20 a month rent. 3. The will is not probated yet, and I was told I did not have to pay rent until the will is probated. 4. He says a woman cannot be administrator. 5. He says he can put me out. Please let me know who is right. A. S.

1. It is ordinarily understood that a person occupying a residence that does not belong entirely to him should be charged with rent, but if when you were invited to move in it was understood that the purpose was to take care of the premises, then we would incline to agree with you. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing exactly what was said.

2. An executor or administrator does not necessarily have the power to collect rents. Rights would depend upon the wording of the will.

3. You can check up on the facts by inquiring at the office of the clerk of the Probate court. Ordinarily an estate should be closed shortly after the expiration of one year.

4. There is no such rule.

5. His rights depend on the agreement when you moved in and on the wording of the will. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"On to Washington!" is the slogan of the beer and wine interests of the country, who, completely deserting the distillers, are determined to make a desperate fight to induce the senate to modify the war prohibition measure voted into the food control by the house. It is expected the senate will accept the house prohibition features to make the country practically "bone dry" for the period of the war.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tabulations at Red Cross headquarters early today showed $100,313,000 in reported pledges, of which $25,993,000 was from New York City and $64,320,000 from the remainder of the country. Reports later today are expected to swell the total at least $5,000,000, campaign managers said.

WAR SUMMARY.—Paris reports continued heavy artillery duels, and that Reims again is a German target. Berlin reports repulse of the French near Vauxaillon. London reports progress on mile and a half front on both banks of the Souchez river. Berlin says British attempts to advance failed. Berlin reports the capture of Russian prisoners during a thrust between the Ziota Lipa and the Narayuvka.

CHICAGO.—Orders calling out the First Illinois field artillery for duty at Fort Sheridan were issued by the war department. The date on which the battery will move, however, will not be known until the orders reach here. Col. H. J. O'Reilly commands the First artillery.

LONDON.—The complete official list of casualties of the German air raid over East London June 13, as announced yesterday, showed the heaviest toll of any German aerial raid. The dead were 157 and the injured 432.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—I have a 50 cent piece dated 1833. Is it any special value in connection with the Fair?

ANSWER—A Century of Progress Exposition is not buying coins or souvenirs of any kind.

QUESTION—Is an entrance fee asked for admission to the foreign exhibits?

ANSWER—The majority of official foreign exhibits are free to the public.

QUESTION—To whom shall I send my envelopes for cachet of World's Fair day of Poland, July 22? To whom shall I write regarding mail to be taken by return flight of the Italian Balbo air squadron to Italy and back by boat?

ANSWER—Write to Lou Kreicker, General Exhibits Pavilion 1, for answers to both questions.

QUESTION—While visiting the Fair grounds is it possible to take snapshot pictures of the various exhibits and buildings?

ANSWER—Yes, as long as they are not for commercial purposes.

THE ADMINISTRATION IN REVIEW.

Duquoin, Ill., June 21.—With the adjournment of congress the administration reaches Utopia. For six months now, till January, we are to have a purely executive government, which is, I suspect, the ideal of the theorists who have done most of the cerebrating on the program of reconstruction and readjustment. The promised land lies before us. The tools are forged, and the forging has been done with considerably less of the anvil chorus than an American President would reasonably expect. Mr. Roosevelt has admittedly proved himself a first class executive, and the people have proved that they are in a very sorry state indeed. We are on the borders of a reformed world. All that remains is that we should take occupation.

Six months is not a great while, but where in three months a constitutional government can be suspended, in six it may be quite strangled to death. I could forgive in the administration most of its actual legislation, temporary in character, as it is said to be, and answering to the crises of an emergency. I cannot forgive its evident tendency to replace deliberation with prescription, principle with expedient, experience with experiment. These attempted substitutions are symptomatic of a school of thought foreign to the Anglo-Saxon tradition of government. That tradition is a liberal one; but, so far as I can determine, it has no place for statutory kindness.

Men who take a long term view of history will tell you that Oliver Cromwell was an aberration as an English ruler. We have had zealots and doctrinaires both in England and America; but for the most part we have kept them out of public office. And no doctrine, however fantastic, is so dangerous in its potentialities as that of trying anything which looks as though it might work—no doctrine or any. Liberalism is and has been generally praised, even by its most inveterate enemies; but it is hard to see why an open mind should necessarily be a cesspool.

And in parting let me make a contribution to the spirit of the times. If the government is looking for something else to restrict, I suggest some restriction on the issue of federal bonds.

SPECULATOR.

THE NEW DEAL IN THE POSTOFFICE.

Chicago, June 19.—Here is what the new deal has done in our home: My father, a letter carrier in the postoffice for 35 years, with no black marks against him either for unpunctuality or any other reason and not due for his pension, is notified of his retirement the first of July. My father has been the sole support of our family, as my brother and I have been out of work several years. We are about to lose our home through foreclosure, and will some one explain how we are supposed to pay rent, feed, and clothe ourselves on $97 a month? J. L.

SCHOOL FINANCES.

Chicago, June 10.—Our school board is in bad financial condition. Why? Because it has spent millions and millions of dollars on a number of good for nothing, worthless frills and folderols. None of us are so old fashioned that we don't like gymnastics, tap dancing, beauty culture, golf, and tile lined swimming pools, but what we all want to know is, who is going to pay for it?

When business houses or corporations start going into the red they immediately cut expenses, lower salaries, dispense with all unnecessary employés, consolidate departments, and eventually get back in the black by forcing expenses down to a point lower than their income.

Our Democratic political leaders in this city are different. Rather than reduce the school board budget, at least 50 per cent, to a point where the taxpayers could maintain it, they prefer to continue along the same lines.

Confronted now with a situation that requires sane thinking and a great reduction in costs, or more money in the form of a huge bond issue, they choose the latter and decide in truly Russian form to railroad through the state legislature without a referendum a forty million dollar bond issue. How this bond issue will be paid or what the payers will use for money is something that I can't fathom. Yet the fact remains that the taxpayers whose backs are already badly bent from overtaxation will be given relief in the form of another bond issue of forty million dollars which will be legalized without giving them the opportunity to accept or reject it.

JOHN J. MANGAN.

GOLD.

Chicago, June 14.—A mere handful of gold hoarders have banded themselves together to defy the orders of the President to exchange their hoardad treasure for other forms of money. They know the constitution of their country well, and protection of property rights is one of the fundamentals of that constitution.

The one thing these constitutional sticklers are not aware of is that we are experiencing a revolution now. No blood is shed, no form of government is being changed, but the principles of private ownership are being overhauled and the broader interpretations of property rights are being modified and trimmed.

Can those valiant Knights of the Golden Fleece resist the tide of the times? Can they succeed in a policy that clashes sharply with the avowed plan of our government to make our monetary system conform to the demands of the times? L. B. U.

COMFORT.

Chicago, June 19.—Sunday four of us hicks from Peoria invaded your wonderful A Century of Progress Fair and we enjoyed seeing as much as there was to see during our limited time. Our only criticism is the lack of public comfort stations. DISGUSTED.

Miss Virginia Chapman Engaged to J. Brooks Fenno of Boston

Visiting Socialites Will Be Among Prominent Persons at Arlington Opening Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TAKING precedence in today's society column even over the opening of the Arlington Park race track—one of THE social events of the season—is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman of Lake Shore drive and Lake Forest of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Virginia, to J. Brooks Fenno Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and Bar Harbor.

Miss Chapman, the third of the four attractive Chapman sisters, made her debut last winter at a dinner dance at the Casino during the Christmas holiday season. Her older sisters, Margaret and Elinor, made their debuts at similar Christmas holiday parties the year before and two years before that, Margaret in the season of 1931-'32 and Elinor in the season of 1930-'31. Caroline, the youngest, still is a schoolgirl.

Miss Virginia has been attending the University of Chicago for the last two years and before that she went to St. Timothy's school at Catonsville, Md. She and her mother and sisters will be leaving before long to spend the summer at Bar Harbor. Her fiancé is a graduate of St. Mark's and Harvard, and was a former National Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis champion. He has a cousin living in Winnetka, Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., the former Marion Fenno of Boston, who also ranked high in tennis circles when she was a girl.

No plans for the wedding are announced yet. Miss Chapman served as a bridesmaid Saturday afternoon in Lake Forest at the marriage of Miss Rosamond Baker and Edgar Stanton Jr.

Many Luncheons at Arlington.

Local socialites and visitors of national and international importance who are here to see the Fair probably will find the opening of the Arlington Park race track a magnet to attract them away from the city this afternoon. That the Post and Paddock club, where society lunches and watches the racing, will be a brilliant picture is certain.

Instead of one large luncheon for the officers, as there has been at the four other openings—this is Arlington's fifth season—there are to be dozens of smaller parties today with almost every member of the Post and Paddock entertaining a few or many guests. There never has been so large an advance sale of boxes as this season, we are told, and some of the many boxholders are Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Laurance H. Armour, Austin Niblack, Leeds Mitchell, Robert J. Thorne, Harry H. Lobdell, Charles H. Schweppe, Knowlton L. Ames Jr., Harold Swift, George E. Van Hagen, Silas H. Strawn and many other well known Chicagoans and equally as many prominent devotees of the sport of kings from other cities.

Mrs. Howard Linn Is Busy Hostess.

There never was a busier hostess than Mrs. Howard Linn, who seems to have an unending stream of out of town guests visiting her over week-ends or longer. Last week-end the Winthrop W. Aldriches and Mrs. Lewis Morris of New York were her house guests, and arriving July 1 for a week's stay are Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Whigham, their daughter, Miss Sybil Whigham, and her fiancé, Robert P. Young, all of New York.

Miss Whigham's engagement to Mr. Young was announced last week-end in New York. Her fiancé, who is a nephew of the William C. Langleys of New York, is a very well known horseman, being a member of Meadowbrook and the Turf and Field. The couple will be greatly entertained while here.

Now that the first hectic rush of seeing the Fair is over, those people who spend the summer in the country are thinking of fishing tackle, tennis racquets and old clothes, and "getting away from it all." Habitués of Fish Creek, Wis., either have already gone up or are going soon. The Chalkley Jay Hambletons and their children, Miss Jessica Hambleton, Miss Elizabeth Hambleton, and Chalkley Jr., have been in their house for a fortnight or more, and Arthur Heun and the A. Rosecrans Baldwin family all went up Saturday.

Mrs. Baldwin and two of her sons, David and Roger, will be there for most of the summer, and Rosecrans Jr., who is going out to the Arthur G. Cables' Arizona ranch for the first half of the summer, will join his family in Fish Creek later. Mr. Baldwin will spend week-ends there. So will James W. Linn and his son-in-law, James W. Rogers, whose wives are going up Friday.

Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter are taking a train northwards to this community on July 5. Mrs. Bissell's daughter, Mrs. Paget K. Cady, will be going north later to spend some time with her mother, and Mrs. Bissell will commute. Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall is already installed in her cottage there. The Walter P. Paepckes are not going up, at least right away, for Mrs. Paepcke is going out to Colorado July 1.

John G. Shields Weds Iwilla Reed.

Word came yesterday of the marriage on June 17 in Washington, D. C., of Miss Iwilla Reed, daughter of Mrs. Charles Hobart, to John Griffiths Shields, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Culver Shields of the Ambassador East. The ceremony was held in the garden of Mrs. Hobart's lovely Washington home.

John Stuart Jr. went east to serve Mr. Shields as best man. Bruce Benson of Winnetka was an usher.

After finishing at the Chicago Latin school and the Asheville school, Mr. Shields entered the school of foreign service in Washington, where he is now studying. He and his bride will spend the summer at his parents' summer home in Wisconsin.

Samuel Frothingham of Bedford Hills, N. Y., is arriving today to join his wife, the former Mary Wegg, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Donald R. Wegg. The Frothinghams will be busy seeing the Fair until July 5, when they plan to leave to motor home.

Mrs. Agnes Patten Wilder and her daughters, Laura Louise and Jean, have sailed from their home in Montecito, Cal., to come to Chicago to visit Mrs. Wilder's mother, Mrs. James A. Patten, and to see the Fair. They are coming via the Panama canal and will reach here about July 12. Miss Laura Louise was graduated from the Douglas school at Pebble Beach this month.

Mrs. Szukalska Moves to Geneva.

A charming addition to the summer colony in Geneva is Mrs. Helen Walker Szukalska, who, with her little six year old daughter, Kalina, are in the Sidney Haskells' house in the charming little Fox river valley town for the summer months. Mrs. Haskell, the former Harriet Allport, and the three little Haskells, Caroline, Henry, and Diana, have gone to Two Rivers, Wis., for the summer and Mr. Haskell is staying at the University club in Evanston, spending week-ends with his family in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Butler and her mother, Mrs. Sidney Ball, left Winnetka last Friday to motor to Cleveland where Mrs. Butler was matron of honor at a wedding. Dr. and Mrs. Butler, who had been living with Dr. Butler's mother, Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, until last winter, are in their own house on Ridge road, Winnetka, but Mrs. Hermon Butler's house is still quite full, for another son, Francis Peabody Butler, who has just returned from Nantucket where he installed his wife and daughters, Deborah and Jessica, in their house for the summer, is staying with her. And in August Mrs. Butler's daughter, Mrs. Claude J. Peck of Cleveland, and granddaughter, Marian Peck, are coming up to visit her and see the Fair.

Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw Jr. has had to change all her plans for the next six or eight weeks, for she fell recently on the stairs and broke a leg and now is in the Passavant hospital.

Tennis Finals Draw Crowd to River Forest

Riverside, River Forest, and Oak Park turned out yesterday afternoon to witness the Western Championship Tennis finals at the River Forest Tennis club. North shore towns also were represented. Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Fulton of Winnetka, were there, watching their debutante daughter, Miss Helen Fulton, play Miss Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind. The Fultons were disappointed when Miss Fulton lost but they were proud of the showing she has made. Miss Wolf is a slender girl with reddish gold hair.

On the clubhouse veranda during intermissions a gay group of attractive young people gathered including Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Clendennin of Oak Park, she in a sporty frock of tan striped shirting, the Walter J. Millers of Hinsdale, and Miss Constance Howe, and Robert Heck, both of Oak Park. Mrs. Miller wore brown silk and Miss Howe was smart in a white crêpe dress and loose three-quarter length coat of blue silk with white polka dots.

At the refreshment stand with a handsome escort was seen Miss Lois Jaques, who is known as a coming tennis player, most enthusiastic that George Lott had just won his match. Miss Jaques wore an orange sheer blouse with a gray suit.

Mrs. W. Gavin Hamilton and Mrs. Walter Lyons were seen chatting together near the clubhouse. Mrs. Hamilton, who is one of Oak Park's popular young married women, wore a lavender knitted suit, and Mrs. Lyon, recently returned from Europe, was in blue print.

Also glimpsed in the stands were George Farr of Oak Park, who plays a lot of tennis at the River Forest club, and Mrs. Farr, and George D. Wilkinson and his son Cribben, who goes to Hill. Mrs. Mark Oliver, Mrs. Robert P. Heald of River Forest, and Mrs. Ellis K. Kerr of Oak Park, were sitting in chairs alongside the court, and near them were Mrs. Howard W. Markward of River Forest, in green with a large brown hat, and Mrs. Chauncey Oliver in white from head to toe.

Lots of Pretty Girls Sing in Ruggles Film

THE CAST.

Pete Wells	Charles Ruggles
Alan Chandler	Phil Harris
Anna Von Rader	Greta Nissen
Laurie Marlowe	Helen Mack
Hickey	Chick Chandler
Zoe	June Brewster
Vera	Shirley Chambers
Miss Potts	Florence Roberts
Mrs. Wells	Marjorie Gateson

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Melody Cruise" is a diverting and tuneful musical comedy.

The story is chiefly concerned with the efforts of a Mr. Wells to prevent his pal, a Mr. Chandler, from marrying—Mrs. Wells' domestic experiences having somewhat soured that gentleman on matrimony. Most of the action takes place on an excursion steamer, bound for California from New York via the Panama canal. Things work out . . .

Charlie Ruggles as the worried husband is lovable, laughable and clever. Audiences never seem to get enough of him. Phil Harris, the orchestra leader, plays the romantic male lead. You wish that he had stuck to his band. Chick Chandler gives a snappy performance as a ship's steward who can be bought. Marjorie Gateson and Florence Roberts are excellent, respectively, as Mrs. Wells and a Miss Potts—the ingénue lead's traveling companion. The last, Helen Mack, is ever so much like Frances Dee in looks and actions. Greta Nissen is wistfully appealing as a German siren.

You will find "Melody Cruise" the sort of casual, tinkling entertainment that proves soothing to a jaded mind on a hot day.

See you soon!

New Beach Bags Ideal Carriers for Those Who Lounge All Day

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Beach loungers who insist upon taking a good supply of sun-tan oil, extra towels, a collection of caps, sandals, cold creams, and all the various accessories that assure a good day in the sun and water will be glad to know about the capacious beach bags that have just arrived.

Georgeous looking affairs in wild and brilliant printed color combinations are lined with rubber and made with good durable frames. Paired with these bags are huge squares of the same material as the bag . . . these squares lead a useful, versatile beach life as you can wear them as a neck swaddling scarf or cape, or you can take two ends and tie them around your neck and the other two around your waistline and have what is known as a smart, new and highly effective pajama top. They are well worth the moderate price that is tagged to this engaging sea-going duet.

Some inspired soul should be cheered for the new skull-tight bathing caps of rubber . . . they will make you look just like you do when you have an uncombed and very sleek new finger wave. Black, white, a silvery iridescent gray and a few colors are available . . . even the dips and head scallops of a finger wave coiffure have been expertly copied and you'll be delighted with their newness and originality. Besides, that old harsh rubber cap appearance can be abolished with these much softer looking new numbers.

Fair Regattas Get Attention of Young Set

Roger Firestone Will Be Among Guests.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Roger Firestone, the fifth of the Harvey Firestones' five attractive sons, plans to make frequent pilgrimages to Chicago this summer from his home in Akron. The first time he comes on July 2, he will bring with him two outboard motors and from the waters of Lake Michigan he will see most of A Century of Progress.

Young Mr. Firestone is one of a dozen socially interesting and nautically minded men competing the next two months in the dozen World's Fair regattas and national championships of the National Outboard association in the lagoon between the mainland and Northerly isle. One of the most popular regattas is scheduled for the next week-end, July 2 and 3.

While Mr. Firestone's older brothers—Harvey, in particular—have devoted themselves to polo, he has taken up outboard racing in a serious way both at Harbel Manor, the family's Akron home and at Harbel Villa, their Miami Beach estate.

The Stuyvesant Peabodys' younger son, Patrick, is another sportsman who will be taking part in the regatta next week-end. And so will Horace Tennes who owns at least five outboard motors and has two legs on the Eugene MacDonald trophy awarded annually. If he captures the cup again this year, it will be his for keeps. Mr. Tennes does most of his racing up at Eagle River, Wis.

"Jack" Smith is coming up from his home at Park Hill, Covington, Ky., for the regattas and championships and, incidentally, a round of parties and so 's Everett Ingalls whose home is in Nashville, Tenn. "Cal" Leuth, one of the best outboard racers in the country, is already here from Cullman, Ala.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, who is unknowingly being used as decoy. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune left her by an uncle who died in Rome. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but manages to defeat Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. Garrick learns from his uncle, a professor of chemistry, of a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. He kidnaps Maitland and holds him captive until he learns where Rhoda is being held. He rescues Rhoda and takes her to the home of his aunt. The hospital authorities send for her, and Garrick is charged with abducting a lunatic.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

LEGAL DEFINITION OF SANITY.

"I can hear Miss Fairclough's voice—she's in that room," piped up one of the nurses—the one with the olly manner who had clung to Rhoda's arm at Nympstone house. Behind the nurses stood the man who called himself "Dr. Kendall."

At that moment Rhoda herself appeared in the doorway of the drawing room. She glanced with terrified recognition at the nurses, then staggered back into Lady Carstairs' arms.

"Lyle—what does this mean?" asked Lady Carstairs.

"It means that the scoundrel I spoke of has managed to get the law to do his dirty work. I——"

"Come along, dear!" said the nurse. "I'm sure you're not going to get excited and silly. You'll be quite all right. Just let me take your arm this side and Nurse Amy will take the other."

"Hasn't Maitland charged me with anything else?" asked Garrick in astonishment.

But as the nurses touched her, Rhoda fainted. As easily as if they had been men, the two nurses picked her up and carried her out of the flat. Back to Nympstone house—no doubt to be injected again with the drug that produced temporary madness. And Garrick stood by, helpless.

"And now, sir," said the sergeant, "I think you said you are willing to come with me to the station without being formally arrested."

Garrick ordered a taxi. As he was going to the station "of his own accord," and not under arrest, he invited the sergeant and his junior to come with him.

"Thank you, sir!" The sergeant seemed to feel the situation embarrassing. "I'm very sorry you're in trouble."

"O, that's all right, sergeant! I don't suppose you'll hang me!" smiled Garrick, while his thoughts were with Rhoda, at that moment in the ambulance that was taking her back to the private asylum.

The station superintendent read over the charge to him. Shorn of its jargon, it amounted to an allegation that he had openly described himself to Maj. Maitland as a "registered keeper of lunatics" and on this account alone Maj. Maitland had agreed to his taking charge of Miss Fairclough.

"Hasn't Maitland charged me with anything else?" asked Garrick in astonishment.

"Anything else!" gasped the superintendent. He stared in astonishment at this strikingly elegant young man—surely the most ornamental figure that had ever been seen in a police station! "Well, there's nothing else, Mr. Garrick! It seems to me that would be enough for most gentlemen!"

Not a word about his having burgled Maitland's house, dragged him out in his pajamas and imprisoned him in the warehouse!

At the end of it the police allowed him to go, after he had given a bond for fifty pounds guaranteeing his own appearance in court the following morning.

By the time he reached the office of Bonniwell, his solicitor, he had almost forgotten his own predicament, so intense was his preoccupation with Rhoda.

To Bonniwell he poured out the tale of his attempt to rescue Rhoda and the disastrous results.

"It staggers the imagination, Mr. Bonniwell!" he finished. The drawling voice of the dandy now held a note of indignation. "The police are being used by the crooks to drag Miss Fairclough back to that—er—unspeakable asylum. What can we do about it?"

"The Law society does not allow me to advise you as to the best way to break the law," he pronounced. "Miss Fairclough is legally a lunatic. I can take no part in the business of snatching her away from her legally appointed guardians."

So Bonniwell was no good! Garrick got up to go.

"If I could take any part in such a business, my dear Garrick," continued Bonniwell, the ghost of a smile playing about his wrinkled face, "I would begin by asking you a riddle."

Garrick brightened. Bonniwell had been a friend of the family as well as its solicitor—a sort of courtesy uncle.

"Ah! You want to hear my riddle!" he exclaimed, enjoying his own elaborate joke. "Miss Fairclough, we are agreed, is in law a lunatic. Now—when is a lunatic not a lunatic?"

"That riddle, my dear Garrick, is asked quite regularly by solemn examiners in any law examination. The answer is—a lunatic ceases to be a lunatic in law if he or she succeeds in gaining and maintaining his or her liberty for a period of twenty-eight days."

Garrick excitedly paced the room and then sat down again.

"Let me make sure, please, that I have grasped it!" he said slowly. "If Miss Fairclough disappears from Nympstone house for a period of twenty-eight days she becomes legally sane. What would Maitland do on—on the twenty-ninth day?"

"He could do very little," answered the solicitor. "On the twenty-ninth day neither the police nor the asylum attendant could touch the person of Miss Fairclough under pain of an action for assault. She becomes a free citizen. She cannot even be examined as to her sanity against her will unless she commits some overt act of a lunatic."

"This is simply splendid!" cried Garrick.

"Pardon me, it does not help in the least!" said Bonniwell. "We are considering a hypothetical case. Miss Fairclough is not at liberty. Your present task is to get a legally insane woman declared sane—which, believe me, is a matter of very considerable difficulty."

"But if——"

"There is no immediate prospect of her being set at liberty," interrupted the solicitor. "If you have any illegal and foolhardy plan for rescuing her by force and keeping her at liberty for the necessary period I—ah—I absolutely refuse to hear a word!"

"Twenty-eight days!" reflected Garrick. "Thanks very much, Mr. Bonniwell!" He shook the elderly solicitor by the hand and was leaving the room when he stopped.

"O, by the way, I forgot to mention it! Tomorrow morning I have to appear in court. Will you defend me, please?"

"It is very lucky you took the young lady straight to Lady Carstairs," pronounced Bonniwell when he had heard the details of the charge. "Unless I am greatly mistaken, we can get you off with a small fine on the ground that you acted ignorantly but in good faith. My dear boy—if you ever break the law again, for goodness sake don't get found out!" added Mr. Bonniwell.

A poor fighter tries for a knockout with every blow. The born fighter knows that he must wait—that he must give and receive the small change of combat—before he risks all his force in the blow that may bring victory.

The use of the police to cover the second abduction of Rhoda Fairclough was a well timed blow that sent Garrick to the boards. But by the time he had left Bonniwell's office he was on his feet again. He had learned his lesson and would not so easily again drop his guard.

Bonniwell, the solicitor, had a lot to do during the next day or two. Getting Garrick off the police prosecution with a small fine was a mere detail. That was over by twelve o'clock next morning and then the work began in earnest.

Bonniwell obtained for Garrick an order which compelled "the keeper of the asylum to afford an interview with the lunatic without the presence of an attendant."

It was a fine day when Garrick called—the third day after Rhoda's return to Nympstone house—and he requested that the interview might take place in the garden.

"That would be irregular, Mr. Garrick," Kendall informed him with cool insolence. "It is usual for such interviews to take place in a private room. You may see Miss Fairclough in this room, where you will be quite uninterrupted."

It was the same room into which he had been shown before—the room that was part office; but in some way it had changed since he had last seen it. It was somehow less of an office and more of a living room. A wide bowl of roses stood on a table in the middle of the room.

Then came the deadly pantomime of Rhoda being brought in by nurses.

Scented Bath Preparations at Small Cost

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If the Romans, with their much touted bath extravaganzas, had anything on our modern bathing luxuries it hasn't been written in the text books. We doubt that they had.

Bathtub preparations have grown so apace and in such luxurious measure we doubt if the decorative sisters of the Roman era ever stepped forth more exhilarated or happy than is within the province of the modern maid. And at such pleasantly modest expense may these scented baths be taken! Bath salts are within the income of the modest wage earner—maybe not for every day indulgence—but, anyway, for that psychological pickup every now and then.

Try a pine bath some day when the rest of the family has gone to the beach and you alone are left behind. If you have sufficient imagination you can believe that you're the one off on a journey to a foreign spa and indulging yourself, as are those who've paid their money to get over on the other side. Spas feature the pine bath as an exhilarator. There are pine bath crystals and pine bath oils on the market now.

There are bath preparations that take the sting out of tired bones and feet after a long day's tramping around. These impregnate the water of the bath with valuable salts and supercharge it with oxygen. Artificial mineral waters they are, practically. And one great benefit they perform is to deodorize the skin. The water in use with these preparations is fairly hot, so baths are best taken just before retiring.

There are liquid preparations for the tub with champagne like sparkling content. [Not for internal use, you understand, of course.]

There are lavender scents and jasmine and rose, and so on, in tub preparations. You may have your bathroom ensemble: A soap, a bath oil, and a bath dusting powder all the same scent. Or, you may have a scented almond meal for the tub.

MINUTE MYSTERY

BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE CORPSE IN THE BATHROOM.

The man lying face down had been hit on the back of the head. "Just one blow, professor," Dr. Lyman remarked, "but that was quite enough. It completely crushed his skull." Fordney bent over and examined the wound. It was not a pretty sight.

"Before you turn him over, doctor, will you see if there are any marks on his legs?"

Lyman rolled up the man's trousers and found a large, recently made bruise on the back of his right leg. As he turned him over the professor gave a low exclamation. "Why, it's Willard Torey! But what's he doing in the bathroom of this empty house—at 10 p. m.?"

The doctor offered no reply, knowing that Fordney was merely thinking out loud—a habit of his.

He sighed and proceeded to carefully inspect the large tile bathroom with its glass enclosed shower—the floor of which he found wet. As Torey was fully dressed it was hardly probable he had used it. No towels were to be found.

Then Fordney suddenly noticed the bottom of the dead man's patent leather pumps, on each of which was a little dried mud.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is really amazing the number of young people who read a column on child training. And I don't mean just those who are about to be married, but young people who are not anywhere near that state of responsibility. Talks about the understanding and management of children appeal differently to different young men and women and even to boys and girls. Some are interested because they have young brothers and sisters and see the need for right handling, and often try to do their part when their parents fail.

Other young people are appealed to by a column about children because they were unfortunate in their own childhood, having been unhappy or mismanaged. Sometimes besides being interesting to them it helps them, too, when they can see that "this was so and that was why it was so." Once understanding, they feel the air cleared and carry on more courageously and intelligently.

Still other young people are appealed to by talks to parents because almost all their lives they have looked forward with deep anticipation to having children. Girls, and some boys, too, cherish the dream of a family long before they are old enough to have one—and cherish ideals as to what kind of parents they want to be. We have more young idealists of this kind in our midst than you realize.

Then, there are young people who find themselves in love and engaged to be married. The girls especially want then to begin to prepare themselves for being mothers.

The young married people who intend to have a baby are the next group of young people who find a great interest in reading about the guidance of children. And, of course, the expectant mother, who is having her first baby, is an eager reader. For her especially I have selected from my service material the booklets and leaflets most related to her needs. We name it "The Before Reading" set and send it on receipt of six cents in postage.

Stirring Scene Opens Pageant of Jewish Race

Predict Event Will Make Stage History.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Before "A Romance of a People" has gone its first thirty seconds in performance it has its first great thrill, one that will without doubt bring all the listeners up straight in their seats. From then on the thrills keep coming. It is about as startling a combination of stupendous pageant and artful theater as the world has ever seen. At least this is the impression gained from the stage rehearsal at Soldiers' field last night. The pageant will be presented July 3.

In order to get the full effect you must have been there, for there is an air of majestic spaciousness about the whole affair that words can hardly convey. You must begin with the mental picture of a four level stage large enough to hold 3,500 participants, and not only to hold them but to allow them to move about in their groupings and dances and stage pictures.

As the performance begins only the chorus is visible, seated on the rising seats at the back. A gorgeous voice begins to intone in Hebrew, stately, spaced, even notes, with a florid flourish at the end, a scale running up and then down.

As it ends, another georgeous voice, in English this time, and speaking, pronounces the first words of Genesis. But instead of proceeding to the words, "Let there be light," it falls silent, and the huge chorus takes it up in song. Here is a phrase repeated over and over on the same note, the choristers swaying slowly from side to side as they sing. The swaying grows more pronounced, arms are raised to wave with the movements of the bodies. Finally the choristers are all on their feet, and the motion is as that of great waves on an ocean. Meanwhile the chanted phrase continues, always on the same note.

New to keep on singing the same phrase on the same note may sound in the telling too childishly simple to talk about, but I who have been there assure you in all sincerity that the constant repetition, rising in volume though not in pitch, the increasing, rhythmic sway of thousands of bodies produces an effect that hypnotizes you and makes your heart beat faster all at the same time. You are conquered both by your ear and your eye.

The play proceeds. They call it a pageant of the Jewish people, but it is really their great drama as well. A gigantic golden statue of Moloch is dragged upon the stage by a company of slaves, while the whiplashes of their overseers whistle about their naked bodies. The narrator tells how the Jews fell into the worship of false gods, and the choir sings its comment and the dancers perform their frenzied worship.

The music is that of the Jews and no one can tell how many centuries old it is. It has more than a touch of the oriental, except that it does not take the speed of other oriental music.

It is desirable to add a word about the way it is amplified. The great stage is at the north end of Soldiers' field and it may be that those in the south will need opera glasses. But those who are present when the performance goes on will realize that electrical amplification has taken on a new meaning. Here is tone expanded until every syllable, every note goes plainly to the farthest seat and there is not a snarl in an evening of it.

The United Bohemian Singing societies came to the Auditorium Saturday night and again last night and proved that the way to resume an opera season is to give some opera. Their choice was their own national work, Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and it resulted in one of the best performances of the charming score these ears have ever heard.

Their soloists were artists of the Prague National opera, the leaders being Zdenka Zikova, Mirko Stork, Richard Kubla, and Pavel Ludikar. The conductor was Frank Kubina. The orchestra was the Chicago Symphony, the chorus that already named, the ballet was also Chicagoan, and led by Masha Milada and Jaroslav Bures. It was under the auspices of the Chicago Friends of Music.

In every respect the performance was speedy, bright, exact, with the best of singing and some excellent comedy.

BY MARY MEADE.

No more balancing acts between restless dabs of dressing and quaking cubes of gelatin salad—with the tombstones flopping roguishly over just as they reach the honored guests! For at last has come the answer to our prayer for nonskid gelatin. It lies circled neatly in jelly rings—those pleasant gadgets for making life and cookery entrancing these beaming summer days.

You know the types. They come in family or individual sizes, are deep or shallow, as you desire, and—most important of all—furnish perfect little cups for the holding of some dainty this or that from the icebox. Likewise, besides being useful, jelly rings have walked into our hearts because of their delightfully partified air. There's just no end to the variety of combinations possible. For instance, serve fresh vegetables marinated in French dressing and dropped lightly in lime jelly rings, chicken salad in orange rings, or fresh fruits in raspberry jelly rings.

Then tomato gelatin rings offer themselves for still more fillings. Among others, try cottage cheese garnished with asparagus . . . cottage cheese and slivered almonds . . . cole slaw . . . cucumber, pineapple, and celery, diced and tossed with mayonnaise . . . crabmeat salad . . . or chicken salad with a garnish of ripe olives.

Or pour cranberry gelatin into the ring molds, filling these ruby rings with Waldorf salad or with diced pineapple and celery salad. Here is the way of it:

CRANBERRY JELLY RINGS.

¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
Juice of one-half lemon
¾ cup celery, chopped fine
1 cup thick, sweetened cranberry sauce (canned)

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Add the cup of boiling water and dissolve the soaked gelatin. Cool and when it begins to thicken add the lemon juice, celery, and cranberry sauce. Place in ring molds dipped in cold water and chill until firm.

Diced avocados marinated in French dressing and served in grapefruit jelly rings are likewise delicious. Or reverse the order and serve sections of grapefruit in avocado jelly rings, for there are few of these combiantions that cannot be reversed.

1 cup boiling water
2 cups mashed avocados
½ teaspoon salt
Juice of one-half lemon
¾ cup cold water

Soak the gelatin in cold water for five minutes, then dissolve in the boiling water. Add the avocado pulp, salt, and lemon juice. Pour into wet ring molds and chill until firm.

Sections of oranges, substituted for the grapefruit in the center of these avocado rings, make still another piquant possibility.

Or for a party salad serve the same avocado ring, garnished with maraschino cherries into which small sprigs of watercress have been inserted for stems and leaves. Your guests will wager you have just plucked them from the tree!

Expect Large Crowd at Benefit Tonight for Boys' Club Camp

Society and business leaders expect a big attendance tonight at the All-Star Radio Revue for the benefit of the Chicago Boys' clubs. The clubs plan to send 2,500 boys to a summer camp at Winona lake, Ind., this summer with the proceeds. Expenses of the benefit have been underwritten and debutantes, who will sell candy and flowers, have given help in the ticket sale. The revue will be held in the Auditorium theater.

Vincent Lopez and Phil Baker will be among the performers, with Clara, Lu and Em, and the Maple City Four. Pat Barnes will be master of ceremonies.

Close upon the heels of the subdeb bathing beauty competition that brought out thousands of children [competitors and spectators] last Friday afternoon, comes the announcement of a doll contest at 3 o'clock this Friday on the Enchanted isle. The prettiest, the oldest, the best dressed, the most modern, the best hand made doll, and the best foreign doll will be judged by a board of prominent women.

And the entries are not limited to children's dolls, explains Miss Josephine Blackstock, director of the island. One curly headed doll that is having its own Century of Progress birthday this year has already been registered by a well known matron who chooses to keep her name veiled in secrecy until the judges have cast their vote. Then there are two more dolls in the contest that were exhibited at the World's Fair of '93.

Dinner to Show "Funny Americans."

There are to be three interesting dinner parties these next three evenings at the Century club. Tonight Jules Sauerwein, editor of the French "Noir" who has been lecturing the last week on the University of Chicago campus, under the auspices of the Harris Foundation, will be entertained with a party of friends by Miss Mary de Coningh.

"M. Sauerwein told me that he wanted to write an article on 'Funny Americans I have met,'" Miss de Coningh commented yesterday, "he also pointed out that he must have beauty. I am planning to put all the 'funny Americans' on one side of the table [men of course] and all of the beauty on the other."

After dinner, which is to be at 6 o'clock, the dinner guests will take boats up the lake shore to Lincoln park where they will attend the symposium to be conducted by Dr. Bernadotte Schmidt, Prof. Charles A. Beard, and Dr. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy at the Chicago Historical society. The subject will be "The Growth of Nationalism."

Tomorrow night Arthur G. Cable is to be host at a Century club dinner to his son, Peter Gable, and his seven friends who are arriving from the east with him today. William Byers of London is one of the friends, "Jim" Hunnewell of Boston, another. And to add zest to the evening, "Baby" Clow is inviting six debutantes to join her as partners for these attractive young beaux. The evening will wind up with a turn about the Fair.

Party Wednesday for Virginia Pope.

The third dinner party is Wednesday night for Miss Virginia Pope of New York, who is in the midwest visiting the John Gould Ralstons of Dixon. The Ralstons have invited a dozen friends to join them at dinner Wednesday.

Miss Pope, the daughter of Mrs. Francis C. Pope, used to be a Chicagoan. The last several years she has studied with Yvette Guilbert and appeared with her professionally.

Lanvin Designs Formal Coat for Sunny Weather

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There is a combination between satin and silver fox that is being watched by everybody in the style-know of Paris. Some women here are wearing formal daytime coats that work this combination to advantage. The satin coat hasn't had a break since 'way back somewhere before the crack of the boom. This summer a few of the fashionable matrons who have dignity and elegance enough not to cower into insignificance inside the satin coat are wearing it.

You can see a sample of this kind of coat in our illustration. It is from Jeanne Lanvin, and is made to be worn in sunny weather. Black satin is the material. It is cut into a streamline body and very short sleeves are added. The brevity of these sleeves serve to hold the big, luxurious cuffs of silver fox and that is about all. They end, fox cuffs and all, just below the elbows.

A wide band that is sewed to the body of the coat is draped up ever so slightly on the neck at the sides and back to suggest protection without giving any. This band widens at the bust to give the effect of fitting to the middle, or waist-line section. It ends in a seam at the waistline. Small black satin covered buttons close the coat at the center front.

Boguslawski College Will Hold Exercises Wednesday

The commencement exercises of the Boguslawski College of Music will be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club Wednesday evening at 8:30. The Nemkowsky string quartet and Moissaye Boguslawski, pianist, will give a program of chamber music by Brahms. Honorary degrees of doctor of music and doctor of fine arts will be conferred upon Kurt Hetzel of Washington, D. C.; Alexander MacFadyen, Milwaukee, and Nison Trigor of Washington, D. C.

Sally's Guests to Have Grand Tour of Fair

Trained Guides Will Show Best Exhibits.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The lucky 100 boys and girls who will be the guests of THE TRIBUNE at our Century of Progress party on July 6 are going to see all kinds of them. The Indian village, which consists of members of 4 different tribes—Sioux, Winnebago, Hopi, and Navajo, is going to put on a show for us. They'll sing and dance in costume, and Evergreen Tree will imitate animal calls.

Then we're going to see a real Wild West show! Col. Zack Miller, who has brought cowboys and cowgirls, buffaloes, and bucking bronchos here for the Fair, has invited us to attend the fascinating performance they give every day. And we'll accept, 100 strong!

I just know every little boy in the world will want to see the submarine stationed at the Fair, too. It's the S-49, and we're all going through it, to see the torpedo room, the big engine room, the bunks, and even look through the periscope.

Girls will be delighted with the Midget village. The little people have their own settlement out there, and is it cute! There are little tiny houses, completely furnished; a wee barber shop with a real permanent wave machine in it, and a miniature town hall with a mayor's office and a courtroom.

These are only a very few of all the marvelous exhibits we'll see. The big blue Greyhound buses will take us all over the miles of ground, and they're so much fun to ride in!

Junior Fair Tours is providing guides for us, experienced workers who make a special business of entertaining children and escorting them to all the exhibits of special interest to youngsters, while their parents see the things they prefer.

I can't possibly write about all the things there are to do and see, there just isn't space—but if you'd like to come—and who wouldn't?—write and tell me all about it, because I'm going to select 100 of the children who seem most anxious to be included.

Letters must be in here by Thursday morning—so hurry! Be sure to include your name, address, and age, and mail them to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Wallace Play Has Premiere on Local Stage

'Man Who Changed Name' Last of Writings.

"THE MAN WHO CHANGED HIS NAME."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The late Edgar Wallace, an industrious English hack who won a reputation by mass production of so-called "thrillers" in fiction and melodrama, is now represented on the Chicago stage by one of the last compositions of his copious career—a thin play called "The Man Who Changed His Name," which had a premiere in the Illinois theater last night. This is a baffler, not because of the deep, dark mystery of its plot, however, but because of the uncertainty of the author's purpose when dictating it to his fatigued corps of stenographers. I fear that Mr. Wallace was trying to be subtle when he dashed off this one, and I am convinced that he did not know how.

Here we have the good old English country estate at one of its traditional week-ends, and a small handful of characters to make things merry and bright in the good old British way. Mr. and Mrs. Clive, the hosts; a young London clubman who is on the edge of becoming Mrs. Clive's official lover; a rough and ready lawyer; a quaint old quidnunc named Sir Ralph who has a hobby for the lore of murder trials; and a couple of servants—such is the cast of characters.

The situation is one of suspended menace—the sword of Damocles hanging over the heads of the nearly guilty pair. Mr. Wallace keeps it hanging so long that it becomes a bore instead of a thrill. Nothing happens in the first act. ["Wait," says Mr. Wallace. "I have something clever up my sleeve."] Nothing happens in the second act. ["Bear with me," says Mr. Wallace. "It is well known that I always come through with a knock-out."]

But there is a limit to such trifling with playgoing patience. Mr. Wallace would have had to do something prodigious and unparalleled in his last act; he would have to shatter the atom, perhaps, to overcome the inertia of his preliminary monkey-business. And so one leaves "The Man Who Changed His Name" in a mood to quarrel with the legend that has been carefully built up around the name of the prolific Wallace. I have always suspected that he never wrote a novel that deserved to be read, or a play that ought to be acted; and I now feel that this attitude is not too drastic.

A first-rate performance might have given the play the air of diabolical subtlety that was apparently the author's purpose. But this cast, which seems new to its work, is not an organization that glitters with superiority. It has, to be candid, a groping stock company touch. James Hall, well known to cinema followers, leads the company. He plays the cat-and-mouse game of the jealous and punitive husband with a certain coyness that does not blend with the play's drift toward melodramatic thrills.

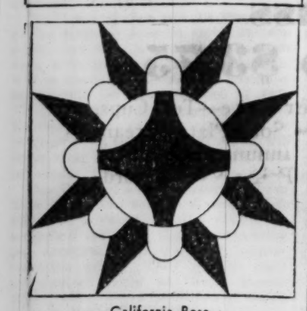
Choice of Colors Makes Pattern Look Like Rose



California Rose.

"California Rose" is not at all like a rose in construction, but if made in various shades of rose or yellow, with the star points in green, the resemblance to a large individual rose is clear.

GOLDEN GLOVE TICKET SALES TO OPEN TODAY

BY ARCH WARD.

The Irish amateur boxing champions, who have had to whip Italians, Danes, English, Germans, and Scots to prove their right to represent the Emerald Isle, will meet the Golden Gloves champions of Chicagoland in the finest arena ever constructed for an outdoor boxing show.

A huge bowl, patterned after the one that housed the bouts between Germany and Chicago last summer, will be built at Soldiers' field for THE TRIBUNE'S third annual international show, which will be presented on the night of Aug. 2.

There will be 50,000 reserved seats in the stadium, selling from 55 cents to $3.30, and in the event of additional customer demand there will be room in the unreserved sections for 15,000 more. The program represents the greatest bargain ever offered in refined but vigorous fist fighting.

Sale Opens Today.

The ticket sale opens today. Orders for the next week will be accepted only by mail. This policy was decided upon to give the fans from out of town and from suburban territory, many of whom seldom are in the loop, a chance to obtain good seats.

The ringside section, which will contain approximately 20,000 seats, will be scaled at $3.30, $2.50, $2 and $1.10. Tax is included in all these prices. The rest of the arena, nearly 30,000 reserved seats, will sell for 55 cents.

There will be fewer $3.30 seats than were available for the German bouts a year ago. There will be 32 rows at that price instead of 42 as last season. The next ten rows have been reduced to $2.50. The farthest $1 seat will be only 160 feet from the ring. Starting at the tenth row, each row in the ringside section will be elevated four inches, insuring every one an unobstructed view of the bouts.

A $50,000 Setup.

With the ring as a hub 14 sections spiral in ever widening arcs like a giant spider web. The last row of the ringside converges into the 12th row of the permanent stands. The ring will be pitched under the south goal post of the Soldiers' field gridiron, thus making accessible all seats in the horseshoe at the south end of the stadium.

The cost of this year's production, guaranteed by THE TRIBUNE, will be approximately $50,000. Among the expenses will be two weeks labor by 300 men, most of whom previously were unemployed, and several carloads of lumber for seats and platforms.

The Irish fighters will assemble in Dublin July 10. They will leave for London the morning of July 11 and will sail from Southampton the following day on the Majestic of the White Star line. The names of the boxers are Frank Kerr, Patrick Connolly, Paddy Hughes, John Kennedy, Dick Hearns, Patrick Mullins, Patrick Hennelly, and Ernie Smith. The coach will be Paddy Dwyer and Capt. Liam O'Brien will represent the Irish Amateur Boxing association.

Mayor to Greet Fighters.

Chicagoans of Irish descent are planning a reception for the visiting boxers they will remember the rest of their lives. Included in the welcoming committee will be leaders of business, industry, politics and finance. Daniel McGrath, Irish consul, has appointed County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly head of the group that will represent the Irish Free State. Mayor Edward J. Kelly will extend Chicago's official greeting.

The Irish boxers will be quartered at the Midwest Athletic club, Madison street and Hamlin avenue. The west side, with its great Irish population, will be host to the boys at a reception in Garfield park the evening of July 25. William Druley, president of the Midwest A. C., and the committee he is appointing to handle the affair will show their guests that you don't have to come from Ireland to be Irish.

The Chicago squad, victorious over New York, 10 bouts to 6, will try to make it a sweep for the season by whipping the team that is advancing on America in a confident, almost strutting mood. They will do their preparatory work at Grand Beach, Mich., under the supervision of Coach Johnny Behr.

COM-ALL-YE! OR BEGORRA YE SIT BACK

Mail orders for the third annual International bouts between the amateur champions of Ireland and the Chicago Golden Gloves team at Soldiers' field Aug. 2 are now being received.

Previous experience in Golden Gloves sale has proved that the first week's sale exhausts choice ringside seats. To give out-of-town fans an opportunity to secure good seats, The Tribune has limited the first week's sale to mail orders.

Get your order in today. Prices are, ringside, $3.30, $2.50, $2, and $1.10. There are 30,000 seats at 55 cents each. All seats are reserved.

FOXX'S HOMER GIVES 2D GAME TO ATHLETICS

Lyons Breaks Even in Rescue Roles.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox fairly bubbled over with last minute rallies yesterday, but some of them went to waste. They popped up unexpectedly in the front half of a double header and scored three runs in the eighth to nose out the Athletics, among them George Earnshaw, 3 to 2. And then, after apparently being lulled to sleep by George Rube Walberg's southpaw pitching in the second struggle, they crept into a tie in the ninth, only to fall by the wayside in the tenth on Jim Foxx's No. 16 homer into the upper left field deck after Bob Johnson had doubled. The score was 5 to 3.

Foxx's smash put an unfavorable climax to an iron man stunt attempted by Ted Lyons. He rushed into the first battle as the successor to Ed Durham and pitched two innings to get the decision. Then with the score tied at 3 all in the tenth inning of the second game, he appeared as the last of a quartet of Sox pitchers. His bid for a second victory proved a flop because of Johnson and Foxx. Those were the only hits attained by the Athletics since the fourth, when Sam Jones was forced to surrender.

Mack Alumni Win Game.

There was just a bit of grief besides the defeat for the venerable Connie Mack in the first struggle. Three of his old boys were in on the conspiracy that snatched the decision right out of the pompous Earnshaw's hands in the eighth. Mule Haas was the first of the ex-Mackmen to do his bit in the winning stand. Al Simmons was next. Billy Sullivan sneaked in a hit to help the movement, and then Jim Dykes, the last of the A's alumni, banged one to shove in the winning run.

But in the second game the transplanted Mack trio was more or less helpless, the lone hero rôle being filled by Manager Lew Fonseca, who hit a double to bring on the ninth inning deadlock.

The reason that Jones didn't last long in the second battle was that the Macks displayed too much of a liking for hitting for distance. Before old Sam could wriggle his way out he had been thumped for three singles, one double, two triples, and one homer, of which Dib Williams was the author. These gentle taps netted the visitors three runs in less than four full innings. The impotency of the Macks thereafter until the tenth was due to some excellent relief throwing by Chad Kimsey until the end of the seventh and by Joe Heving in the eighth and ninth.

FIRST GAME

Some college baseball by Sullivan put Durham in a tight squeeze in the first inning, but a little trickery by Dykes relieved the situation.

Durham started his work by walking Bishop. Cramer bunted and Durham picked up the ball to throw to first, but Sullivan wasn't there. Instead he was stretched flat on the ground so as to make sure that he wouldn't interfere with a throw if made. Hayes, when he noted Sullivan snoozing on the grass, tried to cover, but there wasn't time. Then Johnson bunted and Dykes, instead of catching the ball on the fly, trapped it. He touched third to force Bishop and threw to Appling to double Cramer at second. Coleman's pop to Sullivan ended the inning.

Athletics Pick up Two

The two Athletic runs in the second inning began to sprout when Madjeski singled to left with one out. He raced around to the plate on Higgins' triple to right center. The other tally was a gift. Williams walked and Earnshaw bunted straight into Durham's hands. The pitcher heard a voice calling from third, and, thinking it was Dykes, turned to throw there. It was only Coacher Eddie Rommel confusing the Sox pitcher. Finally Durham awoke to the fact that Higgins was crossing the plate, but nothing could be done about it. Earnshaw got a cheap hit out of it, but Durham was able to retire the next two men.

Hayes was put out of the way on a fly ball before the winning parade began to form in the eighth. Haas started it with a single past Bishop and was forced by Webb. Simmons, after having to wait at the plate while Earnsaw stalled, did not permit himself to be annoyed by that form of strategy. Earnshaw finally threw one that suited Simmons and he slashed it to right center for a double, Webb scoring. A passed ball put Simmons on third. Appling walked. Sullivan lined a single to center, scoring Simmons with the tying run. Dykes' third hit, a single to left, sent Appling galloping in with the winning run.

In his two innings of relief work Lyons was frisked for a pair of hits. Foxx opened the eighth with a scratch single, went to second on a wild pitch, and stayed there. Then in the ninth, McNair batted for Earnshaw and singled through short. Lyons knocked off the next three, among them Cochrane, who swung for Bishop.

SECOND GAME

BY FRENCH LANE.

A red letter day in American racing dawns with the opening of the Arlington Park Jockey club's season this afternoon—a season which is destined to produce several turf champions and possibly a few new world speed marks.

The opening program, which swings into motion at 2:15 o'clock, includes one championship test. It comes in the fifth race, the renewal of the seven furlong Inaugural handicap, and will be a battle between one horse—Gallant Sir—and a group of some 25 others whose owners failed to become alarmed at his presence in the race.

Horsemen Predict Record.

Even a greater number may take issue with him, for the overnight field contained the names of 33 of the fastest horses in the country. There is such an abundance of speed represented that the prediction was made by horsemen yesterday that to win the struggle Gallant Sir more than likely will have to shatter the track record.

This mark of 1:22 3-5 is held by Tred Avon, the mare from Maryland, and she will be among Gallant Sir's foes this afternoon.

Gallant Sir, because of his approach to the championship last year and because of the splendid way he has come up to the beginning of his Chicago campaign, naturally ruled as the favorite. Yet he wasn't the outstanding choice a champion might be expected to be, for the odds against him were 5 to 2 and there is little likelihood that they will shrink by the time he faces the starter.

Tred Avon Works Well.

The early speculation yesterday and last night indicated that the chief contention will come from Tred Avon, which has worked sensationally for the race, from Indian Runner, which broke a track record at Lincoln Fields a few days ago, or from Fairbypair, Mrs. John Hertz's representative.

There are a number of eastern colorbearers on hand ready to attempt to upset these calculations, however. The main threats appear to be Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's The Darb and Halycon, and the Brookmeade stable's Hellanthus and Okapi.

Then there is No More, which came in for some support, mostly from players who expected to see tall odds ruling against him at post time. They couldn't forget the sizzling speed he displayed not long ago at Washington Park.

Unless Gallant Sir is one of the great horses of the age and is everything his Pacific Coast backers say he is, it is a wide open race engaging the best field which has ever strived for the prize, which will be worth about $5,000.

The Arlington Inaugural was first run in 1930 and was won by Silverdale. He came back in 1931 and captured it again. Last season the longshot Gold Step romped home with Polydorus second and Epithet third.

There are seven other races on the opening program, one of which, the North Brook purse for 3 year olds, engages a number of eligibles to the Arlington Classic. The east is stoutly represented in W. R. Coe's Pomposity, Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Poppyman, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Envoy, and S. W. Labrot's Rush Hour. The westerners in the seven furlong tussle are Charley O, Col. E. R. Bradley's Bold Lover, John Marsch's Indian Boy, and Silent Shot, owned by J. E. Hughes.

The opening of the Arlington season, the quality of the program, and the brilliancy of the Inaugural handicap field give promise of attracting one of the big race crowds of the year. The advance ticket sale indicated that 20,000 or more may be on hand when Gallant Sir lines up against his rivals.

This will be the first Chicago crowd ever to wager through a totalizer. The introduction of this expensive machine has created additional interest in the Arlington sport.

The heads of the Arlington Park Jockey club, realizing that they are to offer the most attractive racing of the year during their five week season have, at great cost, made certain that the sport shall be conducted under conditions just as attractive as the racing itself. They have added further beauty to the spacious Arlington plant and have made various improvements which make it the ultra-modern race course in the country.

LOTT CONQUERS PARKER; WINS WESTERN TITLE

Defeats Milwaukee Star in Five Set Final.

George Lott Jr., of Chicago, obtained revenge on Frankie Parker of Milwaukee at the River Forest Tennis club yesterday when he defeated Parker in a five set match, 0-6, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, for the men's singles championship of the Western Tennis association.

Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., defeated Helen Fulton of Chicago, 6-3, 6-3, for the women's singles championships.

Lott was forced to the limit to cope with the uncanny accuracy of his more youthful opponent, who had beaten him in the same tournament last year. In the opening set Parker appeared headed for his seventh victory in ten matches with the Davis cup player, more than matching everything—Lott had to win without the loss of a game. Lott, however, did not extend himself until the opening of the second set.

Lott Recovers Again.

Lott steadied down in the final set. The score was 2 all when Lott untracked himself. He remained in back court and matched Parker's deadly back hand stroke and then outsmarted the younger player in sorties to the net, running the count to, 5-3.

The final game saw Lott dazzle Parker with service and net play. He drove over two aces that Parker made no attempt to return and had match point 40-30 only to lose it by dropping a soft volley into the net. With the score deuced, he spun on his toes at the net and made a return of a hard drive.

Miss Wolf's Third Victory.

Miss Fulton, playing in back court, over-drove, which was the only margin of difference between her and the champion. In the girls' singles Bonnie Miller of Los Angeles, defeated Elizabeth Kesting of St. Paul, 6-3, 6-3.

Parker and Lefty Bryan of Chattanooga won the doubles championship when they defeated Doc Barr of Dallas, Tex., and John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., 6-2, 8-6, 5-7, 6-4.

Helen Fulton of Chicago and Jane Sharp of Pasadena won from Eugenie Sampson of Chicago, and Kathryn Pearson of Houston, 6-2, 6-4, in a women's doubles semi-finals match.

Open Ryder Cup Play in England Today

SOUTHPORT, England., June 25.—(AP)—Capt. Walter Hagen led the American Ryder cup golf team through a final practice session today for the two day international test against Great Britain's picked professionals starting tomorrow.

A blazing sun and winds off the Irish sea made the Southport and Ainsdale club's 6,487 yard, par 73, layout almost as fast as an American course in summer. Old England seemed to be trying to do her best to reproduce the scorching weather which wilted the British team at the Scioto club in Columbus, O., two years ago and gave the Americans a runaway victory, 9 to 3.

J. H. Taylor, famous old champion and nonplaying captain of the British team, who has been handling his squad like a stern schoolmaster, supervised their final practice shots today almost before the Americans were out of bed.

Abe Mitchell, Percy Alliss, Charles Whitcombe and other British nominees have been playing morning and afternoon over the Southport course under Taylor's driving hand for a week. They've tried every possible shot to the greens.

Dudley and Burke vs. A. H. Padgham and Alf Perry.

Held out of foursomes along with Diegel and Smith were the other two British players, Allan Dailey and A. J. Lacey.

JESSE OWENS TO RACE ON TEAM WITH METCALFE

Cleveland, O., June 25.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, Negro dash star of Cleveland East Tech, and his coach, Charles Riley, have decided Owens will run with Ralph Metcalfe, former Marquette flash—but not against him—in the national A. A. U. track meet at Chicago next Saturday.

The East Tech star will run with Metcalfe, Charley Brooks, and Jimmy Johnston in an 800 meter relay team assembled by Metcalfe.

THERE'S POWER IN THAT BAT, STRANGER!

Baseball fans yesterday got a preview of what may happen in the interleague all-star game July 6 when Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics smashed a homer to beat the White Sox in the tenth inning of the second game, 5 to 3. Here Jimmy is warming up for his deed by hitting a single in the eighth inning of the first contest.

Cooper Beats Armour for State Title

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

It was six years ago Tommy Armour defeated Harry Cooper in a playoff for the national open golf championship. Six years are a long time to wait to even matters, but the Glen Oak star did it yesterday when he defeated Armour in a playoff for the third annual Illinois professional championship in the latter's own back yard, the No. 3 course of the Medinah Country club.

Cooper shot a 69, three under par and one of the best rounds of his career against Armour's 75. They had tied Tuesday at the end of the regulation 36 holes with scores of 146.

Glen Oak Members Collect.

Cooper's brilliant card was fashioned in the presence of a number of his constituents from Glen Oak, who had become so wrought up over the match that they unfurled their bank rolls to the extent of $1,000 when challenged by Medinah members to a side wager on the outcome of the playoff. Judging from Cooper's play yesterday, it is doubtful whether any other pro in the game could have won against him, for from the first there was almost no stopping him. His victory gave him not only the championship, but also first prize of $250 and 30 per cent of the gate yesterday.

The score which Cooper settled with Armour yesterday dates back to the United States open of 1927 at the Oakmont club near Pittsburgh. Cooper was home with a seventy-two hole score of 301 and apparently the winner. Armour made a great finish, however, to tie him and in the extra session that followed won the championship with a 76 to Cooper's 79.

Shoot's Six Birdies.

Cooper's card yesterday represents some of the best golf yet played on the difficult No. 3 course at Medinah. He knocked down six birdies and was over par three times. A couple of missed putts on the first nine prevented him from setting a new record for that portion of the course and possibly matching the record 67 shot by Armour last Tuesday. His card follows:

Cooper showed his stuff early, taking a birdie on the first hole with a 10 foot downhill putt, while Armour's 20 foot effort to duplicate it lipped the cup.

Cooper Misses Short Putt.

They both drew par 3s on the second. Cooper came back with another birdie at the third, running down another 10 footer. Armour's second shot was trapped, and although he exploded to within 8 feet he required two putts to get down. Cooper was over par for the first time at the fourth. His second shot was trapped, but he dropped his explosion 2 feet from the pin, only to miss the putt. Armour's drive at the fourth was headed for the woods at the left, but was interrupted by the left arm of Dr. George W. Cappoll, a Medinah member, and fell onto the fairway. He was on in 2 and down in 2 to regain a stroke from Cooper.

Cooper birdied the fifth by getting near the green in two and pitching almost into the cup. Armour's try for a birdie bounded an inch off the

Warneke Scares Cubs; They Win, 12-3, Then Lose 2d, 4-3

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 25.—There was great hope that the Cubs had come back to life when, in the first game of their doubleheader with the Boston Braves today, they pounded out an 18 hit, 12 to 3 victory and opened the second game with a three run splurge. But the hope was a fleeting one, for the champs thereafter curled up most piteously and eventually absorbed a 4 to 3 licking in the ninth.

The defeat, however, is being charged to Umpire Bill Klem, who made a decision on the winning run that has the Cubs, from President William Veeck on down, very much incensed. It was questionable, but official and final, although Klem may not have heard the last of it.

The amazing reversal of form in the first game was attributed by some to a pitcher uprising said to have been fomented by hurlers grown sick of the powerlessness of their mates. After yesterday's game Lon Warneke went berserk in the clubhouse and, as an outlet to his pent up feelings, he took a baseball bat and smashed a heater. Lon then crushed every straw hat he could get his hands on and gave notice of further violence to come.

Now It's Root's Turn.

The Braves' management presented a bill of $25 for the damage to the stove, but there was no way of underwriting the straw bonnets and the bareheaded batsmen met and decided they had caused suffering enough. They eased the ire of Bud Tinning in the first game, but the future will tell what Charley Root, victim of the second game foldup, thinks about things.

There were points of similarity between the two games, with reverse English, of course. In the first the Braves made three runs in the first inning then were blanked the rest of the way. The same thing happened to the Cubs in the second game. In the first game the Cubs made two homers, Hartnett's No. 11 and Jurges' No. 3. In the second game the Braves made two homers, Berger's No. 13 and Whitney's No. 3.

Drop Back of Giants.

In the second game the Cubs retained the lead until the seventh inning, when successive singles by Hogan, Gyselman, and pinch batter Mowry and a long fly by Urbanski produced a run to tie the score.

Lee doubled to start the ninth and after Spohrer had failed to sacrifice Gyselman singled to right. Demaree made a great throw to the plate and it appeared to some, including all the Cubs, that Campbell had tagged Lee But Umpire Klem ruled that Lee had slid under Gilly for the ball game.

Cuyler to Return to Cubs' Lineup in Philly Series

Boston, Mass., June 25.—[Special.]—Manager Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs announced tonight that he will put Kiki Cuyler in the lineup during the impending series with the Phillies. It had been planned to give Ki ten days more rest but the plight of the champions has caused a change in plans, Grimm said.

Cuyler, it is said, will replace Douthit in left field. The Cub star, save for one appearance here as a pinch hitter, has been out of service since he broke his right leg in an exhibition game in Los Angeles on March 30.

FIRST GAME

The Braves got the bases full with none out in the first inning of the first game and then proceeded to clear them off before Tinning could get the side out. Urbanski opened with a single to center and stopped at second on Jordan's single to left. Berger beat out a bunt to Tinning and the bases were full. Moore grounded out to Bill Herman, Urbanski scoring, and Whitney flied to Demaree, Jordan scoring. Lee doubled off the left field wall, scoring Berger. Spohrer was thrown out by English.

The Cubs did some hitting in the second after being given a start by the Braves infield. Demaree popped a high fly back of first and it fell for a double when Jordan and Whitney stood under it and debated about whose ball it was. Hendrick flied to Berger, but English singled to left, scoring Demaree. Hartnett singled to center, English stopping at second. Then Jurges doubled to left, English scoring and Hartnett stopping at third. Tinning was thrown out by Zachary and Urbanski threw out Douthit.

In the third the Cubs startled them-

Winners in Tribune Contest Depart This Morning.

BY BOB BECKER.

The zero hour for THE TRIBUNE canoe canoe cruisers comes this morning at 11:30 o'clock. At that time the train carrying the Chicagoland Boy Scouts who have been selected to make the trip down the Fox river will leave the Union station for Aurora.

When the party starts the water journey down stream from Aurora it will have eight days of camping, canoeing, swimming, bird study, campcraft and other outdoor sports ahead of it. Camps will be made all the way down the Fox river with the Scouts sleeping in pup tents from the time they leave until they return to Chicago.

Leaders Are Chosen.

A carefully picked staff of leaders has been chosen for the trip in order to provide the Scouts with a rounded program of activities. Kurt Ziehm of Chicago will act as chief scoutmaster on the cruise. Mr. Ziehm has several years' experience in handling boys at the Chicago Boy Scout Council's summer camp in Michigan.

He has conducted numerous canoe cruises on the White river in Michigan. For the third consecutive year Vincent Smith, commodore of the western division of the American Canoe association, is a member of THE TRIBUNE cruise to devote special attention to canoeing instruction and the staging of a canoe regatta. Mr. Smith will give daily lessons to the Scouts.

Aurora Official in Party.

George Ryan of the Aurora Scout council is the third leader of the party. Mr. Ryan acts as an assistant in the commissary department and directs the campfire entertainments, the same duties which he had on the 1932 cruise. Bird study, woodcraft, camp craft, and similar activities are handled by the writer.

The first camp of the cruise will be pitched on the Sidney Whitley farm, a short distance above Yorkville.

cup. They both took par fours on the sixth, and Cooper came back with another birdie at the 580 yard seventh. His second shot was 30 yards short of the green, but he chipped to within three feet and sank the putt for a four. Armour made a fine recovery at the seventh from a cluster of trees surrounding his second shot. They matched par at the eighth and ninth, Cooper reaching the turn in 33, and Armour in 37.

Putters Go on Strike.

Both were on the 580 yard tenth in three, but took sixes when their putters went on strike, Cooper missing a one foot attempt and Armour a three footer. Each came away from the eleventh with a four. Then the Glen Oak pro brought down his fifth birdie of the round at the 11th, his second shot falling five feet from the pin.

Cooper lost a stroke at the 13th, where his second was in a trap and his recovery was poor. They halved the 14th in fours. Cooper scored another birdie at the 15th, where he drove 275 yards and chipped four feet from the pin for a three. Armour went over par at the 16th, where he pulled his drive to the edge of a trap and shot his second across into the rough. Each matched par on the last two holes.

The customers who attended the match yesterday went away with the knowledge that they had seen some of the best golf of the year. Cooper was at his best in making that 69, and Armour was constantly escaping from difficulties which would have sent many another player home with an 85 instead of a 75.

Chicago Horse Usually Takes Opening Race

The first race of Arlington Park's season for the last three years has been won by a Chicago 2 year old. In 1930 and 1931 juveniles owned by Mrs. John Hertz captured it. Last year Warren Wright's Warren Jr. was the winner.

Leading candidates for today's Inaugural handicap engaged in impressive speed trials before a big crowd of railbirds at Arlington yesterday morning. Gallant Sir and Sundot went five furlongs in :59 3-5 under wraps. Fairbypair stepped a half mile in :46 1-5 and did the work handily. Dark Winter went a half in :46 2-5 and Tred Avon three furlongs in :36 1-5.

Eleven horses, mostly 2 year olds, and trained by Maxie Hirsch of New York, arrived at Arlington Park yesterday morning from Belmont Park. Mr. Hirsch and his daughter, Mary, arrived during the day by airplane.

C. W. Hay, general manager of the Washington Park track, yesterday sold to Mrs. C. L. Applegate the 2 year old American Red. The colt, which won the only start of his career, will be raced at Arlington.

Plucky Play is getting ready to tackle Equipoise again in the Stars and Stripes handicap. He worked a mile and an eighth yesterday morning in 1:55 1-5. The 3 year old Jungle King, an eastern candidate for the classic, galloped a mile and a quarter in 2:07 3-5.

Fred A. Burton's Wise Daughter, which won the Clipsetta Stakes at Latonia on Saturday, was returned to Arlington Park yesterday. Mr. Burton thinks she can beat most any 2 year old in the country. Dartle is another juvenile flyer in his barn.

The patrons at Arlington will not go thirsty. Fifteen, five ton truck loads of beverages, including everything from pink tea to beer and ale, were unloaded at the track yesterday morning.

Greentree Polo Team Keeps Westbury Cup

Vonstade Jr., Sonny Whitney, Tommy Hitchcock and John Hay Whitney riding in that order, captured the third Westbury challenge cup polo tournament for the second successive year by downing the Meadowbrook Ramblers, 8 to 6, today at the Meadowbrook club. Hitchcock turned in his usual brilliant performance for the winners, registering four of their goals.

SHARKEY TO FIND CARNERA HARDER NUT TO CRACK

Faces Biggest Challenger in N. Y. Thursday.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey will defend his heavyweight championship Thursday night against the biggest challenger in the history of the sport, Primo Carnera, who packs 262 pounds on his 6 feet 6½ inch frame.

Regarded purely as a fistic freak when he first invaded American rings three years ago, Carnera has progressed to the point where his own improvement has earned for him a chance at the biggest prize in boxing.

The impetus given the sport by the recent spectacular duel between Max Baer and Max Schmeling has led Madison Square Garden to prepare to welcome a crowd of about 60,000 to its outdoor bowl in Long Island City, and predict receipts of close to $350,000. With fair weather these estimates appear justified. A part of the receipts will go to the milk fund.

Although Sharkey decisively whipped the giant Italian in 1931, the champion is favored by odds of no better than 7 to 5 this time. Two factors enter into this situation. The Boston sailor is nearly 31 years old and can't be expected to go on indefinitely. Carnera, on the other hand, is a much better fighter than he was two years ago.

By his own word, Sharkey is determined to retire at the end of this season. But that does not mean he holds the title cheaply. He expects to win and then defend the title for the last time against Baer in September, probably under Jack Dempsey's promotion.

CARNERA GOES 8 ROUNDS.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 25.—(AP)—Primo Carnera virtually wound up intensive training for his forthcoming heavyweight title bout against Jack Sharkey with a fast eight round workout today.

Carnera showed improvement on defense and battered four sparring partners, Harold Mays, Arthur Huttick, Humberto Arce, and Jerry Pavelic with sledge hammer blows.

Carnera plans a brief boxing drill tomorrow and then will take just enough exercise to keep him on edge until ring time Thursday night.

SHARKEY WORKS TEN.

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey resumed his preparations for his 15-round heavyweight championship bout against Primo Carnera Thursday night with a 10-round workout before a big crowd here today.

The champion sparred two fast rounds with Hans Birkie and one with Chester Natan and devoted the rest of his workout to punching the bag, shadow boxing and calisthenics. After a rub down Sharkey scaled 202 pounds.

BROWNS WIN TWO.

St. Louis, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—The Browns took two games from the almost as lowly but extensively revamped Boston Red Sox today, and ended up only a half game below the New Englanders in the American league standings. Sturdy pitching by Blaeholder largely was responsible for the second victory, 6 to 4. The first encounter went to St. Louis, 10 to 6.

Giants Widen Lead; Win Pair from Reds

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The Giants took advantage of a day of idleness on the part of their closest rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, and added a full game to their National league lead today by defeating the Cincinnati Reds in two contests, 7 to 1 and 6 to 3. The double victory gave them a three game margin over the Cardinals.

In the first game Hal Schumacher yielded only six hits and one unearned run. The Reds have not scored an earned run off the right hander in 26 innings.

Wyatt Pitches for Sox Today; A's Name Cain

John Whitlow Wyatt, the hero of a recent one hit performance against the Browns, will start for the White Sox against the Athletics today. Connie Mack's pick probably will be Merritt [Sugar] Cain.

Despite morning showers and threatening weather in the early afternoon the attendance reached the 13,000 mark yesterday. It is a good guess that about 10,000 remained away from the bargain because of the unfavorable skies.

Mr. Earnshaw's explanation for his foldup in the eighth inning of the first game was that his hands were so moist from perspiration that he couldn't get the proper grip on the ball.

Madjeski had to catch both games for the Macks because Mickey Cochrane is slightly incapacitated as the result of crashing into the Cleveland grandstand Saturday. He expects to be able to resume work today.

Sox Win Over Athletics, 3-2; Then Lose, 5-3

possible erasement in the first inning. The old boy put two men out of the way in the second inning, but couldn't fool the next two, so a run scored. Higgins' single to center and Williams' triple to right center did this.

Foxx opened the fourth with a triple to the center field wall. He scored on Madjeski's fly. After Higgins had been tossed out, Williams pushed a homer into the left field upper deck—his seventh of the year.

Galesburg Boys Happy.

Swanson produced a hit off Walberg in the first inning, and while it furnished nothing in the way of runs, it at least satisfied the Galesburg, Ill., delegation which came up to pay homage. The next hit bearing a Sox label came in the fourth and was good for a run. Haas walked, Swanson fanned and Simmons singled over short, putting Haas on third. Haas scored while Simmons was being forced on Appling's roller to short.

The Swanson delegation from Galesburg felt like walking out after what happened in the fifth. Dykes and Grube opened with singles. Kimsey wanted to bunt, but aimed three of them foul, so was out on strikes. Hayes filed to Coleman. Walberg handed a pass to Haas, filling the bases. Then Swanson collected three strikes that will be the main topic of conversation today in the Galesburg coffee shops.

He Is Better in Eighth.

The Galesburg delegation felt a bit better after the eighth. Their town hero led off with a single to right and tore for third when Coleman let the ball roll to the stand. Coleman went over toward the right field score board to pull in Simmons' long drive and Swanson sauntered home after the catch. Then Appling was thrown out by Higgins and Sullivan rolled to Foxx.

Here's what happened in the dizzy ninth when the Sox tied the score and came within a hair's breadth of winning. A pass to Dykes was the starter. He went to second on Grube's bunt. Fonseca picked himself to swing for Heving and lined a two bagger against the left field bricks, sending Dykes home with the tying run. Miller went in to run for Fonseca. Hayes bounced a single past Walberg and the ball headed out toward center, but McNair ran behind second and knocked it down, thus holding Miller at third. Then Haas rolled to Walberg and Swanson was out on a fly to Coleman.

The Sox had a little dynamite left for their last stand, but it wasn't quite enough. After Simmons had been thrown out, Appling singled. Sullivan was tossed out and both Dykes and Grube drew passes, filling the bases. Rhyne was picked to swing for Lyons and was dusted off on three strikes.

Patrick J. [Fish] Murray, chief food inspector for the city and the county more than twenty years ago, died yesterday of heart disease at his home at 324 North Normal parkway. He was 74 years old.

As chief food officer Murray was constantly before the public eye. He campaigned vigorously against merchants who violated food regulations, especially fish sellers. His efforts against the latter class won him the nickname of "Fish," an appelation of which he was proud.

Pours Oil on Spoiled Fish.

Once when a group of fish merchants sought to outsmart Murray by removing tegs from condemned fish and then selling them anyhow, he retaliated by pouring kerosene over condemned fish instead of merely tagging them.

Murray was a close friend of Peter Bartzen, former president of the county board, who died last April 7. In December, 1910, Bartzen appointed Murray chief county food inspector but the courts, acting on a petition by the Civil Service Reform association, wrecked the appointment by holding that no such office existed when the appointment was made.

Previously Murray had served as city health inspector under Mayors Harrison and Dunne. Following the voiding of the county job, Murray was made superintendent of the county public service department. Since 1912 or 1913 he had been out of public office and engaged as a stockyards broker.

Chicagoan Half Century.

Scores of old time politicians knew Murray. Some of them he met after a lapse of years at Bartzen's funeral. He was active in Democratic affairs. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, and came to America a little more than fifty years ago.

Murray is survived by his widow, Eva, and seven children. They are Frank Murray; Mrs. C. F. Allen of Albuquerque, N. M.; William E., and James P. Murray, Mrs. George Field, Mrs. George Theising, and Patrick J. Murray Jr. Funeral services will be held at St. Bernard's Catholic church at 9 a. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

LOWELL, MASS., FIRE DAMAGE IS $300,000; WOMAN LOSES LIFE

Lowell, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—Fire raced across the south end of Lowell today, causing the death of a woman, injury of 10 firemen and damage estimated by officials at $300,000.

The Federal shoe factory, the Swedish Baptist church and 15 houses were destroyed by the flames. Fifteen other structures were damaged considerably, and burning embers, riding on a fresh breeze, set fire to roofs a mile away.

Miss Margaret Pettie, 70, lost her life for her bank book. She had left her home safely as the flames approached, but later she evaded fire lines and returned. Her body was found in the ruins of her dwelling.

The fire assumed such serious proportions soon after its discovery that aid was called from Boston, Lawrence Haverhill, Nashua, N. H., and many other cities and towns.

"I have investments to protect," he once said, "and it is a bad thing to permit large corporations to jam through plans involving millions."

SOFIA PUT UNDER MARTIAL LAW IN ASSASSIN HUNT

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 25.—(AP)—The Bulgarian capital was under martial law for a short while today as police searched all buildings for weapons and suspected assassins. It was the government's first move toward ridding the city of Macedonian gunmen after the passage in parliament last night of a law providing the death penalty for political killings and attempted assassinations carried out by order of any organization.

As soon as the law was passed troops and police occupied the city, closed all streets to traffic and ordered the population to remain indoors until noon. A house to house search was then started.

Even diplomats were compelled to stay off the streets and tourists in hotels were practically prisoners. At noon the military clamp was removed. Nearly 120 persons who did not possess papers of identification were rounded up. Six hundred pistols, 200 rifles, and 200 hand grenades were confiscated. Similar raids were carried out throughout the country. Many were arrested.

With this Voliva requested all loyal members to attend an organization roundup at the tabernacle on Wednesday evening. He also asked all deacons who expected to attend to stand up. A few of them continued sitting, and these Voliva warned to stand up if they hoped to attend the roundup Wednesday.

NEEDY FAMILIES WRITE TRIBUNE, ASKING FOR ICE

Letters Tell How Acute Are Their Wants.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Their own reasons why they need ice from THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund are contained in excerpts from letters sent the fund by needy families. The fund is supported by TRIBUNE readers, and the publication of these appeals is made to show typical situations which could be eased through gifts to the fund. Here are some of the appeals:

"I am writing to find out if I can have some ice for my little daughter's milk because my husband disappeared and I am out of work and cannot afford to buy ice."—Mrs. E. M. G.

"May I ask that our name be put on THE TRIBUNE list for ice during the hottest months? My wife has been ill at the county hospital for five weeks and now is home. The visiting nurse comes every day to care for her. She will be in bed perhaps five months before she can walk. I have been out of work almost two years."—R. S.

"Is there any way of getting ice to keep the baby's milk from getting spoiled? We are getting charity since the little boy got killed."—Mrs. W. B.

"I am getting two bottles of milk daily for my baby and a sick little girl. I am almost frantic as the milk sours and I have no way to keep it from souring. I am afraid of my children getting summer complaint like they did last summer."—Mrs. J. B.

There are hundreds of similar cases just as urgent. The writers are uncomplaining. They state the facts and hope for a helping hand over the hot summer months. Gifts for this charity may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

SLAYING OF TWO LAID TO ROW OVER PAINTING OF AUTO

Police investigation disclosed yesterday that a drunken argument over the number of coats of paint required to refinish an automobile was responsible for the fatal shooting early in the day of Francis Dudek, 24 years old, 922 North Francisco avenue, and George Bartelmy, 33 years old, 2842 Thomas street. They are seeking a jobless automobile mechanic as the slayer.

Dudek and Bartelmy attended a party Saturday night at the home of Alfred Schoeben, 1101 North Francisco avenue. From other guests Sergt. Neil Kahler learned the story of the altercation.

Dudek saw a man standing beside his automobile, they said, and went out. Bartelmy went along. The man, who had been drinking, suggested that the car needed painting and asked for the job. He and Bartelmy disagreed on the number of coats needed and Bartelmy punched his nose. The man went away after threatening Bartelmy and his companion.

When they left the party later, Bartelmy and Dudek walked past an alley. John Garbar, 2330 West Austin avenue, said a man standing behind a telephone pole in the alley opened fire on the two friends with a pistol and fled as they dropped to the sidewalk.

CROP DAMAGE BRINGS PUBLIC INTO GRAIN PIT

Traders Are Amazed at Swift Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A sensational wheat crop situation has brought the public into the market on an unusually large scale. Prices are the highest in over two years and the volume of business in the pit is extremely heavy. Prices have advanced so fast and to such high levels that even the most radical men in the trade occasionally say they have never seen such a market and that it seems incredible that grain prices should more than double inside of four months.

Activity and advancing prices are due somewhat to inflation, but more especially to crop damage, which started in the southwest months ago, and within the last two weeks has developed to a surprising extent in the spring wheat sections of the American and Canadian northwest. A dry, hot June has always made it practically impossible to raise large crops of spring wheat, oats, rye, or barley in the American and Canadian northwest and it is said that unless there are good general rains and lower temperatures soon production will be the smallest in years.

Crop Near Needs.

The United States may not raise more than enough wheat for bread and seed requirements, which are estimated around 625,000,000 bushels. However, there is a large carryover of around 350,000,000 bushels, which will more than make up any deficit.

Canada is likely to have a short crop and some of the European countries are reporting shorter yields than last year, so that unless Argentina and Australia raise smaller crops the world's production is likely to be more closely adjusted to requirements than for many seasons.

Reports from London indicate that Australia is holding out on the acreage reduction movement, while the United States, Canada, Russia, and other producing sections have signified their willingness to reduce acreage.

Corn Trade Broadens.

Corn trade has broadened, in sympathy with the advance in wheat, oats and barley, and closing prices were around the best of the season, net gains on futures being 4½ to 6¼ cents. Large speculators were good buyers of December, while numerous local operators, who handle liberal lines at times, took advantage of bulges to sell short and covered on moderate price recessions. The market in all was a larger affair, absorbing upwards of 2,000,000 bushels of hedges against purchases from country holders. Crop reports were mixed, but on the whole favorable. Eastern and local cash demand was limited, with one of the largest industries out of the market all week. At the close July was 49½ cents; September, 53⅜ @ 53½ cents, and December, 57⅝@57⅞ cents, or slightly below the week's highest level. Prices for the week follow:

Oats Crop Badly Damaged.

Widespread damage to the oat crop was regarded as sensational and with other grains advancing oats were bought heavily by cash and speculative interests, which carried prices up 6 to 7 cents a bushel from the low point of the week and 9 to 19 cents from the inside of the previous week. Extremely hot weather with lack of moisture caught the crop in a critical condition and indications are for the smallest crop in years. The close was at net gains of 7½ to 7¾ cents for the week.

Damage to the rye crop in the northwest, where the bulk of the country's crop is raised, is more serious than at first reported. With leading bull interest said to have been active in advancing prices, outside buying increased and rye specialists predict there will be the smallest crop in years, that rye will sell even with, if not higher than wheat before the season ends. Highest prices were made on Saturday, with the close around the top, July being 70¾ cents; September, 74¼ to 74 cents, and December, 78⅝ to 78 cents, net gains being 8⅝ to 10⅛ cents.

END.-JOHNSON BUSINESS SHOWS SHARP ADVANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Improvement was disclosed in the semi-annual report of the Endicott-Johnson corporation and subsidiary companies over the corresponding period of last year.

For the six months ended on June 3, last, net profit after all charges, including provision for depreciation, federal taxes, interest and expenses, was $855,184. This is equivalent, after the deduction of dividends on the preferred stock, to $1.59 a share on 405,360 common shares, and contrasted with a net loss of $4,580 in the six months ended on June 4, 1932.

Net sales for this period amounted to $18,765,537, as compared with $21,277,623 last year.

Dairymen Take Their Trade Code to Capital

Armed with a newly prepared code of trade practices and a plan for stabilizing the dairy industry, leading dairy manufacturers and officials of western dairy producers' associations left Chicago Saturday night to attend the national dairy conference in Washington today called by the federal department of agriculture.

Under the new proposals, the dairy industry would be the third major agricultural industry to come under the provisions of the new farm adjustment act, plans for stabilizing wheat and cotton already having been announced.

New Code Approved.

The new code and industry program of the dairymen was finally approved by officers of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers and the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation in Chicago Thursday. It provides for the creation of a butter council for the basic control of the industry, five of whose members would be butter manufacturers and five named by the milk producers.

Three evils within the dairy industry would be corrected in the proposed plan, these being the frequent and violent fluctuations in the butter market by establishing official butter prices on a weekly basis; sales evils such as unfair prices and rebates; and unfair competition in procurement of butterfat by the makers from dairy producers.

Duties of New Council.

Among the functions which would be assigned to the new butter council would be the setting of basic wholesale prices each week, collection and dissemination of production and consumption data, regulation of trade practices in the industry, promulgation of marketing policies and regulations, investigation of violations of policies, rules, or regulations under the farm act, and to recommend some means to the industry in increasing the per capita consumption of butter in the United States.

Opposition to the new plan is expected in the Washington conference. Officers of butter exchanges in Chicago and other cities declare the new plan would "practically eliminate future trading in a highly sensitive commodity [butter] on whose prices the entire dairy industry depends from day to day and month to month." They also express fear that an attempt to circumvent natural action of the supply and demand forces in the butter market may prove ineffective.

DEFICIT OF U. S. MOVING CLOSER TO 2 BILLION

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Looking forward to improved business next year, when the government hopes to balance its budget, the treasury will end its 1933 fiscal year on Friday with a deficit of approximately $1,750,000,000.

It will be the third successive year when receipts have fallen below the expenditures. During the period the national debt of the nation has increased by $5,650,076,149 to the total of $21,835,385,981 at the end of May, with prospects of another half billion dollars being added to it in June, due to the treasury's billion dollar financing in the middle of the month.

The $22,000,000,000 total for the year will be the nearest to the peak debt of Aug. 31, 1919, when it reached $26,596,701,648, and the immensity of the total can be realized when it is compared with a prewar debt of $1,282,044,346 on March 13, 1917.

From last July 1 until June 22 the government collected from all sources $2,042,450,789 and spent $3,742,457,987. During the period only one form of taxes showed any increase. Failure of foreign nations to meet their war debt payments accounted for about $125,000,000 of the deficit for the present year.

ALLOTMENT PLAN TO BE EXPLAINED IN SOUTH TODAY

Atlanta, Ga., June 25. — (AP) — The governments offer to pay for the privilege of giving the cotton farmer the benefits of planned production, with the idea of using the anticipated business stimulus as a lever to help the nation out of the economic mire, will be presented to 2,000,000 growers of the south's big money crop in the week beginning tomorrow.

The offer, with the immediate objective of retiring from cotton production about 10,000,000 acres already planted and expected to produce around 3,000,000 bales, will be carried to the farmers by their own leaders.

County committees, headed by county agents and with other leaders of business and farm life as members, have been set up under the state agencies which comprise the state extension forces. These county committees in turn have set up, all over the cotton belt from Virginia to California, local committees of volunteer workers in the rural communities. These groups will explain the plan.

GERMANY'S LONG TERM CREDITORS WILL MEET TODAY

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—Representatives of Germany's long term creditors met here today to prepare a common front on reopenig tomorrow of negotiations with Dr. Hjamar Schacht, president of the reichsbank.

Twenty-five representatives of bankers in the United States, Switzerland, Great Britain, and Holland participated in today's preliminary meeting.

An attempt will be made to reach an accord on the long term debts, excepting the Young and Dawes loans which were partly settled last week when Dr. Schacht said he was unable to continue service on other long term obligations consisting chiefly of loans to municipalities and states.

American Can Directors Will Meet on Dividend

2 Furniture Shows Open in Marts Here

Furniture shows and exhibits of allied lines which open here this morning are expected to attract thousands of buyers from all over the United States and Canada to Chicago during a buying period which closes July 5.

At the Furniture Mart some 5,000 buyers are expected to attend the semi-annual national furniture show which will continue until July 15. A floor covering exhibition will run in conjunction with it.

Over at the Merchandise Mart the Century of Progress furniture market, a special floor covering exhibit and the national Chicago lamp show will run through July 14. In connection with these events, T. J. Reed, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said he expects the greatest amount of traffic to pass through the building—the largest in the world—that has ever gone through in a similar period.

"We feel extremely enthusiastic for future business," Mr. Reed added. "The interest that buyers are displaying in coming markets is the most encouraging sign to date."

In both furniture shows, the modern design has a prominent place. At the Furniture Mart it is said that early American displays will run a close second in interest and possibly first in volume on view. The return of beer has had an influence on the furniture being shown.

Furniture men at the Furniture Mart expressed the opinion yesterday that prices are approximately 10 per cent higher for the opening today than they were last season. Even at these figures manufacturers are said to be hedging on orders for future delivery, since the effect on their business of the provisions of the industrial recovery act is still unknown. The furniture industry's code has been drafted, under which a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour and shorter working hours at expected.

GREAT NORTHERN DECLARES BOND PLAN OPERATIVE

William P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern Railway company, announced yesterday that the plan providing for the extension of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway company consolidated mortgage gold bonds, assumed by the Great Northern, has been declared operative, holders of more than 80 per cent of the $41,963,000 bonds outstanding having assented to the plan.

Under the plan, the maturity will be extended until July 1, 1943, with interest at 5 per cent and a cash payment of $38.10 per $1,000 bond, giving an effective yield to maturity of 5½ per cent. Bondholders desiring to extend their bonds in accordance with the plan may still do so by depositing them with J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, depositary, or the First National Bank of St. Paul, St. Paul, Minn., subdepositary.

In connection with the plan for extension the First National Bank of the City of New York has announced that it will purchase at the principal amount and accrued interest any of the bonds not deposited under the plan, which are tendered to it prior to or on July 1, 1933.

New York Cotton Exchange Group Asks July 3 Holiday

Members of the New York cotton exchange are circulating a petition to close the exchange on Monday, July 3. A similar petition requesting that the stock exchange suspend activity on the day before the fourth has about 600 signatures.

SNELL ASSAILS CONGRESS ACTS OF DEMOCRATS

Extravagence Charged by G. O. P. Leader.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mr. Snell blamed the Democratic majorities of congress for all the sins of the session, and, in a 5,000 word statement, marked "extension of remarks," the Republican leader charged the Democrats with leading the country into evil ways.

Charges Taxes Piled Up.

The Snell indictment included among the counts against Democracy that the session was extravagant; that it piled up taxes, budgets and bond issues with prodigal abandon; that it ignored the economy plank of the Democratic platform; that it made the government repudiate its obligations; that by fancy bookkeeping and the keeping of two budgets the public was being misled into a belief that the national budget was balanced—all this and much more, Mr. Snell complained of at great length.

"The congress appropriated more money," he said, "levied more and heavier new taxes and authorized a larger bond issuance, calling for heavier annual interest charges, than any congress in session in the history of the United States—with the single exception of the congress in session during the world war.

Big Appropriations Cited.

"In those 100 days [of the session] the extraordinary session of the Democratic congress appropriated in round numbers 4 billion 400 million dollars.

"It continued in force the new special taxes the last Democratic congress levied, amounting to 400 million dollars. When those taxes were levied a year ago, the Democratic congress characterized them as temporary, and the law provided they would expire as of June 30 this year. But this new congress continued these taxes and added 220 millions more new taxes, making 620 million dollars additional new taxes to be paid by the American people during the coming fiscal year.

"In view of this, what of the pledge of the Democratic party to reduce expenditures of the federal government 25 per cent and balance the budget? It has gone to the realm of forgotten things—just another one of those Democratic campaign promises."

CONCRETE MIXER ORDER PLACED IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., June 25.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has brought busy days to the Chain Belt company of Milwaukee, just as the legalization of beer brought activity and prosperity back to the brewers and allied lines here. Eleven weeks after the legalization of beer, the breweries are running at top speed to keep up with the demand of the public.

The Chain Belt company is working on the largest order for concrete mixers placed in the United States since the construction of the Panama canal. The mammoth machinery is to be used in the building of the Oakland-San Francisco bridge, a project financed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The order is for 21 three-yard motor mixers to be used in the central concrete plant and seven sets of belt conveyors for handling cement, sand and stone. The equipment will fill ten cars.

Retail Dry Goods Code Is Adopted

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods association, complying with the provisions of the industrial recovery act, today announced a code of fair competition setting a minimum wage, maximum working hours and giving employés "the right to unionize and bargain collectively."

The text of the code was set forth in a letter to members of the association from Lew Hahn, president.

The communication pointed out that the code is "tentative," and that it has not as yet been accepted by Gen Hugh Johnson, administrator of the law.

The code provides a maximum week of 48 hours, gives employés the right to bargain collectively for their own "mutual aid or protection," and sets minimum wages of from $9 to $18 for various classes of labor.

Employés in the lowest wage brackets of $9 are "junior workers," male or female, under 18 years of age in sections outside metropolitan areas of from 250,000 to 1,000,000 population and with less than one year's experience.

Those in the $18 bracket are adult male workers with one year of experience in the larger metropolitan areas.

The "unfair competition" section provided, among other things, that no one shall "sell, offer for sale or advertise to the public at retail any merchandise at less than the net invoice cost plus 10 per cent to insure that labor cost shall at least be partially covered."

FEDERAL HOME BOARD APPROVES $56,856,872 LOANS

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Directors of the Federal Home Loan System have authorized a total of $56,856,872 in loans to member institutions.

In the board's weekly report it is said that for the week ending June 17, it had authorized an additional $13,260,747 in lines of credit to member institutions and that the Home Loan banks had approved loans of $1,975,668 in the week.

The board said it had approved the applications of 18 new home financing institutions for membership in the system. The institutions subscribed for 3,623 shares of stock to the value of $362,300.

Lehigh Valley Operates First Chicago Tour Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The Lehigh Valley railroad will operate its first Century of Progress tour to Chicago tomorrow. The tour will occupy from eleven to fourteen days and will include a great lakes cruise. It is one of seven similar ones of the all-expense type which the railroad is promoting.

STEEL OUTPUT SWELLS TO OVER HALF CAPACITY

Advances in Prices Are Deferred.

The steelworks operating rate rose 2 points to 51 per cent last week and it seems certain that a further gain will be recorded this week, according to the magazine Steel. Pig iron has backed up steel with resumption of four more blast furnaces, and a strong demand for basic iron has developed in the east.

Five point advances were made in the steelworks rate last week at Chicago, to 50 per cent; at Pittsburgh, to 41 per cent; and in eastern Pennsylvania, to 33½ per cent. In the Buffalo district, the rate increased 11 points to 48 per cent; and in New England, 10½ points to 81½ per cent. The Wheeling district remained at 84 per cent; Cleveland at 79; Youngstown, 52; Birmingham, 50; and Detroit, 38.

Delay Price Advances.

"Predominant conservative opinion among iron and steel executives appears to be rallying to the position of the industrial recovery administration that price advances be deferred until after wages have been raised," observes the magazine.

"This week when executives meet in New York to consider the iron and steel industry's trade practice code, a determination of prices is expected. In the meantime the intrinsic strength of the markets, regardless of any artificial support, is manifest in isolated advances, such as 50 to 75 cents a ton on coke, $5 a ton on rivets, and short range selling on practically all products."

The magazine says that pending a decision on prices hot rolled strip steel is being sold through the quarter at the recent advance of $2 a ton. Moreover, wire rods, wire, and nuts and bolts are being booked for July, with delivery to Aug. 15, at present prices. Current prices are being quoted for July by producers of plates, shapes, and bars.

Heavy Demand Greater.

The demand for heavy finished steel is more pronounced, says the review. Structural shape awards, amounting to 17,193 tons, include 4,600 tons for the Pennsylvania railroad's Baltimore pier. Furthermore, about 20,000 tons of cast and steel pipe and structural shapes have been placed by Southern Alkali corporation, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company.

"Bids will be taken July 26 on seventeen naval vessels, the first group of thirty-two authorized, and for these 40,000 tons of steel will be required, mainly plates," reports the review.

"Railroads are concentrating purchases for repairs to rolling stock and bridges, releases for these purposes increasing substantially. In some districts a shortage of cars for shipping scrap is noted. Inquiries for farm implements for fall delivery show further improvement."

Exports of iron and steel rose 23 per cent in May to 123,069 gross tons, the largest since October, 1930. Imports fell 6 per cent to 26,295 tons.

Prima Company Increases Refrigeration Capacity

The Prima company is increasing its refrigeration capacity from 350 to 550 tons with a steam driven unit now being installed by the Vilter company, Milwaukee, H. F. Ernst, president, stated yesterday. The unit will be in operation within a week.

Chicago Area Employment Shows Gain

Both employment and pay rolls showed marked increases in May over the preceding month in the Seventh federal reserve district, according to the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago.

Employment in 2,870 reporting concerns advanced 4.2 per cent in volume from April 15 to May 15, 1933, thereby returning to the level held before the March decline. Pay rolls rose 13.3 per cent, attaining a volume unequaled since July, 1932.

All ten of the manufacturing groups, numbering 2,247 reporting establishments, shared in the expansion of employment and wage payments, which showed gains of 5.5 per cent and 16.5 per cent, respectively. The gains in these industries during the last two months compare with average decreases of about 1½ per cent each in employment and pay rolls for these months during the six years, 1924 to 1929.

Show Wage Increases.

The four nonmanufacturing groups showed an increase of 4.5 per cent in wage payments, but a decrease of .2 per cent in employment, according to the federal reserve report.

Practically all metal using industries as well as the primary producers of iron and steel increased working forces and wage payments in May. Employment advanced 5.6 per cent and pay rolls, 19.4 per cent. The level of each is larger now than at any time since last June.

Vehicles increased working forces 6.9 per cent and pay rolls, 23.9 per cent in May. The latter gain, said the report, reflected a return to more normal time schedules than have prevailed for some time.

Increased production of automobiles quickened the rubber goods industry, which enlarged its employment 3.2 per cent and its pay rolls as much as 30.4 per cent. The figures are for firms in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Lumber Industries Gain.

Lumber industries showed an unusual amount of activity, with employment 9.5 per cent and pay rolls 20.7 per cent greater than in the preceding month.

Gains were also evident in the leather manufacturing industry, the food products group, stone-clay-glass products, the textile industries, the chemicals group, and paper and printing.

Of the four major nonmanufacturing industry groups included in the survey, only one—the building and contracting industries—showed a rise in employment volume, 22.9 per cent. The gain of the group in pay rolls was as high as 42 per cent. The public utilities group was the only other nonmanufacturing industry to show an increase in pay rolls, 4.6 per cent.

STOCKS ENTER INTO SUMMER AT HIGH LEVELS

Wall Street Expects Trade to Ease.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Contrary to the established seasonal trend, the stock market rise was carried into the summer last week before the sweeping tide of the business upturn.

On the whole, the market looked less convincing, while intermittent flurries of fresh buying imparted determined strength to the share list. profit taking setbacks were frequent, giving rise to the belief that prices had risen as far as they should until the fog is lifted from the immediate horizon. It was the consensus that the market is settling down temporarily in a trading range.

News Continues Good.

There was no dearth of favorable industrial news. The development of prime importance was that production and movement of goods continued another week beyond the time when the pace usually slackens. At the same time the speculative fraternity received further inspiration from a rapidly declining dollar, although the market at the end of the week was increasingly indifferent to that stimulus.

An ebb in bullish enthusiasm set in early in the week after the market on a buoyant rally from the mid June corrective reaction, had failed to push through to new highs on the spring advance. But the main current of optimism suffered no appreciable loss of strength.

Regardless of developments at the London conference, a halt in the spring advance was in order to allow the market to digest its gains and to wait for business to show its stamina on the recovery movement.

Clings to Side Lines.

For the moment Wall Street is inclined to cling to a side line attitude, as far as aggressive action in speculative markets is concerned, until the battle over stabilization of currencies is decided and the fate of the conference becomes clearer.

There is a widespread belief in Wall Street that the dollar, left to its own devices, will not go much lower regardless of stabilization agreements because of its inherent strength. Only a decision by the administration to devalue it to a much lower level in terms of gold would cause a further

REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA

Republic of Colombia Loans

Coupons due July 1, 1933 and January 1, 1934, on 6% External Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated July 1, 1927.

Coupons due October 1, 1933, on 6% External Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of 1928, dated April 1, 1928.

Agricultural Mortgage Bank (Colombia) Loans

Coupons due April 1 and October 1, 1933, on 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated April 1, 1926.

Coupons due April 15 and October 15, 1933, on 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated April 15, 1928.

Coupons due July 15, 1933, on 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated January 15, 1927.

Coupons due August 1, 1933, on 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, dated August 1, 1927.

The Republic of Colombia regrets to announce that, owing to extraordinary and unavoidable expenses for national defense imposed upon it by the invasion of its territory, which gave rise to the recent conflict with Peru, it is unable to make immediate payment in full of the above coupons, now due and unpaid or shortly to mature, requiring the remittance of funds during the remainder of the current fiscal year; but it will pay to the holders thereof one-third in cash and issue to them scrip certificates for the balance of the face amount, in legal tender currency of the United States of America. The scrip certificates will mature on October 1, 1937. They will not bear interest but the Republic will in each of the years ending October 1, 1934 to October 1, 1937, inclusive, retire by purchase one-fourth of the total amount of scrip certificates issued, if obtainable at prices at or below par. The scrip certificates will be callable at any time for redemption at par as a whole, on not less than twenty days' published notice.

Similar provisions will be made for the payment of coupons on the Republic's sterling and franc bonds and the sterling loan of the Agricultural Mortgage Bank, guaranteed by the Republic, constituting the only other external bonds issued or guaranteed by the Republic.

Sinking fund installments corresponding to the period of the herein mentioned coupons will not be met, except to the extent that funds or bonds for the purpose are already in the hands of the respective Fiscal Agents.

The Government of the Republic had feared that it would be unable for the present to pay any cash whatsoever on these coupons, because of the paramount requirements of national defense; but the adoption of the proposal of the League of Nations for the settlement of the dispute with Peru enables it now to offer the partial cash payment above outlined.

The extent of the sacrifices which have been accepted by Colombia in order to continue payment of interest on its external national debt throughout the years of the world depression is indicated by the following figures (Colombian pesos) of national revenues and expenditures and national debt:

	Revenues (for respective year, excluding proceeds of loans)	Expenditures (for respective year, including extraordinary as well as ordinary expenditures)	National Debt (at end of respective year, including short-term obligations and guaranteed loans)
			External (at par of exchange)	Internal
1929	75,200,000	82,700,000	94,000,000	17,000,000
1930	49,300,000	61,500,000	95,000,000	23,000,000
1931	43,600,000	52,200,000	98,500,000	26,000,000
1932	35,300,000	36,700,000	97,500,000	52,000,000
1933*	32,400,000	32,400,000

* Budget estimate

The impossibility of paying in full the interest on the herein mentioned coupons and the difficulty of making the partial payments now offered, may be judged from the fact that the extraordinary national defense expenditures to date, since the beginning of the conflict with Peru, have aggregated approximately fourteen million pesos, whereas a full year's interest on the external debt contracted or guaranteed by the Republic is some six million pesos, at par of exchange.

The coupons above listed should be presented to the Fiscal Agents for the respective loans, for payment as above outlined (those now matured, to be presented subsequently to June 30th; and those to mature in the future, on or after their respective due dates). The coupons must be accompanied by letters of transmittal, forms of which may be obtained from the Fiscal Agents.

Dated June 26, 1933.

BONDS MAINTAIN STEADY TREND; RAILS IN DEMAND

U. S. Securities a Little More Than Hold Own.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Bonds, displaying less nervousness over dollar gyrations than other financial markets, maintained a fairly firm trend during the last week.

Rail issues generally gave the best account of themselves, although moderate gains were recorded by the utilities and industrials. United States government securities a little more than held their own, while foreign obligations moved irregularly with the Germans turning rather heavy.

Carrier Loans Improve.

Carrier loans showed consistent improvement throughout, apparently reflecting highly optimistic reports of increasing traffic revenues in all parts of the country. In some quarters it is estimated that June revenues will be 12 or 15 per cent greater than in the corresponding month a year ago. Although secondary transportation bonds were in greatest demand, highest grade issues moved up moderately. Utilities were somewhat hesitant at times. Electric power output, however, was at its peak for the year. Industrial issues were also far from buoyant, although various specialists, responding to the firmness of commodities, registered substantial gains.

Aided by Interest Cuts.

"Gilt edge" categories, including the government list, probably were aided by a further reduction of bank interest rates. While nothing can be paid on demand deposits, according to the new banking law, the New York clearing house during the week cut the interest on time funds to one-fourth of one per cent.

Large depositors, especially institutions, it was said, have been transferring some of their deposit balances into high grade bonds. At the same time, additional support for federal loans is being given by the reserve system which is making open market purchases of around $22,000,000 weekly.

LETTERS

POTATOES AND GOLD.

Chicago, June 19.—George S. Parker, Anderson, Ind., may justify in his own mind a payment of "lawful money," when "gold" was promised, but the incontrovertible fact remains that when I borrow potatoes and promise to repay potatoes, it must mean POTATOES, not carrots, or onions, or stones.

Any attempt, however subtle or brazen, to explain away the obvious facts is just what all clear minded writers and thinkers are calling it, to wit, repudiation and welshing, nothing more and nothing else.

The fact that congress, our highest tribunal, allowed itself to go on record favoring such a procedure, and seeks to justify it, is certainly nothing to its credit, and can only be excused on the ground of hysteria, born of the times. It is safe to predict that when sanity returns, the problem will be corrected, as it should be. GEORGE M. PHELPS.

BREAKS FAITH.

Farmingdale, Ill., June 22.—In THE TRIBUNE of June 19, 1933, is a letter by George S. Parker of Anderson, Ind. I disagree sharply with him in his criticism of THE TRIBUNE. Your patriotism is beyond question in the mind of men who stand squarely on the ethical code embodied in the Ten Commandments. If the policy of the present administration has not been repudiation, then pray tell us what it is repudiation. What is the correct name for the policy followed in the matter of breaking faith with U. S. bondholders. Have contracts any binding force or power?

The money to be used in the payment of both interest and principal of U. S. bonds is gold. Those bonds were sold as gold bonds and bought as gold bonds. Today we have a depreciated money system. Our dollars are worth about 83 cents in gold. Does any intelligent person think for a moment that President Grover Cleveland or President Woodrow Wilson would have stood for such a policy as has been foisted upon our nation? D. A. M.

BANK FAILURES.

Chicago, June 22.—The desirable citizen is the thrifty citizen, a regular earner, supporting enterprise, fostering employment, a chief contributor to community welfare, the one upon whom local, state and federal governments lean for support, and yet as I fear stands today as the undiscovered "forgotten man."

The following facts received from the American Bankers association in New York are certainly impressive. For the four year period of 1929 to 1932, 5,741 banks of all kinds throughout the United States were officially reported as suspended and 771 reopenings were reported, leaving a net number of closings of 4,970. Figures regarding the number of depositors in closed banks indicate that such banks had about 3,000,000 depositors, the total amount of deposits of closed banks was $3,50?,000,000.

Not only is the freezing of such vast capital a large contributing factor to present financial stagnation, but through such to have rendered helpless so vast an army of effective workers, shifting as by one fell stroke three million active men of industry and enterprise from a position of thrift and independence to one of impotence, may in fact have been the major cause of present depression. In the dispensation of helpful enactments effecting social and business betterments and governmental stability, should we not look their way rather than towards those prone to prey upon the public purse. F. O. BUTLER.

A CHICAGO BOOSTER.

Chicago, June 17.—I note that your price list of Chicago stock exchange quotations in this morning's paper appears on the first page of your daily financial section; this is especially pleasing to me as a member of the exchange and I think it will be approved by the public.

Permit me to mention that I have recently come from the east and have been impressed with the "Chicago attitude" on the part of every one and I find that I am becoming one of those who are real Chicago boosters. It is my sincere belief that with coöperation on the part of all, Chicago can become a much more important financial center.

PACKER OFFERS NEW PROGRAM TO BOOST HOGS

Defers Selling of Surplus to Help Prices.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Having watched through at least two generations the costly attempts of American and foreign governments to control artificially the tides of production and commerce in such basic commodities as wheat, sugar, rubber, copper and coffee, leaders in the meat packing industry as well as many veteran live stock producers view with skepticism any such tactics in their own industry.

So vociferous have they been in the last six months regarding the domestic allotment plan or any other control measures considered for correcting present conditions in the meat industry that government officials have indicated a readiness to delay any possible application of the new federal farm adjustment act to corn or hogs.

Wallace Approves Delay.

Secretary of Agriculture H. A. Wallace is stating plainly while on his western tour that while several proposals for curtailing corn and hog production are under consideration, no immediate action is contemplated.

Nevertheless, associations of live stock producers, farm organization heads and the meat packers themselves are scrutinizing each new plan offered for creating "planned agriculture" in the corn and hog belt of the central west. One of these, newly dubbed a "deferred marketing plan," has come from the ranks of the packers themselves. It has been evolved by George A. Hormel, Austin, Minn., packer.

Chief advantage seen in the plan by its proponents is the avoiding of any form of taxation such as in the governmental wheat and cotton control. Under the plan hog prices would be immediately boosted by agreement between the packers and the government, as is empowered under the farm adjustment act.

Pile Up Hogs on Farms.

The price would be applied, however, only to the volume of hogs required for immediate consumption and the balance or "surplus" would be kept at home by farmers. In theory, at least, the piling up of hogs in the country would exert a pressure to decrease both hog production and corn growing. The plan would provide for a comprehensive collection and distribution of information on production and consumption trends in the pork industry and back into the country.

The boosting of prices would be carried out gradually over a period of time to a point where the "disparity between farm and industrial prices is removed." In order to effect a curtailment of hog production on a pro rata basis among farmers, the plan would provide that all farmers register pig litters as they are farrowed, and again when the pigs are weaned. Local agencies already in existence would be used for this purpose. Upon registration of the weaned pigs, a farmer would apply for and receive a marketing permit, and would be allowed to sell his hogs in the order in which the permits were issued.

Container Corp.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me information regarding Container 5s, due 1943? Has the company been taken over by Owens-Illinois Glass? —K. E. J.

Answer: Operations of Container Corporation of America, one of the principal units in the board division of the paper industry, show the effect of the overbuilt productive capacity of the trade and consequent breakdown of price structure.

There was a slight improvement in the first quarter of 1933, which continued into the second quarter, the result of increased orders and a slight strengthening of prices.

Dollar volume of sales in the first quarter were down 20 per cent from the preceding quarter and tonnage output declined 10 per cent. Loss after all charges was $191,000, against loss of $309,000 in the first quarter of 1932. Previous to the first quarter of this year net results showed an uninterruptedly downward trend since 1927.

Loss for 1932, before fixed charges, was $844,000, against loss of $328,000 in 1931. Fixed charges amounted to $523,000 in 1932 and $581,000 in 1931. Charges were earned 1.14 times in 1930 and 2.27 times in 1929.

Current position has been maintained satisfactorily. At the close of the first quarter of this year current assets were $3,289,000 and current liabilities totaled $768,000.

The $4,695,000 debenture 5s, due 1943, are the unsecured obligation of the company. They are preceded by $3,732,000 first 5s, due 1946.

Metropolitan Chain Stores.

Investors' Guide: Will you please advise status of Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., preferred stock?—G. W. E.

Answer: Irving Trust company, trustee in bankruptcy for Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., announced that all assets of the company had been sold on Jan. 16, 1933.

A first dividend of 10 per cent was paid to general creditors about March 20.

The trustee announced that since proceeds of liquidation were not sufficient to pay creditors in full and since no arrangement had been made concerning the stock, the stock is of no value.

USUAL SEASONAL DECLINE FAILS TO ARRIVE SO FAR

Business of Country Gains Without Any Letup.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—As measured by the calendar, summer is here, but as measured by trade indices the hot months are not yet in sight.

The upward trend in employment and higher wages remained unbroken and the statistical exhibits of the major industries still reveal spring-time ideas.

Advances in steel, electric power output, lumber, bituminous coal, and freight car loadings were the outstanding characteristics of the week in which further progress was reported in applying the provisions of the national industrial recovery act.

Steel Output Rises.

Steel production rose 2 points last week to 51 per cent of capacity, according to computations by the magazine Steel, which looks for a further gain this week. Executives of the industry are scheduled to meet within a few days to consider a trade practice code and a definite policy as to future prices is looked for at that time.

For the sixth consecutive week car loadings registered an advance over the corresponding period of the preceding year. Freight handled during the week ended June 17, totaling 587,931 cars, was 13.4 per cent over the like 1932 week, and constituted the heaviest traffic handled by the steam carriers since April 16 of last year.

Electric Output Higher.

Electric power production scored the seventh successive weekly increase over a year ago, the gain for the current report amounting to 9.5 per cent. Power consumption in New England was 18.2 per cent ahead of last year and other sections—with the exception of the Pacific coast—also reflect more activity.

Motor manufacturers, frankly surprised that demand continues to hold up, are planning to maintain heavy production schedules through June and possibly into July.
